TWO KIDNAP ESCAPERS CAPTURED

TWO CONCORD REFORMATORY escapers who abducted a Concord woman and her daughter and drove them to Lawrence in the woman's car were captured in Haverhill Wednesday night.

Mrs. John F. Magee and her daughter, Catherine, 14, earlier had leaped from her car when the kidnapers stopped in Lawrence for a red light.

The escapers were identified as Roland A. Norton, 24, of Wallingford, Conn., and Andrew G. Michna, 25, of Worcester. They sped away in the Magee car and were the object of a large manhunt until a Haverhill cruiser patrolman forced them into an alley where they were arrested without resistance.

HOUSE CRUSHES $98M STADIUM BILL

A BILL TO AUTHORIZE contruction of a $98 million stadium complex in Boston was overwhelmingly rejected Wednesday by the Massachusetts House.

The representatives refused to admit the measure for debate in the present legislative session. A four-fifths approving vote was needed to admit the late-filed bill but the roll call was 113-90 against suspending the rules so the measure could be debated.

The bill would have pledged the credit of the state behind $98 million in bonds to be floated by the Greater Boston Stadium Authority.

PACIFIST GUILTY, HE THANKS FBI

A 20-YEAR-OLD Framingham pacifist was convicted by a U.S. District Court jury in Boston Wednesday of burning his draft card.

Sentencing of David P. O'Brien, a member of the Boston Committee for Non-Violent Action, was postponed until June 13.

O'Brien thanked an FBI agent for probably saving his life when he was attacked by a teen-age mob that had gathered to watch them burn their draft cards on the steps of the South Boston courthouse March 31.

HUB SCHOOL PLANS PROPOSED

THE BOSTON SCHOOL Committee will meet Thursday afternoon to discuss eight different plans for reducing racial imbalance in 46 schools by redistricting boundaries.

The Joint Center for Urban Studies at M.I.T. and Harvard forwarded the proposals to the committee which must now vote on whether to use any of the plans as part of an overall plan to reduce racial imbalance. The committee must submit an acceptable plan to the State Education Department to comply with the imbalance law.

BESSETTE PLACES DiNATALE AT PARLEY

RODOLPHE G. BESSETTE, former state waterways director, testified Wednesday that he was summoned to a meeting on the proposed sale of Bird Island Flats, at which DPW Commr. Anthony DiNatale and Atty. James C. Gahan, Jr., were present in 1958.

Bessette, who was ousted from office because of convictions of perjury and other corrupt acts, testified in Suffolk Superior Court that the parley was to determine whether the flats could be sold. He said Assoc. Commr. George C. Tampouras and Asst. Atty. Gen. Charles Frazier, Jr., also attended the meeting. DiNatale is being tried for conspiring to steal the flats from the Commonwealth. Gahan was named as a co-conspirator but not a defendant in indictments.

GEMINI 10 HIT BY GEMINI 9 SCRUB

CAPE KENNEDY scientists said Wednesday the postponement of Gemini 9 would "of course" affect the July 1 launch date set for the Gemini 10 flight and spacewalk. Col. Jack Albert, Gemini launch director for the Air Force, said during the Gemini 9 countdown that astronauts John Young and Michael Collins would fly Gemini 10 for a space walking space voyage July 1.

Then came the "scrub" of Gemini 9.

"The Gemini 9 flight, of course, does constrain the flight of GT-10," said Dr. George E. Mueller, U.S. manned spaceflight chief.

He did not mention a new date.

NHRR EYES PASSENGER RUN END

NEW HAVEN RAILROAD trustees may file a new petition for abandonment of passenger service by the end of the year. They would not commit themselves to guarantee job protection for employes when the line merges.

Whether another petition is filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission depends on the outcome of negotiaitons with the states involved and other public bodies for financial aid to help the bankrupt railroad before the Penn-Central combine takes over.

WESTERN UNION PROTEST ENDED

APPROXIMATELY 20,000 workers conducted a four-hour walkout against Western Union Wednesday, snarling telegraph communications from coast to coast. The strike action by the AFL-CIO Commercial Telegraphers Union CTU began when negotiations on a new contract collapsed.

John J. Maher, Western Union regional manager, said 500 Boston workmen returned to their jobs at 4 p.m. and full service was restored immediately.

Affected by the walkout were a number of federal communications networks, including one for the Air Force. A union source said there were enough management employes still at work to keep the Air Force system operating, however.

SECRET BOMB RIPS NORTH VIET

AN ARMADA of 120 U.S. Air Force jets using a powerful secret bomb turned eight square miles of North Viet Nam into a roaring inferno in the war's greatest bombing mission, it was disclosed Wednesday.

U.S. military spokesmen said the warplanes, striking in wave after wave from morning to night, pulverized the Communist's Yen Bay supply complex 80 miles north of Hanoi, destroying 72 warehouses, damaged 44 other and knocked out 25 of 30 anti-aircraft positions in the area.

The bombers dropped a hitherto secret antipersonnel bomb that shoots out thousands of lethal pellets. It was designed for use against such targets as clusters of Communists manning antiaircraft guns.

KY ACCEPTS BUDDHIST COMPROMISE

PREMIER KY'S military government bowed to Buddhist demands Wednesday and announced a compromise agreement to bring civilians into the Viet Nam government by next Monday. It was hoped the move would end the three-month political crisis that has brought the country to the brink of civil war.

There was an immediate uproar in the Buddhist Saigon camp over the deal that left Ky in office, although with diluted power. The riot was quelled by a chief monk who vowed "There will be no more concessions to the government."

DOMINICANS REGISTER HEAVY VOTE

DOMINICANS TURNED out in heavy numbers in holiday mood Wednesday to elect a president and congress. No violence was reported.

About 12.000 soldiers and police guarded the nation's 3,400 polling places but voting appeared to be orderly everywhere.

The real presidential race was expected to be between two ex-presidents, Juan Bosch, a leftist, and Joaquin Balaguer, a conservative. A third candidate, Rafael Gonnelly, was not regarded seriously.

The 20,000th booklet was presented this week to Mrs. Jerome O'Leary of 293 Islington road, Auburndale, by Police Officer Manley J. Kiley.

Approximately some 5000 additional booklets still remain to be circulated throughouot the community to bring the total to 25,000.

The campaign has the combined support of Mayor Monte G. Basbas, Police Chief Philip Purcell and the entire personnel of his department and the special Crime Prevention Commission organized by Mayor Basbas.

Mrs. O'Leary was particularly interested in that chapter in the official "Guardians" booklet which

Mayor Sets Goal Below $74 For City Tax Rate

Mayor Monte G. Basbas is working determinedly this week in an effort to keep Newton's tax rate for this year under $74.

The city's tax rate last year was $70.40, and an increase of at least $4 above that figure was predicted when the municipal and school budgets were approved by the Board of Aldermen late in March.

This year's tax rate would be about $74.40 if that forecast proved correct.

Mayor Basbas, however, is striving to prevent the tax rate from rising more than $3 and to hold the jump to an even smaller figure if possible.

The city's 1966 tax rate probably will be somewhere between $73 and $73.40 if Basbas is successful in his endeavors.

An increase of $1,168,288 in the school budget over last year will be primarily responsible for whatever hike occurs in the tax rate.

Basbas, who slashed $1,719, 710 from the recommendations of city department heads early this year, allowed a rise of only $301,140 in the municipal budget.

The total increase in the school and municipal budgets amounted to $1,469,428.

Financial experts expressed the conviction, when the budgets were approved, that this jump in expenditures would make a $4 tax rate boost inevitable.

In addition, Newton's share of the MBTA deficit will be nearly twice as great this year as in 1965 because last year the city paid a deficit for only seven months where this year it must pay a deficit for a 13-month's period.

Mayor Basbas has refused to concede that a tax rate increase of $4 or more this year is inevitable.

His objective has been to hold the tax rate hike to not more than $3.

He will be helped by the increased financial assistance Newton will receive from the State as a result of the enactment of the 3 per cent limited sales tax.

The total assessed value of taxable property in the city will be about $3 million higher than last year as a

Draft-Card Burners Rebuked By Senator

An appeal to all citizens to conduct themselves in such a manner that our troops in Vietnam will know we are solidly behind them, was sounded by Senator Leverett Saltonstall during an address at Memorial Day exercises in Newton Cemetery on Monday.

Saltonstall also directed what was interpreted as rebuke at draft card-burners and other persons who violate the law in the course of demonstrations protesting U.S. policies in Vietnam.

"The freedom to voice differences with governmental policies is fundamental to our way of life, and we must guard against attempts to restrict that freedom," Saltonstall, who is to retire from the U.S. Senate at the end of this year, told his listeners.

"Each of us must remember, though, that we have a duty to exercise that privilege thoughtfully, conscientiously, and with restraint, especially when it may affect the lives of our fighting men. Dissent and questioning of policies, yes; but responsible dissent within the orderly processes of government," he declared.

"For citizenship carries with it obligations as well as rights and opportunities, and there is no better occasion than this to remind us of that," Saltonstall continued.

"We know that the morale and the courage of our boys in the rice paddies, in the helicopters, on the air fields of Vietnam, and on the ships at sea is high. They are willing to risk their lives in the cause for which our country has asked them to fight — the cause of assisting the people of Vietnam to hold elections

$100,000 Fire At Norumbega Laid To Arson

A 60-year-old boat-house and hundreds of boats and canoes were destroyed yesterday in a two-alarm, $100,000 fire in Norumbega Park on the Charles River.

The Newton Fire Prevention Bureau and the State Fire Marshal's office are investigating the blaze which is reported as having definitely been the work of an arsonist.

A convertible automobile some half-mile from the scene was set afire by sparks from the park fire. Numerous blazes also were started in dry leaves in the area.

It is reported by Newton fire officials that the boat-house had not been in use for the past two years.

Chief Frederick Perkins of the Newton Fire Department stated that the flames were visible more than three miles from the scene, and at fire headquarters. Several fire-fighters were treated for cuts and burns at the scene.

Hospital To Mark 80th Anniversary On Sunday

Sunday, June 5, marks the 80th year since Newton-Wellesley Hospital launched its mission of human service in Boston's western suburbs.

Incorporated in 1881, the hospital opened its doors on Saturday, June 5, 1886. The first patient arrived a week later, one of 40 the hospital served in 1886. Today, patient admissions total nearly 30 per day.

Over the coming 12 months, the community-owned general hospital will celebrate its birthday in a variety of ways. Highlighting the anniversary year will be ground breaking ceremonies, for a substantial addition to the hospital plant.

An expansion fund drive, now less than a quarter-million dollars away from a goal of $3,500,000, will help finance extensive new facilities and renovations.

New constructon will house various service departments, such as operating room, x-ray, physical therapy, and the laboratories of pathology. Numerous departments in the existing building will be relocated, including special care, pediatrics, and maternity. Capacity of the fully-accredited hospital, presently 260 beds, will be increased by an estimated 100 adult beds.

In 1886, the hospital was one of fewer than 500 in the United States. Patients were served in two frame cottages. The hospital facilities were about the only ones existing between Cambridge and Worcester, and represented a forerunner of the suburban health centers now dotting populous areas around metropolitan centers of the nation.

In 1965, the hospital became a formal teaching affiliate of Tufts University School of

Democratic Governor Battle In Doubt As Conclave Nears

With the Democratic State Convention now only days away, most of the battles for the endorsement of the conclave still remain uncertain and unsettled.

It has been a number of years since so much doubt surrounded so many close contests as the candidates striving for delegate support came down the home stretch of their races.

Shifts on the convention floor probably will decide the outcome of the struggles for the Democratic endorsements for Governor, Lieutenant Governor and Attorney General.

Only one major fight is likely to be settled on the first ballot. That is the battle for the endorsement for result of new construction during the past 12 months.

That is less than a normal rise in valuation which usually increases about $4 million a year.

The exact amount of Newton's 1966 tax rate will be known after the Board of Aldermen acts next Monday night on the Mayor's recommendation for the transfer of money from the city's surplus fund to meet current expenditures and hold down the tax rate.

If Mayor Basbas' recommendation is approved by the Aldermanic Board, there is a good likelihood that he will be able to hold the tax rate increase to $3 or less and that the 1966 rate will be slightly under $73.40.

Rose E. Shriberg at 658 Dedham St., Newton Highlands, where entrance was gained by cutting a rear window screen. The entire dwelling was ransacked.

An $1800 mink stole, valuable jewelry and $500 in cash were taken from the home of Julius Gould at 536 Lowell Ave., Newtonville. The thieves entered the house by jimmying the kitchen door, breaking glass and splitting the door frame.

Between $500 and $600 in cash and a quantity of jewelry was stolen from the home of Louis Conviser at 15 Malubar Lane, Newton Highlands, by thieves who ransacked the master bedroom in the house. There was no indication as to how entry was made to the house.

Furs, a television set and a sweater were among the loot taken by burglars who ransacked the second floor of the home of Alexander Grossack on Woodlawn Drive, Chestnut Hill. The robbers got into the home by breaking a kitchen window.

A second home on Woodlawn drive, that of Clarence N. Jacobson, also was entered and $60 in cash taken. Police said the thieves got into the house by breaking the screen on a porch and then jimmying the living room door.

A number of valuables were stolen in a break at the home of Frank Levenson at 11 Warren Rd., Newton Highlands, where entry was gained by forcing a kitchen door.

Also ransacked were the homes of Harry Wolf at 176 Paulson Rd., Waban; Arthur S. Kaufman at 36 Travis Dr., Chestnut Hill; Sidney Davidson at 200 Upland Rd., Newtonville, and Jacob Kamboorian at 70 Crestwood Rd., West Newton.

Architect Choice

Editor of The Graphic:

As the time approaches for the selection of an Architect for the new Newton Free Library, the thoughts of many of us return to the eloquent speech delivered just about a year ago by Dr. Harold Berman, now a School Committee member, at the first meeting of the Friends of the Newton Free Library.

He described glowingly and inspiringly the potential of this new building in the hands of an unusually good Architect.

Since then we have read in the newspapers of the ways in which architects are sometimes chosen and of the close political connections useful in securing public work.

Should not Newton, now in the face of these alternatives, eschew the low road of narrow political "favor" and choose from among the best Architects in the country one for our new Library?

Newton is known across the nation for its excellent school system, but not, alas, for its first-rate public architecture. In fact, when Architects think of fine schools, they think rather of Columbus, Indiana, where an enlightened policy, consistently followed, has created many handsome and admired buildings.

When the Kennedy family sought an architect for the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library, they did not pick a "political friend," though they no doubt had many to choose from; instead of favoritism they sought excellence, and so should we in Newton and in Massachusetts.

Will the architect of our new Library be one of the group from which the Kennedy Library Architect was selected?

Will he be one from the list of architects of Columbus, Indiana schools?

Will he be one of the great architects of our country, or (for the same price) will be be a political friend?

We have now the opportunity to build an extraordinarily fine building. Is Newton capable of doing it?

Very truly yours,
WALTER ROSENFELD,
38 Bennington street,
Newton, Mass.

Heart Chairman Speaks

Editor of The Graphic:

I am sincerely grateful for the excellent support given by your paper in the 1966 Heart Fund Drive.

As an avid newspaper reader myself I know that in no small way, your excellent coverage and resultant reader support enhanced the volunteer spirit and increased the income of the February drive.

It would be difficult to estimate how much you helped us, but, as a state, we have exceeded our goal in Massachusetts, moving from fifth to fourth place as top donors in the United States. We have a proud center of heart research in Massachusetts and we are now equaling that reputation in giving power.

As Dr. Paul Dudley White pointed out at the onset of the drive, "We are turning the corner in our fight against heart disease." Much of this fight is being waged and won in Massachusetts through newspapers as widely followed as your own.

Political Highlights

U. S. Senator in which Boston Mayor John F. Collins appears to be leading ex-Governor Endicott Peabody.

Here is how the various contests presently shape up.

Collins seems to be building his strength and increasing his lead over Peabody in their clash for the right to run as the Democratic nominee for the U. S. Senate.

Peabody has substantial pockets of support in Middlesex, Norfolk and Essex Counties as well as on Cape Cod.

But Collins runs ahead in the Berkshire, Bristol, Suffolk and Worcester districts and in the Springfield area.

The other two candidates in the Senate fight—Thomas Boylton Adams and John Pierce Lynch—will poll only a handful of votes between them—not enough to force the contest to a second ballot.

A recently completed poll, incidentally, showed that Collins would defeat Peabody in a Democratic primary and that the Boston Mayor would be a stronger candidates against Attorney General Brooke in the November election than would Peabody.

State Senate President Maurice A. Donahue is considered to hold a slim lead over former Attorney General Edward J. McCormack in their fight for the Democratic endorsement for Governor which may prove to be a cliff-hanger.

This is a tight race in which the lead could change as uncommitted delegates still on the fence declare themselves.

Neither Donahue nor McCormack appears to have enough support at this stage to win a first-ballot victory.

Former Presidential Aide Kenneth P. O'Donnell, who is hoping for a deadlocked convention, probably will muster sufficient strength to send the fight at least to a second ballot.

What shifts would occur in such an event is something only time will disclose.

Donahue's Democratic colleagues in the State Senate, all influential in their home districts, have been working furiously in his behalf and have made their impact felt in the fight.

McCormack, who served two terms as Attorney General but then lost in convention and primary battles with Senator Edward M. Kennedy in 1962, has waged an extremely strong campaign.

He was a heavy favorite over Donahue when the two began their contest, but the picture has gradually changed as Donahue has gained ground and potent leaders in the Democratic party have rallied behind him.

The Donahue - McCormack fight, however, looms as a toss-up which may well be settled by last-minute shifts and changes that could make either of the two the winner.

O'Donnell supporters are predicting a convention stalemate which will see their man emerge as a compromise choice. That's remotely possible, but highly improbable.

Robert E. Bidwell of Dedham, the fourth candidate in the gubernatorial field, will not get enough votes at the convention to be a factor there.

Medford Mayor and Representative John J. McGlynn has made so strong a spurt in his drive for the convention endorsement for Lieutenant Governor that the complexion of that contest has changed completely in recent weeks.

If McGlynn hasn't moved into the lead, he certainly is in the thick of the contention. He has been getting very effective help from fellow Democrats in the House of Representatives where he is now serving his fourth term.

The battle for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor has developed into a free-for-all scramble which is not likely to be settled quickly when the voting begins at the convention in the Prudential Center Auditorium.

Joseph E. McGuire of Worcester was believed to be leading in the early stages of this contest when he was the only candidate actively soliciting support. That was before the fighting really began.

Now battling for delegate votes are McGlynn, McGuire, Middlesex County Commissioner John F. Dever, former Executive Councillor John W. Costello of Jamaica Plain, who was the Democratic nominee for Lieutenant Governor in 1961; automobile dealer Herbert Connolly of Newton and Darrell Outlaw of Roxbury.

The struggle for the endorsement for Lieutenant Governor could turn out to be a marathon contest, as it did two years ago when the delegates voted on ballot after ballot before Costello finally won.

Ironically, the Democratic contenders for Lieutenant Governor expect that Republican Lieutenant Governor Elliot L. Richardson will run for Attorney General, while the Democratic candidates for Attorney General anticipate that Richardson will seek re-election. In both cases the wish undoubtedly fathers the thought.

Former Lieutenant Governor Francis X. Bellotti now looms as the front-runner in a hot fight for the convention nod for Attorney General. But his lead is not a commanding one, and he is not considered to have enough strength to win on the opening ballot.

Former Governor Foster Furcolo and Representative Michael Dukakis of Brookline appear to be running close behind Bellotti, with former State Commerce Commissioner Lester S. Hyman fourth. Former Assistant Attorney General Robert DeGiacomo and former State Public Safety Commissioner Richard S. Caples trail the top four and are too far behind to be rated as real convention contenders.

The big surprise of the Democratic Attorney General campaign has been the drive made by Dukakis and the manner in which he has picked up support.

Many political observers felt that Dukakis started too late to be conceded much chance of winning, especially since Hyman had gained an early jump and Hyman and Dukakis draw from much the same elements within the Democratic party.

Dukakis, however, has made a much stronger run than it was believed he could.

A strange aspect to this contest is that there are strong indications of vote-trading between top supporters of Bellotti and ex-Governor Peabody, the adversaries in a bitter fight in the 1964 Democratic primary blood-letting.

What this means is that all-out Bellotti backers, who control a bloc of votes, will agree to deliver them to Peabody if Peabody leaders reciprocate by swinging a similar number of votes they control to Bellotti.

Such deals apparently have been made between the Bellotti and Peabody camps. There is nothing improper about them in the political jungle where self-survival is the first law.

What is especially ironic about this is that Hyman, who is fighting desperately for the endorsement for Attorney General, was Peabody's top lieutenant and advisor in his 1964 primary clash with Bellotti.

Hyman throughout his campaign has been blasting Bellotti as a "party-wrecker."

Because of that the evidence of a Peabody-Bellotti alliance has caused considerable eyebrow-lifting in political circles.

If Hyman finds that he can't win the convention endorsement, he is expected to swing as many of his votes as he can to Dukakis.

Dukakis, in turn, will throw his support to Hyman if Hyman proves to be the stronger of the two.

Of the Attorney General candidates, only Dukakis and Hyman have announced their intention of abiding by the decision of the Democratic State Convention.

Bellotti, Furcolo and DeGiacomo all are expected to run in the September primary regardless of the outcome of the convention clash.

Even though he is not considered to be leading at this point, Furcolo is regarded as a potent contender at the convention. He probably would be even stronger in on open primary. Furcolo has made a soft-sell campaign and has carefully abstained from ruffling any feelings.

Secretary of State Kevin H. White and State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane will be renominated by acclamation near the start of the Democratic State Convention. But they are the only two candidates who will receive convention endorsements without being forced to fight for them.

State Auditor Thaddeus Buczko of Salem will be challenged by Representative James H. Kelly of Jamaica Plain.

Buczko will be favored to get the convention nod, but Kelly is likely to give him a stiff fight.

With all the battle which are shaping up and the likelihood that some of them will last a long period of time, there is speculation as to whether the convention delegates will be able to settle all of them during the period for which the Auditorium has been rented.

There would be little likelihood they would be able to do so if Democratic State Committee Chairman Gerard Doherty had not insisted on a rule banning demonstrations in the convention hall.

New York Show Gives Top Honor To Local Poodle

A miniature poodle named Fancy Free, handled by Kathryn A. Barry of Newtonville, won top honors at the Poodle Club of America Show at Garden City, Long Island, N. Y. on May 20 by obtaining the highest score in the Obedience Trial, receiving 199 points out of a possible 200 in the Utility Class.

The Blanche Saunders sterling silver trophy for the highest scoring dog in the show went to Fancy for the second consecutive year and the Blanche Saunders sterling silver trophy for the highest combined score in Open B and Utility Classes was also won by Fancy. Fancy is trained at the New England Dog Training Club of Boston and the Holliston Dog Training Club of West Newton.

Seeks Voting Machine Test

With the intention of getting a fast vote count in forthcoming elections, Alderman Paul J. Burke has asked President Wendell R. Bauckman of the Board of Aldermen to appoint a committee to study the use of voting machines.

The Ward 3 Alderman suggests that the study committee explore all possibilities and come up with a recommendation for a test in three or four precincts in the September primary and November election.

The machines, he said, could be rented by the city for the test.

Lee Loumos Says:

I read in the last issue of Newsweek that, as a result of repeated consumer complaints, a probe was made in the Chicago area on TV repair charges. It was uncovered that there were many instances of charges for non-existent parts or parts not installed or repairs not made. This is usually associated with companies that have a very low "come-on" charge and any thinking person should know that you cannot give away your labor and overhead costs without intending to more than make up the difference in other and usually dishonest ways. The best value you can receive for your service dollar is based on the integrity and ability of your servicing company. Without these two factors, you stand a good chance of "being taken" but with them, you are assured of what you are honestly entitled to — namely, your money's worth. And we try to put a frosting on the cake with promptness and courtesy.

Booklet

pertains to juveniles and crime.

The Auburndale woman, wife of a well known Boston advertising company head, is "Mother" to some 800 boys who attend Kiddie Kamp in Sharon every summer. This is one of her favorite charitable activities.

As president of the Ladies' State Committee for the Kiddie Kamp, Mrs. O'Leary is presently collecting books for the camp's special summer reading program.

She feels that projects such as the Sharon Kamp provide outstanding preventives for just such juvenile crime as is highlighted in the booklet.

Mrs. O'Leary who also is a substitute teacher, said that the "Guardians" booklet should have as great significance and importance in the home as a dictionary or emergency medical book.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas who is vigorously backing the crime prevention campaign in Newton writes as follows in the preface of the booklet:

"It will be a valuable possession in every Newton home ... much can be done in law enforcement, and crime prevention, through cooperation between citizens and their police department."

Commenting on the campaign locally, Mrs. O'Leary said, "We all have a right to be very proud of Mayor Basbas and Chief Purcell and his staff who helped to compile and distribute this booklet."

Well named "Guardians" this booklet deals with the Newton Police Department's instant availability in emergencies.

It includes suggestions to householders on leaving for a day, or an extended time; how to handle unknown solicitors at the door; checking on your valuables and purse at home or shopping; how to prevent your car, or any of its contents, from being stolen; problems of juvenile delinquency; a frank and helpful discussion of sex offenders, and, even a guide for the use of baby sitters.

Margaret McPhee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. McPhee, 35 Wiswall road, Newton Centre, a junior at Olivet College, Mich., and Gordon Parkhurst, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Spiritual Cause And Reality To Be Explored

Spiritual causation and spiritual reality will be explored in a Bible Lesson-Sermon on "God the Only Cause and Creator" at Christian Science church services this Sunday.

Responsive Reading from Psalms will begin with these verses: "The Lord is righteous in all his ways, and holy in all his works.

"The Lord is nigh unto all them that call upon him, to all that call upon him in truth."

Related passages to be considered from the Christian Science textbook include these lines: "When mortal man blends his thoughts of existence with the spiritual and works only as God works, he will no longer grope in the dark and cling to earth because he has not tasted heaven . . . The age seems ready to approach this subject, to ponder somewhat the supremacy of Spirit, and at least to touch the hem of Truth's garment" ("Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy).

We didn't intend to go into the fruit business, but only last week a customer offered to pay us 100 bananas for a 1957 Ford and we accepted the deal, thinking he meant one hundred dollars. When he produced 100 bananas as full payment, we were at wits end certainly but what could we say — a deal is a deal. It became more amusing the more we thought about it and it gave us an idea! Let's extend the banana theme. Let's offer a few cars for so many bananas to other customers also! Come in and see our fruit display. Whether you buy or not — you get a free Chiquita banana!

Sacred Heart College Holds Gala Art Week

The students at Newton College of the Sacred Heart recently staged their second annual Arts Week on campus.

The seven-day festival featured a "happening" focused on the avant garde arts in America today; a Chapel rendition of Faure's "Requiem;" the techniques of Martha Graham, as interpreted by Newton's Modern Dance Group; a production of Lillian Hellman's "The Little Foxes," and a round of art films, gallery talks and exhibitions.

Special guest performer at the festival was William Alfred, author of the current off-Broadway hit, "Hogan's Goat," who read scenes from that play and from his new, Broadway - bound tragedy, "Agamemnon."

Participating in Newton College's Arts Week this year was Miss Lana Yung, a member of the Art Club, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Yun Pao Jen, 46 Valley Spring road, Newton.

METCO To Be Theme Of Local Meeting June 9

"METCO - Roxbury - Newton: A New Experience in Integrated Education" will be the theme of an open meeting on Thursday, June 9th at 8 p.m. in the Oak Hill School, Newton Centre.

Mrs. Ruth Batson of Roxbury, project manager of the Metropolitan Council For Educational Opportunity (METCO) will present the Roxbury point of view and Dr. Charles E. Brown, Newton Superintendent of Schools and chairman of the School Superintendent's Committee planning the entire METCO program, will explain Newton's participation. The public is invited to attend and learn the facts about METCO.

Present plans call for 50 children to be transported to Newton daily. They will attend classes in seven different schools in the 3rd, 4th and 5th grades.

The schools participating this fall will be Claflin, Countryside, Horace Mann, Hyde, Oak Hill, Spalding and Williams. According to the guidelines of the program administrative costs will be paid for by the Carnegie Corporation of New York.

Actual costs of educating the children and transportation will be paid from a grant which has been requested under Ttitle III of the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act, administered by the U.S. Office of Education. Once a youngster from Roxbury has been accepted in the METCO program every effort will be made to enable this child to complete his education through high school in the same suburban school system.

METCO was incorporated on March 24, 1966. It was organized to seek a partial solution to the issue of de facto segregation by enabling a limited number of Boston children to attend suburban schools and to provide a meaningful educational experience for city and suburban children in relation to integrated learning.

It is composed of public and private school administrators, State Department of Education personnel, members of civil and human rights organizations, parents of Boston school children, local members of League of Women Voters and concerned citizens.

Newton members of the METCO Board in addition to Dr. Brown are: Mrs. Richard Mintz, Newton School Committee member; Mrs. Herbert O. LeVine representing the Massachusetts Federation for Fair Housing and Equal Rights; Mrs. Hubert Jones and Mr. Edward Richmond.

The Newton-METCO Coordinating Committee has been established as a means of informing the Newton community of the METCO program and to serve as a liaison between the community and the schools. It will assist the schools in whatever way may be necessary for successful implementation of the METCO program. Members of the Committee include representatives from a large cross-section of the community.

Mrs. Hubert Jones is chairman of Newton - METCO. Other executive committee members are: Vice-chairman, Sanford Latner; Secretaries, Mrs. Alvin Fortune and Mrs. Dover Smith; PTA Council Representatives, Mrs. Edward Kovar and Mrs. Thomas Morris. Mrs. Eugene Brody and Mrs. James King are in charge of publicity.

Anyone interested in helping with the Newton-METCO Coordinating Committee is asked to contact Mrs. Jones at 332-8183. The other communities involved in the METCO program so far are Braintree, Brookline, Wellesley, Lexington and Arlington.

Democrats Propose Six City Charter Changes

Power for the Mayor to appoint and remove department heads, a smaller Board of Aldermen and special elections to fill vacancies were among seven recommendations for charter reform made by a special committee of the Newton Democratic City Committee.

Terming the Newton city charter "an anomaly in the commonwealth," the committee calls for updating it "to meet the needs of a city of 100,000 people, which faces complex urban problems."

Victor M. Kumin chaired the committee, which included State Representatives Joseph G. Bradley and Irving Fishman, Prof. Gary Brazier, Harold Band, Robert Capeless, Peter Harrington and Herbert F. Regal. Kumin said that the recommendations either will be incorporated into House Bill 2876, which is now in committee in the General Court, or be moved by collecting signatures of 10 per cent of the registered voters, and offering it as a referendum at the 1967 municipal election.

The charter was drawn originally in 1873, and reviewed twice since 1897, with no significant changes, Kumin said. His committee was formed seven months ago under the chairmanship of the late Lawrence Cooke.

Kumin said "this charter is anachronistic today. Members are reelected to the Board of Aldermen by an electorate that no longer exists. They do not offer fair representation to Newton citizens as the city is constituted today."

The committee's recommendations were:

1. The number of aldermen be reduced from 24 to 16; 8 to be elected from the 8 wards, 8 to be elected at large.

2. Candidates for alderman-at-large require no ward residence.

3. School committee candidates require no ward residence.

4. Preliminary election to be held to reduce the number of candidates for each office to no more than twice the number of unfilled offices by a plurality vote. A run-off election be held to permit voters to select from the remaining candidates.

5. Vacancies for all elective offices except school committee (covered by statute) be filled as follows:

a. Ward alderman—special ward election for vacancy occurring during the first 18 months of a regular term conducted in a preliminary and run-off. If vacancy occurs in final six months of term, office will remain vacant until next regular municipal election. Board will appoint winner to fill vacancy until the beginning of next regular term.

b. Alderman - at - large—nearest available runner-up in most recent municipal election to fill vacancy.

c. Mayor — special election for vacancy occurring during first 18 months of a regular term, conducted as a preliminary and run-off. If vacancy occurs in final six months of term, President of Board of Aldermen will perform all duties until next elected Mayor takes office.

6. Power of appointment and removal of department heads not otherwise specified in the present charter would be the Mayor's responsibility, subject to approval by the Board of Aldermen. The Board would be empowered to set terms for the same official.

Bloodmobile At Oak Hill Park Next Thursday

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will hold its annual Blood Donor Day at the Memorial School, Stein Circle, Newton Centre for residents of Oak Hill Park and members of the Oak Hill Park Association, on June 9th from 12:30 to 6:30 p.m.

During the 1965-66 blood bank year, Oak Hill Park residents donated 97 pints to the Red Cross. During the same season, residents of Oak Hill Park will use a total of 45 to 50 pints. In the previous year, more than 70 pints of blood were used by members of the Oak Hill Park Association to supply blood coverage for ailing members of families.

According to Dr. Charles Lipson, Van Wart Path, Chairman of the Bloodmobile Program of the Oak Hill Park Association, donation of blood to the Red Cross is one of the least expensive insurance policies one can buy. Unreplaced blood needed for emergencies and hospital transfusions costs $25 per pint, and this is often not covered by many insurance plans.

District Representatives of the Association are presently contacting all members to arrange time schedules for blood donations. If you are not contacted, please try to be at the Memorial School on June 9th between the hours of 12:30 to 6:30 p.m.

Husband, Wife Team Head GOP Ward Committee

For the first time in Newton's GOP history, a husband and wife team head up a Ward Committee. In a lively and spirited election contest that sparked the meeting this week, members of the Ward Four Committee, Newton Republican City Committee, elected Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Walsh of Arapahoe road, Auburndale, co-chairman of the Ward organization.

The couple, better known among their many friends as Betty and Joe, is prominently identified with Newton's civic and political activities.

The new co-chairmen succeeds Louis I. Egelson, Jr. who relinquishes the chairmanship of the Ward to become a vice-president of the City Committee.

Others elected to fill the various Ward Committee offices are: Mrs. George Janes, first vice chairman; Henry Young, second vice-chairman; Mrs. Albert Holdridge, secretary; Warren A. Sutherland, treasurer.

The committee passed a resolution expressing its appreciation for the dedicated leadership which Louis I. Egelson, Jr. had given the Ward for the past several terms. New members voted into membership were Anthony Medaglia and Donald Magaw. Previously, Henry Young and Barbara Hurwitz were elected to membership.

Members of the nominating committee which brought in the slate of officers elected were Howard Branch, chairman, Roberta Selleck, and Warren A. Sutherland.

Lechmere Sales Wins Maytag Dealer Honors

Lechmere Sales of Dedham and Cambridge has been named dealer-of-the-month by the Maytag Merchandiser, a publication serving appliance dealers in the United States, Canada and over 90 foreign markets, it was announced this week in Newton, Iowa.

Beginning as a harness shop in the 1920, Lechmere has expanded to a large retail operation. Lechmere's became a franchised Maytag dealer in 1945, and is the laundry appliance firm's largest New England dealer.

Founded by Abraham Cohen, the firm now is headed by Maurice M. Cohen, president; Norman Cohen, son of the founder and vice-president; and Philip Cohen, vice-president and merchandise manager.

A special feature of the Lechmere operations is its participation in the Maytag Red Carpet Service program, furnished through the central service facilities of the Maytag Boston Service center in association with Maytag's city distributor in Cambridge, Maytag-Gray, Inc.

In April of this year, Lechmere was awarded the Certificate of Distinction as the top retailer in the appliance-TV stores category at the Brand Names Foundation annual dinner and awards program in New York City. The foundation had named the firm Retailer-of-the-Year in 1959. In addition, Dealerscope magazine presented its 1965 Pride award to Lechmere employes for best exemplifying "Pride in the products they sell, pride in customer service, and pride in their contribution to the appliance and housewares industry."

Appliance department manager and buyer at the Cambridge store is Nick Mastrangelo. Heading the Dedham appliance section are John Zucco, department manager of appliances, and Irving Weisberg, appliance department supervisor.

Plans For Infirmary Land Aired At Oak Hill Meeting

"I am sure members of this Association will be glad to hear that I shall soon recommend to the Board of Aldermen that the portion of the city-owned infirmary land nearest the Charles River be assigned to the care and control of the Recreation Department," announced Mayor Monte G. Basbas at the annual meeting of the Oak Hill District Improvement Association, Inc.

The Association Directors had first asked for Recreation Department control of all or part of this property in November 1964. The general topic discussed by panelists Basbas, Dr. Charles E. Brown, and Dr. Hale H. Cook was "How Can Newton Be A Better City?"

"To the casual observer," noted Dr. Brown, "Newton is a rather ideal community — on the surface at least. We now have our Community Relations Commission to be sure, but we still must be concerned about Newton.

"We should be disturbed by the lack of true dialogues between religious communities; by our suburban ghettos; by the less important role played by the family; by the schools' race for academic excellence often at the expense of interest in pupils as individuals.

"As a society we are too often interested only in people who can be of service to us — with no time left for personal interest in others as individuals.

Recognition of these problems and mobilization of our great wealth of human resources to meet them is the way to an even better Newton," said Dr. Brown.

For a healthier Newton Dr. Cook stressed attention to arteriosclerosis, cancer, accidents, virus diseases, and last but not least, mental health.

"Mental disease does not kill many people, but does make too many of us ineffective. We now admit it is not sin, but an illness which can be treated. The facilities in our schools are being used without shame, thank goodness," says Dr. Cook. He expressed his gratitude for the Massachusetts Legislature's recent action to legalize contraception to facilitate family planning.

Supt. Brown Seeks To Help Solve Case Of Boy Student

Some of the confusion surrounding the case of a 17-year-old boy, whose mother has taken court action in an attempt to have him reinstated as a student at Newton South High School, was cleared up last night by School Superintendent Charles E. Brown.

James Ferreri, 17, of 5 Hersey St., Newton Highlands, was never suspended or dismissed from Newton South High School, according to Dr. Brown who emphasized that he was reluctant to discuss in detail a case pending in the courts.

Dr. Brown said the boy was transferred from Newton South High to Newton High School which has a trade school program.

The school superintendent declared that the transfer was not made because of a $40 theft to which another youth confessed.

Young Ferreri was excused from attending classes at Newton High School but was not prevented from doing so, Dr. Brown stated in response to questions.

A series of conferences have been held between school officials and parents of the Ferreri boy, Brown added.

Superintendent Brown said he would not discuss other phases of the case until a court hearing is held next Monday.

Mrs. Deborah Ferreri, mother of the student, alleged in a suit filed in Middlesex Equity Court, that her son was dismissed from Newton South High School last Feb. 16 for a $40 theft in the school locker room to which another student subsequently confessed.

She said she refused to allow her son to attend Newton High School because it could be interpreted as an admission of guilt for something he didn't do.

Youths Sought By Police For Assault On Man

Police are seeking youths who assaulted a Newton Centre man in front of his home and threatened another Newton man with a revolver.

Arnold Phillips of 17 Jules terrace, Newton Centre, told police that as he was driving home from Parker street shortly after midnight last Saturday, he was followed by a car containing five young men.

Phillips said he was assaulted as he got out of his car in front of his home, suffering a head injury and a facial cut.

Alan Ottens of 34 Fuller Rd. reported that as he was driving on Waltham street in West Newton an automobile in which four young men were riding pulled alongside of his car.

One of the boys pointed a revolver at him, he said, and asked: "Do you want to get your head blown off?" The youths then sped away.

Police have leads which may lead to the identification of the boys involved in the two incidents.

Get Degrees At Carnegie Tech

Two Newton youths are among recipients of degrees at the 69th Commencement exercises at Carnegie Tech.

William M. Krinsky, 43 Philmore road, earned a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree in drama.

Newton Section Of Charles River Gets Tour Inspection

On a recent Sunday afternoon the Newton-Needham section of the Charles River was subjected to hard-eyed inspection by Newton, Needham, and Wellesley citizens ranging in age from preschoolers to octogenarians. MDC Commissioner Howard Whitmore Jr. conducted the tour.

Newton Conservators, Inc. sponsored the firsthand observation of six points of interest as part of its project to finance a Preliminary Development Plan of the Upper Falls Section of the Charles River and Environs. Why a plan for this stretch of the river? Because, with the exception of the Auburndale section, the greatest gap in public ownership or control of the riverbanks in Newton occurs between Elliot Street bridge and the Kendrick Street bridge.

The Conservators point out that over a 70-year period of Metropolitan Parks District history, the Charles River has been best protected from pollution and from scenic blight where riverbank sections were taken for reservation before structural development of the nearby environs.

Therefore, it was pointed out that the Preliminary Development Plan will make more detailed recommendations for the Upper Falls riverbanks than does the New-General Plan 1965 and will point the way toward a combination of public ownership of the banks at certain points and scenic easements which merely restrict further construction along the banks where they are already developed. Commissioner Whitmore believes that protection of the river could best be achieved by public ownership or easement control of a riverbank strip ranging in width from 25 to 50 feet.

At Kendrick Street bridge a comparison was made between the eroded riverbanks left by the MDC flood control project in the late 1950's, with the undisturbed banks bordered by Cutler Park on the Needham shore and by the MDC Waterworks Reservation on the Newton side.

Dumping was discovered near the river on the city-owned Newton infirmary property. Telltale golf course markers pointed to country club origin for at least some of the discarded trash. Mayor Monte G. Basbas recently announced that he will recommend to the Board of Aldermen that the river portion of this land be placed under the control of the Recreation Department.

Unsightly riverbanks at the Highland Avenue bridge pointed to the need for riverbank protection beyond this point from Williams Street to the Upper Falls Playground.

Malodorous fumes were noted which drift from an open dye settling pool across the river to a residential zone on the Newton side. Oil has been observed entering the river at several points.

The Stewart Machine Knife and Saw Corporation was noted for protection of its entire river frontage with grass and shrub landscaping.

Details of the riverbank plan will be worked out for the Conservators by David L. Young of the Boston Society of Landscape Architects. Richard W. Hale Jr., State Archivist and Acting Director of the Massachusetts Historical Commission, accompanied the group and agrees that the plans should include a recommendation for historic district control for an area surrounding the Methodist Church on Summer street.

Roger C. Albiston, Project Director for the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers' Five-Year Study of the Charles River, was an interested observer and commentator. Stephen P. Baldwin, a Concord resident who is employed at The Ucinite Company in Newtonville is doing the aerial photography on this project for the Conservators in cooperation with Mr. Young.

Flea Market To Be Held June 4 Supports Peace

Mrs. Melvin Y. Shoul, of Newton, Mrs. John B. Paine, Jr., of Weston, and Mrs. Roy J. Clauber, of Arlington, chairman and vice-chairman respectively of Voice of Women - New England, announce that a "Flea Market for Peace" will be held on Saturday, June 4, from 10 A.M. to 5:30 P.M., in the Courtyard of 44 Brattle street, Cambridge, for the purpose of raising funds for promoting peaceful solutions to world problems in the nuclear age, and an end to the war in Vietnam. In case of rain, the sale will be held on the following Saturday.

An intriguing assortment of articles has been donated by friends of peace, including antiques, bibelots, toys, jewelry, and books. Additional items are coming in daily and more will be welcomed by the Flea Market committee, headed by Mrs. Leon Birnbaum and Mrs. Irving Schwartz, of Newton.

The Voice of Women originated in Canada in 1960 and called upon women of the United States to join in declaring that: The destructive capacity of nuclear, biological, and chemical weapons has now rendered war and the threat of war utterly abhorrent as a means of settling world problems; that it is an outrage on the human spirit to be forced to raise our children under the gross tensions of the Cold War (and now of the war in Vietnam); and that we will resist war and the teaching of war to our children, and engage in purposeful actions which focus on the preservation and development of civilization, rather than its destruction.

Voice of Women welcomes the membership of any who subscribe to this declaration.

Art Pageant Is Set For Lyons Park Friday, Saturday, Sunday

Final plans have been set for the Art Pageant to be held in Lyons Park, Commonwealth avenue, Auburndale, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 3, 4 and 5.

Tomorrow (Friday) will be Children's Day, with 5th grade classes from all Newton schools being bussed to the park, and with a corps of Burr - Murray Road PTA mother-hostesses on hand to greet the youngsters.

The fifth graders will have an opportunity to study art work done by pupils like themselves in the Student Art Show, as well as an opportunity to view the works of nationally-recognized Newton artists in the Invitational show.

Works for the "Judged" show were selected by an eminent jury consisting of Edgar Driscoll, art critic for the Boston Globe, and Arthur Hoener and Lawrence Kupferman, faculty members at Massachusetts College of Art. Mrs. Elaine Eisenberg, chairman of the pageant, states that the response of Newton artists has been most enthusiastic and both the "Invitational" and the "Judged" shows contain excellent work.

At intervals during the 3-day outdoor exhibit there will be demonstrations of arts and crafts with finished articles for sale.

Mrs. Gloria Kummins, chairman of the Creative Arts Committee, says a catalog listing the works of art and acknowledging Patrons of the Pageant will be given to visitors.

On Tuesday, June 7, the exhibit will be moved into the Auburndale Library and will remain there until June 11. In case of rain, the pageant will open June 7 in the Auburndale Library and the outdoor exhibit will be postponed until June 10.

Church Peace Priority Group Names Rev. Fray

The Rev. Harold R. Fray, Jr., minister of the Eliot Church of Newton, was recently appointed to a 25-man advisory committee for the Priority Program for Peace of the United Church of Christ.

His appointment, by Dr. Ben Herbster, president of the United Church of Christ, followed a resolution passed on March 15 that the United Church Executive Council would follow the lead of the General Board of the National Council of Churches in giving priority to the issue of peace in the months ahead.

Mr. Fray attended the first meeting of the committee last week in New York, when objectives were set forth and proposals made for carrying out this peace program.

The committee provides an instrument to review and coordinate present peace-oriented programs of all the various instrumentalities and a channel through which programs may be evaluated and presented to local churches. The desire is to strengthen and publicize present programs related to peace and international affairs and to develop new program possibilities.

This move of the United Church of Christ which has a membership of 2,000,000, reflects the growing interest of the church in the area of peace and is the type of concern seen in the Encyclical "Pacem in Terris" of Pope John XXIII and the visit of Pope Paul VI to the United Nations in 1965. Similar resolutions have also been passed by the Synagogue Council of America and the Union of American Hebrew Congregations in the Jewish community.

The Rev. Walter Telfer, associate minister of the Old South Church in Boston, is serving as the other representative from New England on the Advisory Committee. Mr. Fray is a member of the United Church of Christ International Relations Committee, having served for the past 3 years. He is also coordinator of the Newton Community Peace Center and Chairman of the Boston Affiliate of National Emergency Committee of Clergy Concerned About Vietnam.

Bowen Submits Report On Weights And Measures

Newton Junel F. Colley Jr.

Newton's Weights and Measures Department annual report for the year 1965 has been submitted to Mayor Monte G. Basbas by Ellis Bowen, Sealer.

According to this report, weighing and measuring has a long history with numerous references thereto appearing throughout the Bible. In a science museum in England is a weighing balance known to have been used in 5000 B.C. found among prehistoric graves in Egypt. As bartering and trade have increased, both among individuals and among communities, it has been necessary to gradually make these measurements more accurate. The evolution is long, and due to modern technology it is only within the last ten years that today's high speed-high-volume, and extremely accurate, automatic weighing and measuring systems have been developed.

The report points out that for three common commodities, food, motor vehicle fuel, and fuel oil, nearly $53,000,000 was expended in Newton during the past year. As small an error as 2% in quantity determinations on such amount would cause losses in excess of $1,000,000. Errors of shortage would cheat customers, errors or overdelivery would cheat vendor businesses.

Sealer Bowen's report states that the value of the consumer's dollar can, and does, change due to wars, depressions, business expansion or other economic factors, or governmental policies, a 1939 dollar now having declined to a purchasing power of approxi-mately 45c. The Consumer Price Index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics records price trends over the years through a continuing analysis of the prices of basic commodities and services. The Index shows the price trend has been upward and has presently reached the highest point in history. Hence, receiving full value for today's dollar is more important than ever before.

In contrast, the weight of a pound, or the length of a foot, remain constant. Whether we live in Newton or Los Angeles, a pound of beans, a yard of cloth, or a gallon of gasoline is the same, for all weights and measures are based on national standards maintained in Wshington.

Weights and measures officials have the responsibility to see that these standards are scrupulously maintained. Over the years, moreover, they have assumed the additional responsibility of initiating improvements in weighing and measuring devices, laws and practices, to facilitate the highest possible level of accuracy, honesty and convenience for the shopper.

The total cost to Newton's taxpayers for the operation of the department was but 3 and 4/5 cents on the tax rate of $70.40 for 1965.

In summary, Sealer Bowen states that he and Deputy Sealer Robert E. Silver accomplished the following during the past year:

Inspected, tested, and approved by sealing 2145 weights and scales, 211 of them requiring adjustment, and 30 were condemned.

Four hundred and eighty liquid volumetric measuring devices were inspected, tested and sealed, 79 of them requiring adjustment, and eleven were condemned.

Fifty-six Taxi meters were inspected, tested and sealed, two were condemned.

Sixty-eight linear measuring devices were approved by sealing.

Over 3½ tons of commodities otaling 4735 items, mostly foods, pre-packaged in anticipation of sale were checked for accuracy of net weight or measurement as stated on labels. 3428 were correct, 574 were short-weight or measure and were ordered off sale until corrected, and 733 were over-delivering.

Six thousand four hundred and ninty-five additional inspections, tests, and investigations were also accomplished by the department during the year.

9 Newtonites On Million Dollar Round Table

Nine local life insurance men have qualified for membership in the 1966 Million Dollar Round Table, the industry's international organization of top salesmen.

Membership in the Round Table is a life insurance career milestone ranking with the scholar's Phi Beta Kappa key, the actor's Oscar and baseball's Hall of Fame.

To belong, a member must have written one million dollars of new life insurance, paid for in 1965 in accordance with the strict rules of the organization, although Life members have earned the honor by fulfilling previous qualifications.

Following are the Newton residents who have qualified: Charles V. Fitzgerald, Sumner Rodman, Aaron B. Goldstein, Nathaniel H. Kates, C. Robinson Fish, 3d., Paul Bloom, Howard J. Richard, Joel M. Huberman and Burton H. Derby.

Park Clean-Up By Youngsters

Three hundred youngsters from Cabot School in Newtonville, armed with paper bags and an appreciation of one of the city's few potential areas of natural beauty, have given Cabot Park a long-needed cleaning-up.

Into their bags, one day last week, went a tremendous assortment of rubbish that had been resting on last year's fallen leaves — a collection that included rusting beer cans, foil wrappers, bottles and trash of every description. Having gathered it, they piled it up so city workers could cart it away.

According to Mrs. Mary Everett, principal of the Cabot School, which is a stone's throw from the park, the expedition was a "conservation hike," fitting in with the school's elementary science program. The project was originally the idea of Dan DeWolf, a fifth grade teacher.

Partnership Of Teachers Meets With Success

Partnership teachers met recently in the Women's Educational and Industrial Union, Boston, for final evaluation of the program under which pairs of women are placed in part-time teaching positions.

A Boston part-time history teacher pointed out that partnership teaching on the secondary level allows the teacher to spend as much time in preparation and correction for 68 students as a full-time teacher spends for 180.

Among those attending the meeting was Mrs. Carol Rosen, Social Studies at Newton High School.

Among the 19 women the Union placed in partnership positions during the 1965-66 school year were Mrs. Mildred Grosser and Mrs. Jacqueline Marton, both of Cambridge who taught social studies at Newton High.

Senator

and to establish a government of their own choosing rather than to see them fall under the domination of a Communist despot.

"So today when we stand again beside this monument, in the memory of those for whom we lay these wreaths, let us remember that we can only give them the full recognition they deserve by conducting ourselves in a manner that gives confidence that we are behind them with all our strength and all our resources.

"On Memorial Day 1966 let us dedicate ourselves to carry out our obligations to those in whose honor we join together in this service," he asserted.

It wasthe 45th time in 46 years that Saltonstall has spoken at Newton's annual Memorial Day rites.

In opening his remarks, the senior Bay State Senator, himself the father of a son killed in World War II, said:

"Again we meet on this little hill in the city we 'ove, beside this monument dedicated to those who have given their lives in the cause of freedom. Today is not just another holiday. It is a day with special meaning for Americans.

"Many of us have made sacrifices for our country or for our loved ones, but there is no greater sacrifice than that made by those we are here to honor today — that of giving one's life in a cause in which we believe: to protect freedom and the future of those who have grown up under freedom.

"We are here not in an empty gesture to those who have died in the service of our country, but because we are grateful and because we believe the defense of freedom is our responsibility too.

"So we are here to commit ourselves to contribute in the best way we can to the welfare of our nation, to renew our determination that the principles for which these men fought shall remain the principles which will guide our country forward."

Senator Saltonstall spoke at the GAR Monument in Newton Cemetery and Mayor Monte G. Basbas at the Veterans Lot in the cemetery.

Basbas paid tribute both to the men and women who have given their lives in the service of their country and to the troops fighting today in Vietnam.

"This day is dedicated to those heroic individuals who throughout our history have given the ultimate measure of devotion in the defense of our nation and the ideals and principa's upon which it was founded," the mayor said.

"Today we are gathered here to pay homage to that memory and at the same time to manifest our gratitude to those among us who have relinquished the joys and comforts of a normal life and are at this very moment locked in a deadly struggle in a remote and distant jungle to defend us and our way of life.

"As we stand here, we can not be unmindful of the probability that before this day is over, some mother or wife somewhere in this far reaching land will receive the heartrending news that her loved-one has fallen in battle.

"This has always been the price of liberty, and despite the dissonant voices in recent days of those who are opposed to any form of military service, this nation of ours has never lacked for heroic men and women who willingly have laid down their lives in its defense.

"This patch of greenery and countless others like it scattered over the face of this earth bear mute testimony of their courage, selflessness and devotion," Basbas asserted.

"If we are to be worthy beneficiaries of this unstinting devotion and selfless sacrifice, let us all dedicate ourselves to doing all that we possibly can to bring about a new day — a day wherein no more heroes will fall, a day where no new soldier's grave will be dug, and a day in which the only call that trumpet will sound will be the faint lullaby to a sleeping hero," the mayor concluded.

An estimated 20,000 persons turned out to witness Newton's big Memorial Day parade on the holiday morning. The great U. S. Marine Corps band came here from Quantico, Va., to take part in the parade.

A plaque was presented to Senator Saltonstall by Mayor Basbas during the exercises in the Newton Cemetery in appreciation of Saltonstall's service for 30 years as chief of staff of Newton's annual Memorial Day parade and in recognition of his participation for 45 years in the city's May 30 rites.

Professors Get National Science Grant

A National Science Foundation grant of $35,700 has been awarded to two professors of Chemistry at Northeastern University, Drs. Robert L. Stern of 15 Walden st., Newtonville, and Barry L. Karger of Brighton.

They will use the grant to further their studies of the separation of closely related compounds called diasterioisomers.

The professors said their primary interest is basically to find out more about the various structural factors of these chemicals.

They added, however, that the practical applications of their method of separating the compounds would have wide bearing in commercial chemistry, the manufacture of drugs and the purification of biological compounds necessary in the study and practice of medicine.

Smilg, who had been watching the attempted rescue from shore, jumped in fully clothed and, after somewhat of a struggle, managed to get both boys ashore, being helped in the final stage of the rescue by young Burke's 16-year-old sister.

Lisa P. Loeb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Loeb, 170 Lake avenue, Newton Centre, was awarded a B.A. in Art at Drew University, Madison, N. J. She plans to attend Middlebury College Graduate School of Italian in Italy.

Mayor Tackles Problem Of Junked Cars

Pressing his continuing attack against urban blight, Newton Mayor Monte G. Basbas sent this week to the Newton Board of Alderman a further request for adoption of a new ordinance to combat this growing problem.

In his letter to the Board, Mayor Basbas said: "For several years we have had a problem in the City of Newton relative to the disposition of wrecked or discarded automobiles and the improper storage of unregistered or disabled motor vehicles, primarily in residential areas. This junk car problem is increasing each and every day and is now become of national concern.

"I therefore respectfully recommend that Your Honorable Body consider the adoption of an ordinance controlling the storage of unregistered and disabled motor vehicles and the disposition of wrecked or discarded vehicles."

26 GRID TEAMS IN NFL-AFL MERGER

THE "WAR" between the National and American Football Leagues came to an abrupt end in New York Wednesday, and the resulting "peace" spells bad news for most of the nation's housewives.

The two football leagues will merge into one, with 26 teams in 25 cities across the nation. All existing franchises will be retained, none will be transferred, two new franchises will be added by 1968 and two more later.

And men! Here is the good news: The giant grid combine plans to continue two-network television coverage.

Pete Rozelle of the NFL will be commissioner of the expanded league. There will be a world championship game this season, according to a joint announcement by the NFL and AFL.

A common draft will be held next January but there can be no competition between teams of the currently existing leagues until the 1970 season. Thereafter there will be one league schedule.

The joint announcement said the NFL and AFL would continue to administer their own affairs during the four-year transition period.

THOUSANDS FLEE HURRICANE IN TAMPA AREA

HURRICANE ALMA dealt the Florida Keys a glancing blow Wednesday and turned its 110-mile-an-hour winds toward the populous Tampa Bay area on the west coast. Thousands fled for higher ground.

The storm, carrying dangerously high tides, bore down on the mainland after slashing across Communist Cuba, including its capital of Havana.

Storm tides were threatening to rise 7 to 11 feet above normal. More than 10,000 persons had left for higher ground from Everglades City, Marco and Godland Islands, the Isle of Capri and from the low-lying gulf and bay shores of Naples.

The Red Cross opened emergency shelters.

DR. KING PRESSES MEREDITH'S MARCH

DR. MARTIN LUTHER KING JR. led 200 singing, chanting demonstrators across the Coldwater River Bridge in Coldwater, Miss., Wednesday to resume James Meredith's 200-mile "Mississippi freedom march."

About a dozen federal, state and county law officers were strung along the line of march, and scores more gathered in a roller skating rink across the bridge.

Meredith, who had started the march from Memphis to Jackson as a personal affair to appeal to Negroes to vote, was released from William Bowld Hospital in Memphis but Negro leaders charged he was evicted.

GIANT SUPERSONIC JET WRECKED; 2 DIE

A JET BOMBER that escaped a crash landing with the use of a paper clip recently, collided in flight with another jet plane Wednesday over California and carried two men to a fiery death.

Veteran test pilot Joe Walker, who held world altitude and speed records in the rocket ship X15, was killed when his F104 smashed into the desert floor.

Al White, another veteran test pilot, escaped from the flaming wreckage of the Delta-Winged XB70, a triple-sonic prototype of future supersonic transports. He was taken to the base hospital for emergency treatment.

Air Force Maj. Carl S. Cross, XB70 co-pilot, did not survive the crash, the Air Force said.

STOCKS GAIN, BUT TRADING SLOWS

STOCKS MADE good progress Wednesday despite a continued lack of volume.

Prices opened firm, turned mixed, then advanced. However, the upswing reached its peak by the fourth hour and prices hovered near their highs during the remainder of the session.

Dow-Jones industrials rose 2.01 to 879.34 and rails added 0.49 at 224.24. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index picked up 0.10 at 84.95.

YANKS REPEL FIERCE VIET ATTACK

AMERICAN PARATROOPERS, charging with fixed bayonets, Wednesday threw back the greatest Communist offensive of the year in Viet Nam.

They killed at least 292 North Vietnamese regulars in a furious two-day jungle battle in the Central Highlands.

The North Vietnamese attacked repeatedly, bugles blowing, with a force of at least 1,200 troops and overran one American position. But troops of the U.S. 101st "Screaming Eagles", Airborne Division stormed back in hand-to-hand fighting, retook the lost ground and sent the North Vietnamese to flight.

U.S. spokesmen said American over-all casualties were "light" in the battle.

BUDDHIST REBEL ON HUNGER STRIKE

BUDDHIST NATIONAL political leader Thich Tri Quang started a hunger strike Wednesday and warned he will not eat again until President Johnson stops supporting the military government.

The announcement by Quang appeared to be a last desperate attempt in the militant Buddhist's faltering drive to topple the government of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

NATO TO NEGOTIATE FRENCH ISSUES

THE NATO ALLIES announced Wednesday night they will negotiate with France in the NATO permanent council on all issues affecting the role of French forces in Germany after July 1.

It is on that date that French President Charles de Gaulle has announced he is withdrawing them from NATO command.

The agreement was announced in an official communique winding up the two-day spring session of the NATO council of ministers at Brussels, Belgium.

RFK, AFRICAN NATIONALIST CONFER

SEN. ROBERT F. KENNEDY, D-N.Y., conferred Wednesday with banned African nationalist leader Albert Luthuli. He then toured a black African suburb in Johannesburg for a first-hand look at South Africa's apartheid.

Kennedy talked with Luthuli, a Nobel peace prize winner at Stranger, 40 miles north of Durban, where he has been confined.

Security men and police kept close watch on the African chief's home during the 70-minute session.

POLICE ARE HUNTING for a boy described only as "Ralph" for questioning in the slaying of 10-year-old Betty Lou Zukowski of Chicopee last month.

Capt. Harold O'Connor, head of the Chicopee detective bureau, said he was not sure the boy exists or what part he may have played, if any, in the slaying. The youth's name had been mentioned several times by friends of Betty Lou.

"Ralph" was described as being aged 17, 5-foot-5 and weighing between 125 and 135 pounds. He was said to have have black hair and brown eyes and to wear black frame glasses.

Tax Rate Rise Held To $1.80

$72.20 Rate In Newton Seen Due To Sales Tax

Newton's tax rate this year will be $72.20, an increase of only $1.80 over last year's figure of $70.40.

This is a much lower rate than had been anticipated. Back in March it appeared that the city's tax rate would jump between $4.50 and $5 to an amount in excess of $75.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas declared last night that the new revenue Newton is receiving from the proceeds from the limited 3 per cent sales tax made it possible for him to hold the tax rate at $72.20.

Basbas asserted that the Newton tax rate would have climbed between $4.50 and $5 except for the sales tax and that the pennies residents are paying now in sales taxes will mean a savings of dollars when they pay their real estate tax bills.

"I would like to thank the Governor and the State Legislature for the adoption of the 3 per cent limited sales tax," Mayor Basbas stated.

"If it were not for the sales tax, our tax rate could very well have gone up between $4.50 and $5 instead of $1.80," Basbas continued.

"I am very much in favor of the sales tax, and I do hope the voters of this city will realize its importance," the Mayor added.

"Mayor Basbas pointed out that the school budget this year was $1,169,000 greater than in 1965 and that this alone would have caused an increase of more than $4 in the city's tax rate except for the additional financial assistance the city is receiving from the State as a result of the enactment of the limited sales tax.

Newtno is receiving $1,112,291 more from the State this year than it did last year.

An even greater amount will come to the city in 1967 if the limited sales tax is in effect for a full 12 months. It did not go into effect this year until April 1.

Suspense, Thrills In Store For TV Convention Viewers

Suspense, drama, thrills and excitement will be in store for politically-minded viewers who watch the Democratic State Convention on television this weekend.

The major fights for convention endorsements will be see-saw struggles, with the tide of battle first favoring one contender and then swinging to another.

Even in the contest for the Democratic endorsement for U. S. Senator, where Boston Mayor John F. Collins apparently has the stamp of a winner, Collins is not likely to open a decisive lead over ex-Governor Endicott Peabody until the last fourth of the balloting.

Public Hearing Held On Street Acceptance Vote

Opinion was evenly divided among residents of the area who attended a public hearing Monday night in City Hall on acceptance of Edge Hill road from Hammondswood road to Intervale road, and from Edge Hill road to Hobart road, Chestnut Hill, as public streets.

Leon Margolis of 30 Edge Hill road, first of the proponents to speak, said that those who live on the streets appear to be second-class citizens, and that it is embarrassing to them when out-of-state persons visit them and have to drive on the unpaved streets. Even the police and firemen hate to enter the area, he said.

Others who spoke in favor of acceptance were Ralph M. Goldstein, 22 Edge Hill road, and Herbert H. Goldberg, 49 Edge Hill road.

J. Alex Lane, an attorney of 339 Auburn street, Auburndale, appeared on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Marcus, 41 Edge Hill road, objectors to acceptance of the streets. He said there were 26 young children in the area who would be endangered by the increased traffic should the streets be paved. Edge Hill road is an acceptable street as it is, he maintained. Atty. Lane submitted a petition signed by eight objectors out of the 12 property owners on the street.

William Burke, 161 Hobart road, said he was not against paving the streets for the reasons given at the hearing, and suggested that a study be conducted to determine whether there is a problem.

In a show of hands, five property owners were in favor of acceptance and five opposed.

No opposition was recorded to acceptance under the betterment law of Renee Terr., Newton Centre, from Warren street northerly to the end.

Plan Reception Today For Retiring Teacher

MRS. DOROTHY HUSS

Dorothy Stafford Huss is retiring this summer as a teacher and counselor in Newton High School. Mrs. Huss received her early education in the South Orange - Maplewood, New Jersey, Public School, did her undergraduate work at Pembroke College in Brown University, and received her master's degree from Boston University. Before marriage she taught science in the Union and Springfield, New Jersey, schools.

A reception in her honor will be held today, Thursday, from 3 to 4 p.m. at Newton High School where present and former colleagues will meet to wish her a happy retirement.

During World War II she was asked to return to teaching and taught General Science at Bigelow Junior High School in Newton.

When the war terminated Mrs. Huss entered Newton High School to teach chemistry, physiology, and economic geography to the G.I.'s who wanted to complete their high school education.

In 1949 she organized a general curriculum at Newton for those terminal pupils who did not desire a business or trade course.

This curriculum is a pupil-centered program with the aim of teaching each pupil to become a self-supporting citizen who will be accepted in the community. Throughout the years, many changes and modifications have been made within the curricula and courses in order to adapt it to the needs of each individual so he will be better prepared in the changing environment into which he will enter.

Several years ago, Mrs. Huss organized a work-study program for her seniors, which has been very successful.

Mrs. Huss has been active in many outside organizations. She is a member of two honorary educational sororities — Delta Kappa Gamma and Pi Lambda Theta. She has worked on committees and held office in the Newton Teachers' Federation.

She helped organize the Special Class P.T.A. of Newton, and has been program chairman for several years. She has been active in the Pembroke Alumnae Chapter of Boston, and Trinity Church of Newton Centre. When her daughter was young, she participated in Girl Scout activities.

With all these activities, she has had time to be a wife and mother. Her husband, an insurance examiner, has joined her in many activities, and has been a real partner in her career. She is very proud of her daughter Cally, mother of two childen, who lives in Santa Barbara, California; and her son, Robert, a program engineer who lives in East Longmeadow, Mass., with his family.

When Mrs. Huss has leisure time she is busy making sea glass window medallions as well as knitting sweaters, or sewing clothes for her four grandchildren. She summers at East Chop on Martha's Vineyard Island enjoying swimming, fishing, reading, and working in her flower garden.

Upon retirement she plans to live on the island for at least six months every year and then travel. She and her husband have planned a trip to Puerto Rico this October. They hope to spend next winter in southern California, taking a few weeks out to fulfill a dream of long standing, a visit to Hawaii.

Mrs. Huss feels that with consistent discipline, sympathetic understanding and personal guidance each pupil can find success in high school. As an English teacher and counselor she was able to work with her pupils very closely and give each individual a great deal of guidance throughout these years. This personal contact has resulted in few dropouts from the program.

Girl Student Is Chosen For Top Science Program

Glenda Joan Starr, 28 Brandeis Rd., Newton Centre, will be one of 101 high school science honor students, who will participate in the 8th annual High School Honors Science Program to be held at Michigan State University, June 19 to July 29. She is a student at Newton South High School.

The program instituted for extremely high-ability juniors, is restricted to 101 participants who represent 24 states, and who were selected from a record of 1,015 applicants.

Five hundred of those who scored above the 995 percentile on every qualifying test were turned away.

The program director, Dr. Isobel Blyth, associate professor of mathematics at Michigan State, reports competition so extraordinary that a self-revealing essay became a distinguishing factor in the final screening.

The intensive program includes advanced instruction in mathematics, physics, biology and chemistry.

Participants in the program will reside in Snyder Hall, with full student privileges, and work with the university's finest scientists.

Tests will enable students to know how they rank in "the most competitive situation they have ever known" but no records will be sent to their home schools. There will be no grades, no credits.

In the Attorney General contest the Newton tally stands 19 for Dukakis, six for former Lieutenant Governor Francis X. Bellotti and two for ex-Governor Foster Furcolo, a Newton resident.

Automobile dealer Herbert Connolly of Newton will get most of the city's convention vote on the first ballot in the Lieutenant Governor fight.

Newton will send 24 delegates to the Democratic State Convention. Three Democratic State Committee members, who reside in the city, also have votes at the conclave, making a total of 27 Newton votes.

Neither Peabody nor Mcmack will get as many Newton votes this year as at past conventions.

Two years ago, Peabody bested Bellotti 24-4 on the Newton count. This time Peabody is just about splitting the city evenly with Collins and might conceivably lose it to the Boston Mayor by a vote or two, depending on how one delegate casts his ballot.

In his losing fight with Senator Edward M. Kennedy in 1962, McCormick topped Ted Kennedy 24-4 on the Newton tally.

McCormack in his present fight is getting 16 votes to six for Donahue, three for O'Donnell and two which are uncommitted. Even if McCormack were to get both of the uncommitted votes, he would still fall well short of his 1962 Newton vote.

Dukakis has rallied strong support in Newton in his drive for the endorsement for Attorney General.

Garden Club Stand

Editor of The Graphic:

The Newton Highlands Garden Club has voted unanimously against two destructive, anti - conservationist measures in committee in Congress.

Both bills are sponsored by the Department of the Interior. The Senate measure is in charge of Hon. Henry M. Jackson, Chairman Senate Committee on Insular and Interior Affairs. This is an astounding plan to cut out of our famous Olympic National Park in the State of Washington, sixty-nine thousand acres of priceless virgin forest and turn it over to the tender mercies of the lumber interests. This is an incredible attack on one of our most valuable parks, one if successful would mean repeated assaults by these human predators on all our national parks.

Some of the greatest specimens in the world of several species of western timber in this glorious "rain forest" are in this condemned tract. In hundreds of years nature could not possibly replace these denuded 69,000 acres. The bill if passed would insult the memory of Theodore Roosevelt, who established the preserve, to F. D. R., who established it as a great national park.

The second bill is in the hearings stage. Hon. Wayne N. Aspinall, Chairman of the House Committee on Insular and Interior Affairs is in charge. This is a useless and terribly costly scheme to bottle up the Colorado River for a private electric project, by building two gigantic dams. These would for all time desecrate the Grand Canyon of the Colorado whose river for millions of years has been carving out a splendor world famous, unequalled anywhere else.

Conservationists all over the country are apalled that our own government is the villain that would destroy by these two measures the very image of "America the Beautiful." After twenty-one years of working ardently with our club for conservation, I consider these two bills are the worst ever presented by our government in my memory which would rob us American citizens of their rightful heritage.

I have urged all our members and friends to protest these measures. Write the respective Chairman in Senate and House, our own Congressman, Hon. Joseph Martin, Jr. formerly excellent Speaker of the House, also President and Mrs. L. B. Johnson, both of whom have raised their voices repeatedly on the sacred duty to make in truth "America the Beautiful."

The Newton Highlands Garden Club has for many years fought for conservation, locally, state-wide and national.

Sometimes we are on the winning side, sometimes the losing. But we keep our faith in the essential justice of our country, provided enough of our citizens are awake to its perils and do something about them.

Very truly yours,
William Northrop Morse
Chairman Conservation,
Newton Highlands Garden Club.

Easter Seal Help

Editor of The Graphic:

In behalf of crippled children and adults, thank you for your generous public service support of this year's statewide Easter Seal appeal.

We are most appreciative of the extra help so many of you gave during the Boston newspaper strike which occurred just at the height of the annual drive and seriously hurt our efforts to call the needs of the physically disabled to the attention of many people in some areas.

As of this date, I am sorry to say that we have not reached our modest $345,000 goal. Volunteers and staff are making every effort to reach this amount which we must have to meet the increasing rehabilitation demands of the physically disable. I believe this can and will be realized before the Society's books are closed for the fiscal year.

With every good wish and my personal appreciation for your help to crippled children and adults.

Arnold "Red" Auerbach,
Chairman

Lee Loumos Says:

With this hot and humid weather that has finally come upon us, there isn't much time to breathe or think, let alone write an article. But I can't let this opportunity pass without noting the constancy and improvidence of human nature. We know that by late May or early June we will get this miserable weather and accordingly send notices to all our air conditioning accounts in early March to schedule service before May 1st. Invariably, only a small percentage reply — the vast majority still wait for the first hot spell and consequently, we are under enormous pressure to get to everyone at the same time. So if you are in this category, please realize our problem and have patience. We should be back to normal next week if we can survive this week.

Reading Takes Newton Tigers Out Of Tourney

Bill Kelly, Reading High School's powerful pitcher, maintained his two-year hex on Newton High last Thursday, and for that reason, plus some good work at the bat by his teammates, the Tigers lost the opening round of the Eastern Mass Tournament by a 4-2 score.

It was the same story a year ago, when Powers beat the Newton lads 2 to 1 on the tournament's opening day.

Said Coach Howie Ferguson after the game, which was played at Reading, "I can't squawk. It wasn't that we played a bad game, but everything we hit seemed to be hit right at someone. It was the hardest we've hit the ball all year. You can't take anything away from Kelly, though. He's a tough cookie."

In the second inning Reading took a 2-0 lead. In the third, the Tigers scored two runs. It was 2-2 until the sixth, when Reading again scored twice, and that was it. Once more, Newton's stay in the tourney was short.

MEDICARE EXTENSION PLANS

Now — for a limited time only — Blue Cross-Blue Shield Medicare Extension Plans are available to non-members 65 and older who are enrolled in Part B of Medicare. The benefits of the Medicare Extension Plans are necessary for anyone seeking a more comprehensive health care program. They will not duplicate any benefits of Medicare but will provide many benefits over and above the Medicare programs, such as the first $40 of hospital care, the first $50 of physicians' in-hospital services, part-pay features and extension of hospital care beyond Medicare limitations. In addition, there are many other benefits as outlined below. However, no benefits will be provided for admissions which began prior to the effective date of the contract, except that this limitation will not apply to present Blue Cross-Blue Shield members receiving benefits.

These are the Medicare Extension Plans to which current Blue Cross-Blue Shield members will be transferred automatically. If you are NOT a member of Massachusetts Blue Cross-Blue Shield, ACT NOW to protect yourself against major health care costs. No health statement or medical examination required.

Rates and Benefits of Medicare Extension Plans

Plan I — $4.30 per person per month — will pay the $40 deductible and the $10 part-pay for inpatient hospital care, the $20 deductible and the 20% part-pay for diagnostic outpatient services. It will also provide expanded coverage for hospital outpatient services and add 30 inpatient comprehensive benefit days per spell of illness, thus making a total of 120 days. For physicians' services, in the hospital only, it will pay the $50 deductible and the subsequent 20% coinsurance for 120 days. It will also pay for accident care, surgery, medical emergencies, and radiation therapy out of the hospital.

Plan II — $5.55 per person per month — will provide all the benefits of Plan I, plus 245 additional inpatient comprehensive benefit days per spell of illness, the $5 daily part-pay from the 21st to the 100th day in an extended care facility, and $8 per day for an additional 265 days. It will also provide, following discharge from the hospital, outpatient hospital and physicians' services, as well as $8 per day for care in a nursing home for a total of 365 days, including days used in an extended care facility. However, benefits are limited to 120 days in a mental hospital.

Plan III, the most comprehensive of the plans — $7.90 per person per month — will provide all the benefits of Plan I and Plan II, plus benefits for 80% of charges for private duty nursing services in the hospital up to a total of $300 following a $100 deductible. Also 80% of the cost of prescription drugs outside the hospital following a quarterly deductible of $25.

These coupons are for use by non-members only. (Present Blue Cross-Blue Shield members will receive full information by mail or through their groups.) Husbands and wives must enroll separately, just as in Medicare. Spouses under 65 should apply for regular Blue Cross-Blue Shield.

Please check the Medicare Extension Plan you wish to enroll in and mail the coupon to Blue Cross-Blue Shield, Department M, 133 Federal Street, Boston, Mass. 02106. Do not send money. You will be billed later. Coverage will be effective as of July 1, 1966, the starting date of Medicare.

Seasonal permits are only available for Newton residents, and purchasers must be prepared to submit proof of Newton residence. The same permits will be honored at both Crystal Lake and the new pool.

The Recreation Commission will continue its policy of last year of restricting the number of people allowed in the Crystal Lake area at any one time for safety reasons. The managers will be given authority to make patrons wait until the next session after the attendance reaches 1000 people or when they believe the crowd has reached a size that cannot be adequately protected by lifeguards on duty.

The manager, this season will be Charles Delaney, who was also manager during the 1965 season. He will report to Senior Recreation Supervisor, James E. Murphy, who has the Crystal Lake operation as one of his supervisory responsibilities.

John Walsh, assistant manager for nights and weekends during the 1965 season will again serve in this capacity this year. Mr. Walsh has been on the Crystal Lake staff for over 20 years.

World-famous Omega watches are now available in our store. Unsurpassed for timekeeping accuracy and long service, every high-precision, fully-jeweled Omega movement undergoes 1497 quality control inspections from blueprint to final assembly. To reduce friction to a minimum, Omega uses the world's most expensive oil... costing over $2000 per gallon. It takes many times longer to make an Omega than an ordinary watch but the meticulous attention given to every part of an Omega is the reason why it holds important observatory records for accuracy.
So exacting are Omega standards they only appoint jewelers with high technical standards and a proven reputation for integrity. Naturally we are proud to be among the select number of stores privileged to offer Omega watches.
Omega watches for men and women are priced from $65 to over $1000. We invite you to see our collection. Ask for free style brochure.

Return From Tour Of Many Italian Cities

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Toscano of 76 Day street, Auburndale, have just returned from an extensive tour of the principle cities in Italy, with visits to Vienna, Athens, Malaga, Lisbon and Halifax. They left New York aboard the Italian liner, Raffaello on March 18th.

Mr. Toscano is retired head of the automobile department of Newton High School. He came to the United States in 1909 and during the sojourn, returned to his birthplace in southern Italy, the mountain town of Petilio Policastro, Calabria. In Italy, he and Mrs. Toscano met for the first time, relatives in Formia, on her paternal side of the family. In Nervi, Genoa, they enjoyed a three-day visit with the family of Sig. Philip Audino, who during World War II was a temporary resident of Auburndale.

While at sea, aboard the Christoforo Colombo on May 19th, the Toscanos received a radiogram announcing the birth of a third grandchild and second granddaughter, Suzanne Bartha of Toronto, Ontario. The child's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Peter F. Bartha (Jeannie Toscano). The baby's sister, Gwendolyn is four and her brother, Paul is two years old.

MRS. SASSAFRASS BOUGHT HER FATHER'S DAY GIFTS HERE JUST TO GET OUR FANCY FREE GIFT WRAP.

Not that we advocate relegating our fine quality merchandise to second place. But really. We can't blame people for getting carried away with our special Father's Day gift wrap. It's simply superb! Anyway, the truth of the matter is that Mrs. Sassafrass has been buying her gifts here for years. She happens to know that Barron's is Father's favorite store. She also knows we have LONDON FOG coats and golf jackets, ARROW Decton shirts, ARNOLD PALMER knits, and dozens of other famous brand clothing and accessory items for men. And the Sassafrass children like to choose their gifts from our handsome collection of Boutique items, ranging in price from $1 to $20.00. As you can see, there are a great number of reasons to shop for Dad at Barron's. So bring your gift problems to us. You'll like the way we wrap them up!

A survey made by the writer indicated that Collins will move into the lead as the first delegations report their vote totals, that Peabody will close the gap or even overtake him on subsequent delegations and that Collins will make a strong finishing spurt to win.

Channel 2 will televise the entire Democratic State Convention. The other stations will cover portions of the conclave.

The fight for the convention nod for Governor looms as a tossup between Senate President Maurice A. Donahue and former Attorney General Edward J. McCormack who appear to be running almost neck and neck as they head for the showdown in their race.

This will be a topsy-turvy battle, with both McCormack and Donahue carrying districts where the other normally would be expected to be the stronger.

Former Presidential Aide Kenneth O'Donnell is in third position, well behind Donahue and McCormack, but he may have enough strength to prevent either Donahue or McCormack from achieving the first-ballot victory for which both are aiming.

O'Donnell is expected to poll between 150 and 200 votes on the first ballot.

The spread between Donahue and McCormack is presently considered to be less than 200 votes.

If those two appraisals are correct — and if the picture does not undergo an 11th hour change—it probably will take more than one ballot to settle the gubernatorial conflict, with shifts on the convention floor assuming great importance.

O'Donnell's only hope rests on a possible deadlock. This is reflected in his opposition to the adoption of the low-man-out rule. He also has been seeking second and third-ballot votes, obviously in the belief that the fight will last two or three ballots.

Robert E. Bidwell of Dedham, the fourth candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, will not be a serious contender at the conclave.

But he will be a factor in the convention if he enters it since his mere presence in the field will react to O'Donnell's advantage if neither Donahue nor McCormack is able to poll a majority of the delegate votes on the opening ballot.

Under the convention rules, any candidate who received less than 100 votes or who runs last on two consecutive ballots without gaining 10 per cent from one ballot to the next will be eliminated.

Bidwell would be last on the first ballot and would not poll anywhere near 100 votes if his name is placed in nomination. So Bidwell would be washed out after the first ballot if a stalemate develops.

That, however, would enable O'Donnell to last at least three ballots and even longer if he increased his strength 10 per cent between the second and third ballot.

O'Donnell might well be eliminated after two ballots if Bidwell decides to stay out of the convention fight.

Both McCormack and Donahue are claiming first-ballot wins for themselves.

Democratic State Committee Chairman Gerard F. Doherty agrees with one of them but isn't disclosing which one.

Doherty has predicted that both the senatorial and gubernatorial conflicts will be settled Friday night on the first ballot.

He's undoubtedly right about the Collins-Peabody fight. Thomas Boylston Adams and John Pierce Lynch, the other two Senate candidates, will get only a handful of votes between them.

Collins' lead over Peabody seems to be substantially bigger than the number of votes Adams and Lynch will get.

Whether Doherty also is right in his sizeup of the gubernatorial fight is something only time will determne.

A good many sound political analysts believe he's wrong and that the contest may last three or four ballots, continuing into the early hours of Saturday morning.

If it does, the eventual winner may be the contender who is most successful in keeping his delegates in the convention hall and preventing them from going home.

Some of the polls printed in daily newspapers on the Collins-Peabody battle have been misleading if the information assembled by this columnist is correct.

One of the polls was made more than a fortnight ago and consequently did not reflect the gains Collins had made since them.

What some of the pollsters also did was to quiz a relatively small number of delegates, tabulate their responses and then attempt to project them.

They made the mistake of assuming that it's possible to project a sampling of delegate votes in the same manner they would project a poll of all the people. And they came up with some strange returns.

A survey made recently by a professional polling organization for a person close to Senator Edward M. Kennedy showed that Collins would defeat Peabody about 2-1 in a Democratic primary.

That is not surprising, of course, since Peabody has been beaten in three of the four Democratic primaries in which he has been a candidate and scored his lone primary victory over former Registrar of Motor Vehicles Clement A. Riley.

Few Democratic politicians have any doubt as to what the outcome of a Democratic primary race between Collins and Peabody would be, and this has resulted in some shifts of delegate support to Collins.

Collins, incidentally, packs his greatest strength in the Suffolk and Worcester senatorial districts which come at the end of the rollcall, as the districts are polled in alphabetical order. It is in these districts where the Hub Mayor is expected to pull away from Peabody and go on to win.

While the spotlight of public attention has centered principally on the senatorial and gubernatorial contests, the fight for the convention endorsement for Attorney General also is arousing tremendous interest.

Former Lieutenant Governor Francis X. Bellotti is leading in this race, running well ahead of his closest challenger. But he does not appear to have enough support to win on the first ballot, and the votes he needs to reach a majority may come hard.

Checks made by this writer indicate that Representative Michael Dukakis of Brookline either has moved up into second place in the Democratic Attorney General race or is running neck-and-neck with ex-Governor Foster Furcolo behind Bellotti. Former State Commerce Commissioner Lester S. Hyman is in fourth position. These four all have substantial support, and the endorsement conceivably could be claimed by any one of them.

The other two candidates in the field — former Assistant Attorney General Robert DeGiacomo and former State Public Safety Commissioner Richard R. Caples of Brighton—have no chance of getting the convention nod but may help to make this fight an endurance contest.

A factor to be remembered is that the six-man scramble for the endorsement for Lieutenant Governor, which is likely to go on for ballot after ballot, will precede the Attorney General clash.

By the time the Lieutenant Governor fight is concluded, the candidates for Attorney General may be experiencing difficulty in keeping their supporters in the convention hall.

The Attorney General contest may remain in doubt until the low men are eliminated and it is determined where their supporters shift.

Bellotti is rated as the favorite now because he is the front-runner, but he is far from a sure winner.

The Peabody and Bellotti camps have been trading votes which they control, and this has helped Bellotti, giving him delegate support he might not otherwise get.

Rumors have been buzzing in political circles that an attempt may be made to persuade Hyman to shift from the Attorney General fight to the contest for the endorsement for Lieutenant Governor.

Hyman would be an asset to the Democratic State ticket. The odds now are against him in the Attorney General struggle.

Whether he would be willing to switch to the Lieutenant Governor field at this stage is uncertain. Most of his support would go to Dukakis if he did.

He must make his decision before 1 p.m. Friday, the deadline by which candidates must file notices of the offices they will seek.

The rules allow a contender to bid for only one office. A candidate defeated for one office could not step down and accept the endorsement for a lesser office unless the rules were suspended.

The six-way scramble for the Democratic endorsement for Lieutenant Governor is a real puzzler in which almost anything can happen.

Opponents in that fight are Medford Mayor and Representative John J. McGlynn, former Governor's Councillor John W. Costello of Jamaica Plain, Democratic nominee for Lieutenant Governor in 1964; automobile dealer Herbert L. Connolly of Newton, Middlesex County Commissioner John F. Dever, Jr., nephew of the late Governor Paul A. Dever; Attorney Joseph E. McGuire of Worcester, former member of the State Industrial Accident Board, and Attorney Darrell L. Outlaw of Roxbury.

The battle lines in that clash probably will not be clearly drawn until some of the candidates are weeded out and the field is narrowed down.

Representative James H. Kelly of Jamaica Plain originally intended to challenge State Auditor Thaddeus Buczko at the convention but apparently has decided against doing so.

This means that Secretary of State Kevin H. White, State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane and Buczko will all be renominated by acclamation.

But the Democratic State Convention still shapes up as an exciting and suspenseful spectacle but a long and wearying one.

Local Church Setting For Hanson-Hunter Wedding

Miss Joan Martha Hunter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman C. Hunter of 143 Rowe street, Auburndale, and Lawrence Ward Hanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hanson of Natick, exchanged vows, recently, at Corpus Christi Church, here.

The Rev. Thomas Murray officiated at the 12 o'clock, noon nuptials, at which two rings were exchanged. The Union House in Framingham was the scene of the reception.

Escorted by her father, the bride was attired in a bouffant gown of organza. The fitted bodice had a sweetheart neckline and Queen Anne's lace sleeves. Her Watteau train was marked with similar lace.

A headpiece, fashioned of mother of pearl stephanotis, held in place her fingertip illusion veil. Her flowers were white roses and daisies.

Miss Diane Marie Hunter of Boston was her sister's honor maid. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Patricia Frazier of Medfield, Mrs. Dorothy Pagliarulo and Miss Joyce Murray, both of Natick.

Ronald McGee of Natick served as best man. Ushering were Paul Aspell of Ashland, Aldo Pagliarulo of Natick and Stephen Hunter of Auburndale.

Bermuda was the honeymoon destination of the Hansons, who are now making their home in Natick.

The bride, a graduate of State College at Boston, is a histology technician at the New England Deaconess Hospital.

Mr. Hanson is associated with the Polaroid Corporation in Waltham.

Mrs. Aston To Retire At End Of School Year

The Frank F. Carr School, Newtonville, bids affectionate farewell at the close of this year to Mrs. Ruth Aston, first grade teacher.

Mrs. Aston, who comes from Mars Hill, Maine, joined the teaching staff when Carr opened its doors as a new school in 1935. She has been a Carr School representative to the Newton Teachers Association, primary grade coordinator last year, and her activities include involvement with many city-wide committees.

She and first grade teacher Mrs. Dorothy Campbell were an active team in introducing the highly successful linguistic reading program last year.

The P.T.A. will honor her with a tea and reception in the school auditorium on Thursday, June 9 from 2 to 4 p.m. Whereas Mrs. Aston is so active in church and community, and so generally well known and warmly regarded by her former pupils, the P.T.A. wishes to extend a cordial invitation to any former students or their parents.

CREATIVE AWARD IS GIVEN — David M. Gordon, right, executive director of Sidney Hill Country Club, Newton, receives the Schenley Industries National Creative Award from Lewis Rosentiel, Shenley chairman of board, and Joseph M. Linsey, noted Boston philanthropist.

National Award Given Country Club Manager

David M. Gordon, executive director of the Sidney Hill Country Club in Newton, has been awarded the Schenley Industries National Creative Award.

Mr. Gordon who has achieved the title of Certified Club Manager, which is emblematic of CLU in insurance and CPA in accounting, received the award from Lewis Rosenstiel, chairman of the board of Schenley Industries; and Joseph M. Linsey, noted Boston philanthropist and president of Whitehall Co., Ltd.

Mr. Gordon and the Sidney Hill Country Club recently were cited by the City of Newton for outstanding cooperation on behalf of the retarded and handicapped children of Newton.

He is a member of the Governor's Committee on Youth Physical Fitness for the State of Massachusetts, and was a member of the Citizens Dedication Committee of the New State Office Complex. He also served on the Mayor's Committee for the City of Newton, and in the planning of the Recreation Program.

Mr. Gordon is a graduate of Michigan State University. He served in the U.S. Army as a lieutenant of Military Police. He is a member of Market Lodge, B'nai Brith, Masonic Freedom Lodge, AF and AM, and the Hebrew Home for the Aged.

He is married to the former Minette Immeman, and they have one son.

Takes Counter-Spy Course

Lt-Comdr. Alexander Zavelle of 314 Otis street, West Newton will receive a certificate of satisfactory service from Rear Admiral William B. Sieglaff, commandant of the First Naval District, on Thursday, June 16. The colorful ceremony will be held aboard USS Constitution at Charlestown Navy Yard.

Cmndr. Zavelle completed a course in Counterinsurgency at the Naval Reserve Officers School. In civilian life, he is manager of the Tech Coop, MIT branch of the Harvard Cooperative Society.

Sandra A. Gam of 74 Maplewood Ave., Newton Centre, was one of the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy seniors who took part in the annual educational trip to manufacturing and laboratories.

Plan Of School Site Committee Given Approval

The Board of Aldermen granted approval Monday night to the recommendations of the Newton High School Site Committee. A request for the Board's approval was asked by Mayor Monte G. Basbas.

The report by the mayor's committee was released last March, and was approved 6-0 by the Public Buildings Committee, its chairman, Melvin J. Fangel reported.

The site committee's report called for expansion of the present Walnut St. site to provide a 2500 student population, and the construction of a 500-student building at Newton South High School. An addition of 3.76 acres will be added to the 26.94 acres at Newton High.

For the project, it was recommended that 12 parcels of land be taken, seven facing Elm St., four on the east side of Kimball Terr., and a dwelling at the end of Otis Pk.

Dinner

ary chairman of the dinner to be held on the 14th.

William P. McNamara, president of the Newton Chamber of Commerce, and Robert P. Lurvey, first vice president, are dinner co-chairmen.

Members of the committee in charge of the dinner include, Philip Bram, T. Frank Copp, Jason Sacks, Grenfell Swim, Victor Nicolazzo, Walter Hood, David Gordon, Giles Mosher, Jr., and James Godino.

Dinner tickets may be obtained from the two co-chairmen and any of the committee members. The dinner is open to all friends of Justin Horan.

Mr. Horan has established an outstanding record of accomplishment since becoming associated with the Newton Chamber of Commerce in 1957.

He has been the creative and operative force behind many exceptional and most successful projects of city-wide civic significance.

Many of his Newton associates have expressed regret his leaving this city but are happy in the recognition given his abilities in a newer and larger field of endeavor.

He has had extensive experience in his chosen field. He formerly was assistant executive director of the Manchester, N. H., Chamber of Commerce. He also served as vice president of the Newton Waltham Bank and Trust Company, and executive vice president of the Newton Chamber of Commorce.

His civic interests in Newton have been many and varied. He is the president of the Newton Boys Club and is a director of the Newton Community Chest and Council.

Tax

The city, of course, would lose the revenue from the sales tax if a group of labor leaders are successful in their drive to have the tax repealed by the voters in the November election.

Final action by city officials preliminary to the establishment of the tax rate was taken Monday night wwhen the Board of Aldermen approved a recommendation by Mayor Basbas and the Board of Assessors that $700,000 be transferred from the $1,300,000 surplus fund to meet current expenses.

The Aldermen also transferred $150,000 from the water surplus to the general surplus fund, leaving the latter figure at $850,000.

Alderman John P. Nixon, chairman of the Aldermanic Finance Committee, told his colleagues that with the $700,000 transfer and the receipts from the limited sales tax it would be possible to set the tax rate at $72.20.

At an Aldermanic meeting on March 19 Nixon had forecast a hike of $4.50 in the tax rate and had said it would result from the big boost in the school budget.

Nixon asserted Monday night that the new revenue the city is getting from the sales tax proceeds is a factor in holding down Newton's tax rate.

State officials yesterday formally approved a tax rate of $72.20 for Newton for this year.

James A. Miller Elected

Lasell Speaker Sees Vital Need To Retain NATO

NATO must go on, with France if possible, but without her if necessary, the chief American architect of the NATO Treaty told a Commencement audience at Lasell Junior College in Auburndale on Sunday.

According to John Dewey Hickerson, former ambassador and career diplomat who served as chairman of the State Department delegation that drafted the NATO Treaty, "a vacant chair should be kept at the table" for continued French participation.

"All of us would hope that France would soon return to her rightful place in the Community," he declared. "Pending such a return, the other 14 NATO allies should get ahead with the urgent business that faces them."

Mr. Hickerson addressed Lasell's 111th annual Commencement in outdoor exercises attended by some 2,000 students, parents, alumnae and friends. A total of 280 graduates were awarded Associate in Arts and Associate in Science degrees during the ceremonies.

"The dangers of direct military aggression in Europe has substantially diminished and given rise to a feeling of 'detente'", he continued.

'On the other hand, the world-wide struggle between freedom and communist tyranny will continue for a long time to come in the political, psychological and economic as well as in the military field.

"Atlantic unity going beyond the purely military field is more necessary now than it was in 1949. NATO allies would welcome improved relations with the U.S.S.R. and honorable, meaningful agreements with her. But our best chance of such agreements is to preserve our own unity and to keep our strength intact".

A former ambassador to the Philippines and to Finland, Mr. Hickerson has served as U. S. advisor at Dumbarton Oaks, a member of the U. S. delegation to the San Francisco conference that set up the United Nations, and has been active in U. S. attempts to seek international agreement on control of atomic energy.

He has been a regular lecturer in Georgetown University's School of Foreign Service, and a member of Harvard University's Advisory Committee on Research in International Law. He is a Director of the Atlantic Council.

Mr. Hickerson was introduced by Wilder N. Smith, chairman of Lasell's Board of Trustees. Diplomas were awarded by Miss June Babcock, Dean of Women and Acting President.

Old Item On Docket Gets Final Action

An item that had been on the docket for several months was finally acted on by the Board of Aldermen Monday night.

It was a recommendation of the then Mayor Donald L. Gibbs for an amendment of ordinances relative to zoning at religious and educational institutions. Specifically, its intention was to make certain that there be a sufficient land area surrounding dormitory buildings.

The Board approved it by a vote of 17 to 6, with one absent, but not without considerable debate.

The proposed order had been amended at a previous meeting by eliminating non-profit hospitals from its restrictions on dormitory land use — a change that had been requested by Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

Four Aldermen, Paul J. Burke, William P. Matthews, Joseph M. McDonnell and H. James Shea Jr., debated the issue at length, maintaining that the proposed restrictions were aimed at one or two colleges in Newton — Lasell Junior College and Boston College, both of them in the process of expansion.

Those four, and Aldermen Andrew J. Magni and Edward C. Uehlein, were the six who voted "no" on approval of the amendment. The lone absentee was Warren A. Sutherland.

Alderman Franklin N. Flaschner, a member of the Claims and Rules Committee to which the order had been referred, assured the objectors that if any situation should arise at either of the colleges that required a relaxation of the restriction, the Board could easily make the change.

House Adopts 2 Orders Filed By Rep. Mann

Two orders filed by Rep. Theodore D. Mann of Newton have been adopted by the House of Representatives.

One calls for the appointment of five members of the House to study the Federal Medicare program as it applies to persons retiring from state service. Mann stated that one purpose of the order is to make certain that persons retiring from state, county and municipal service will get all the benefits to which they are entitled.

"I am concerned, Rep. Mann declared, "that some persons may not be as completely covered under Medicare as they are right now under privately operated plans."

Provision is made in the order for the committee to meet with the Massachusetts congressional delegation for consideration of possible changes in the federal law.

The other order asks the support of all his colleagues on the Committee on Insurance for a thorough review of Government responsibility for losses resulting from riots. The committee is asked to review the war risk insurance in force during World War II with the possibility of recommending federal coverage.

"An investigation of this entire problem is most urgently required," Mann declared. "I hope that fast action by our committee will assure all citizens of this state of protection from any losses that may occur from such outbreaks as the tragic ones in Los Angeles."

$17 Million School Building Plan 'Go'

A five-year school construction program costing an estimated $17,075.000 was unanimously approved by the School Committtee members at their meeting Monday night.

It calls for a new $2.6 million Bigelow Junior High School, a new $3.1 million Day Junior High School and additions to Newton High School which will cost approximately $11,375,000.

Work on the erection of the new Bigelow Junior High will be started this year. Plans for the new school are virtually complete, and bids for its construction should be sought by the end of this month or early in July.

An appropriation already has been made to pay for part of the landtakings at Park and Vernon Streets, Newton Centre, where the new school will be located.

Work is scheduled to start next year on the construction of the new Day Junior High School, with $2 million listed to be spent in 1967 and $1.1 million in 1968. The school, with accommodations for 700 pupils, will be erected next to the Albemarle Playground.

Also slated to get underway in 1967 is the erection of additions to Newton High and Newton South High. The school department timetable calls for the expenditure of $2 million in 1967, $4 million in 1968, $4 million in 1969 and $1,375,000 in 1970 on the two high schools.

No policy decision yet has been made as to whether the Newton schools which still burn coal will be converted to oil.

Those schools are the Carr, Weeks, Bigelow, Day, Stearns, Claflin Hall and Newton Junior College. The Carr School may be converted to oil this summer.

School Superintendent Charles E. Brown told the School Committee members Monday night that the turnover of teachers in the Newton school system is about the same as the national average.

He explained that very few Newton teachers leave to accept positions in other cities. Most of them leave, Dr. Brown added, because

List Negro Pupils For Local Schools

Two hundred people attended the open meeting sponsored by the Newton-METCO Coordinating Committee last Thursday evening at the Meadowbrook Junior High School.

Mrs. Hubert Jones, chairman of the newly organized Newton-METCO Committee, introduced Dr. Charles E. Brown, superintendent of the Newton Schools and chairman of the METCO School Superintendents Committee planning the entire METCO program.

Dr. Brown discussed Newton's participation in the program. He announced that the 50 Negro students who will come to Newton next fall will attend seven elementary schools. Claflin School will have the fewest, three, all in the fourth grade, while Hyde and Countryside School will each have 10 Roxbury students.

Dr. Brown also discussed the evaluation of the entire pilot project which will be conducted by the Research and Development Center of

Upper Falls Locale Site For NRA Funds

Application for funds to plan an urban redevelopment and rehabilitation project in the Newton Upper Falls section will be submitted to the state and federal governments by the Newton Redevelopment Authority within the next few days.

The NRA is seeking a $135,500 planning grant from the federal government and a $30,300 planning grant from the State for a portion of the project which is not eligible for federal funds. The city also will contribute $10,900 to ward the cost of the latter planning job.

The $135,000 is being requested from the federal government to plan for the redevelopment and rehabilitation of an area on both sides of Washington street and bounded by route 128 and the Charles River.

Within that area are 46 structures containing 31 dwellings and 47 business establishments. Some of the structures eventually will be rehabilitated, and others will be torn down.

State and city funds totalling $41,200 will be used to plan an abutting project

Former Local Resident New Museum Head

A former Newton resident, Mrs. Max Durbin now of Ridgecrest, California, has been appointed curator of the Maturango Museum at a recent meeting of the museum board of directors held at Indian Wells Lodge.

Mrs. Durbin is the former Alice Andrews. She spent her early years in Framingham, then moved to Boston. Her husband, Dr. Max Rubin, is a surgeon who had an office in Boston when the family resided in Newton. He is now practicing surgery in California.

Before moving to California, the Durbin's address was Canterbury Rd., Newton Highlands.

The Valley Independent of Ridgecrest recently carried an extensive story on the appointment of Mrs. Durbin as museum curator.

It started that Mrs. Durbin was instrumental in founding the local Art League, and also had been identified with cultural and educational activities since arriving in California some eight years ago.

Green Light To Norumbega Hotel Complex

Delayed by litigation for nearly three years, construction of a $4 million luxury motor hotel complex on the abandoned grounds of Norumbega Park can now get underway, the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court having ruled in the city's favor and against the Auburndale petitioners who tried to prove that the rezoning for the motel was unconstitutional

Marriot Motor Hotels of Newton, which planned the high-rise complex overlooking the Charles River adjacent to the Route 128-Massachusetts Turnpike interchange, is now free to petition the Board of Aldermen for a new permit to build

The court decision means that some $150.000 a year in added tax money may be on its way to the city treasury, much to the satisfaction of Mayor Monte G. Basbas and members of the Board of Aldermen, including Melvin J. Dangel, chairman of the Building Committee.

$1500 Taken In Holdup At Liquor Store

Two holdup men, who forced the customers, two clerks and a manager to lay face down on the floor of a Newton Highlands package liquor store, escaped with about $1500 last Saturday night.

The two bandits not only took the money in the store's cash register but also took $72 from one customer and the wallet from another. A third bandit is believed to have been waiting outside for them in a getaway car.

The holdup was staged in the Upper Falls Beverage Store at 150 Needham St., Newton Highlands.

Two men, one wearing dark glasses and holding a long revolver, entered the store and told clerk Sumner Wheeler of 20 Caulfield circle, Newton Centre: "This is a holdup. Give me the money, and put it in a paper bag."

Wheler emptied four cash drawers, putting the money in a paper bag at he had been ordered.

Norman Curtis of Needham walked into the store during the holdup and was immedi-

By JAMES G. COLBERT

Blast By Collins at Powers Stirs Hot Political Debate

A debate is still raging in political circles as to whether Boston Mayor John F. Collins made too hard and harsh a statement in blasting Democratic National Committeeman John E. Powers for helping to pull the rug out from under him in his bid for the endorsement for U. S. Senator at the Democratic State Convention.

Collins and Powers, of course, are political foes and have been since Collins defeated Powers in a stunning upset in Boston's 1959 mayoralty election.

Both Powers and Collins are political pros, and the likelihood is that Powers relished the credit Collins gave him for helping to swing the convention endorsement to ex-Governor Endicott Peabody.

Collins also is one who believes that if you turn the other check in a political battle you wind up with bruises on both sides of your face instead of just one side.

YAWKEY SEES SOX IMPROVING

TOM YAWKEY, owner of the 10th place Boston Red Sox, Wednesday night defended the recent series of trades made by his club and insisted he believes the several multi-player deals will strengthen the team.

Yawkey replied to a barrage of criticism occasioned by the trade of pitchers Bill Monbouquette, Dick Radatz, Earl Wilson and Ken Sanders, outfielder Jim Gosger and several other players in a total of nine transactions since September.

Yawwey said he had been kept informed on the trades, which dealt out 14 Boston players and brought 13 new players to the Sox.

"It doesn't make any difference if you're the President of the United States, or the president of the Red Sox, you can't please all of the people but you do what you think is right to help the club," Yawkey told newsmen at Fenway Park. He said he thinks the team will do better.

DPU MAY PROBE PHONE TAPS

THE STATE DEPT. of Public Utilities DPU may investigate wire tapping by the New England Telephone Co.

The company acknowledged it was monitoring telephone calls in Vermont as well as in Massachusetts but only to check on the efficiency of its operations.

DPU Comm. Roy C. Papalia said Wednesday his department may conduct a hearing with witnesses subpoenaed, if necessary, and testifying under oath.

WIGGINS LOSES LOGAN CASE APPEAL

THE U.S. COURT OF APPEALS Wednesday upheld dismissal of an anti-trust suit brough against the Massachusetts Port Authority and Butler Aviation-Boston Inc. by E. W. Wiggins Airways Inc., of Norwood.

The U.S. District Court previously had dismissed the suit, in which Wiggins contended the authority had barred it from operating at Logan Airport.

Wiggins charged that the arrangement under which the authority allowed Butler to conduct the one fixed base operation at Logan was a monopoly.

Appeals Judge Edward J. McEntee said the authority's decision to allow only one fixed base operation at the airport was made "in the exercise of a valid government function."

BESSETTE, 4 OTHERS FREED ON CONSPIRACY

THE STATE Supreme Court Wednesday overturned the conspiracy convictions of Rodolphe G. Bessette, former director of the Waterways Division of the Massachusetts Public Works Department.

The high court also reversed the convictions of four other men found guilty with Bessette of conspiracy in connection with the Cape Cod dredging contracts.

Indictments in the cases were inadequate and should have been quashed, the Supreme Court said. Bessette and the other defendants were not charged with commission of a crime, the court said.

67,000 YANKS TO LEAVE FRANCE

MORE THAN 67,000 American servicemen and their dependents will be transferred from French bases to English, German and other installations by Sept. 1. Defense Sec. Robert S. McNamara announced Wednesday.

In the first response to President DeGaulle's demand that NATO troops be removed from French soil, McNamara will move two squadrons of C-130 turbo prop transports to Mildenhall AFB, England, and six squadrons of Air Force reconnaissance planes elsewhere. They will be stationed in Europe if possible, otherwise will be returned to the U.S.

"Combat-essential stocks" of ground and air munitions and equipment, totalling 575,000 tons, will be moved to other NATO nations, chiefly Germany.

The impact on the French economy will be great, since 17,300 French nationals will be cut off the U.S. payroll.

FRENCH AIR FORCE TO QUIT GERMANY

FRANCE WILL START moving its air forces out of Germany July 1. The NATO permanent council quickly agreed on emergency measures to deal with the French military pullout from the alliance.

Among them, it was decided to disband NATO's three-nation standing group in Washington July 1, the deadline set by President Charles de Gaulle for withdrawing remaining French forces from NATO command.

WORST BUDDHIST RIOTS WRACK SAIGON

COMBAT POLICE CHARGED over flaming barricades Wednesday and drove anti-government Buddhists from a three-block area of Saigon they seized during the worst street fighting in the current campaign to topple the military government.

At least 100 Buddhist monks and youths were arrested and Buddhists claimed one person was killed. The streets of Saigon reeked of tear gas after four separate outbursts.

Militant Buddhists charged that Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, in cahoots with the United States, planned to wipe out their religion in South Viet Nam.

NORTH VIET HOPES FADE, SAYS U.S. AIDE

NORTH VIET NAM, suffering severe punishments from U.S. air attacks, is having second thought about its chances of achieving a Communist military victory in South Viet Nam, a high Washington official declared Wednesday.

This authority also predicted that Hanoi's alternate hopes for winning the struggle a political collapse in Saigon or a U.S. withdrawal under pressure of adverse domestic and world opinion would not be realized.

His assessment of the Viet Nam situation was given at a background briefing, with no direct quotation permitted, durng a White House conference for state legislative leaders who burst into spontaneous applause at the end of the presentation.

"You must comply," the President said. "If you discriminate against some older citizens in your community, you wreck the program for all."

He spoke to some 300 prominent physicians, hospital administrators and other health officials. Medicare goes into effect July 1.

Registration Continues For Community Summer Camps

Registrations for the Newton Community Center Summer Camps continues. Camp programs of the Center are designed to serve boys and girls 3½-12 years of age.

James C. Callahan, director of the Kinder Kamp, stated that the camp would serve any child between the ages of 3½ to 6 years. It is located in the facilities of Warren Junior High School. Equipment is similar to that found in a nursery school. The physical facilities include large playrooms, a gymnasium, arts and crafts rooms, and a large grassed outdoor play area which will include sandboxes, swings, tricycles, a large portable swimming pool, and various other outdoor pieces of equipment.

The camp runs for eight weeks with the option to register for a minimum of two weeks. Boys and girls are put into groups by chronological age. Youngsters, Mr. Callahan added, will find a carefully selected program ready for them daily. Activity will include supervised play, varied games stories, trips to farms, and other points of interest such as zoos, and play areas. Cookouts, use of the wading pool, and the biweekly parents days are among the high points for youngsters.

Children bring their own lunches and are supplied milk. A morning snack of crackers and juice is supplied. Watermelon and other surprises are included as afternoon treats.

Transportation is available to and from the camp. Pick-up is arranged to the home directly.

Day Camp, to be held at the spacious Sever Hale Reservation in Westwood, will serve boys and girls 7 to 12 years of age. William Jesdale, director, stated that the site includes 10 acres of tree-covered land, swimming facilities, cookout accommodations, a vast sandy beach, and many long winding nature trails.

Campers leave from in front of the Center at approximately 9:15 a.m. daily, following opening exercises held at the agency. The activity is varied with swimming (free swimming and instruction daily), arts and crafts, hiking, sports cookouts, and trips included. Children bring sandwiches and are served milk at noon.

on the north side of Washington street bounded by Moulton street, Colgate road, Grove street and Wavery place.

This area is mostly an abandoned sand pit, is ineligible for federal funds because it is largely an open area with only one dwelling on it. Consequently, it will be planned as a state project, with the state paying $30,300 and the city $10,900.

The applications for state and federal funds have been approved by the Board of Aldermen.

As assistant curator, she conceived the "Doll Window" which was the museum's Christmas gift to the community last year. Mrs. Durbin also assembled the turn-of-the-century memorabilia which she subsequently arranged for a historical window that replaces the doll display.

In the intervening time, she had voluntarily acted as interim curator, maintaining the showroom for visitors, social and official. The former curator had left the area to live elsewhere at an earlier date.

Mrs. Durbin further reorganized the museum's sizeable library of books and publications for more easy reference.

The Maturango Museum, located in Indian Wells Valley China Lake, California was dedicated on December 1, 1962.

School Board Meeting Draws Large Audience

Choice of the exhibit room in the Division of Instruction on Chestnut St., West Newton, as the site of Monday night's meeting of the School Committee proved wise, as the attendance was far greater than could have been accommodated in the regular meeting place in the Walnut St. school department building.

It was an overflow crowd of some 125 persons, including members of two organizations — the Single Session Committee and the Concerned Parents of Meadowbrook Junior High school pupils.

The former group advocates one daily session in the elementary schools, and its members were on hand expecting to hear what the administration's plans are in that respect.

The superintendent of schools, Dr. Charles E. Brown, informed them that the department was endeavoring to make changes that would enable the schools to conform with the new state law that requires a 25-hour school week. He said he hoped to be able to make a detailed report to them at the Monday, June 27, meeting of the committee, which would be the final one of this school year.

ately ordered down onto the floor. He was forced to empty his pockets, and $72 was taken from him.

John Hickey of 588 Walnut St., Newtonville, also entered the store at the wrong time and was forced to lie down on the floor and turn over his wallet.

Patrick McGrath of Lexington, the manager, and Paul Spellman of West Roxbury, another clerk, came from the rear of the store during the holdup and were curtly told to "hit the floor."

John Hinchey of Needham started to enter the store as the bandits were leaving. He was pushed into the store and told to "stay there."

Newton police also are investigating several breaks and thefts.

An electric typewriter valued at $335 was stolen from the office of Christopher J. Flynn, assistant dean of the College of Business at Boston College.

Thieves who broke into Quint's greenhouse at 1583 Centre St., Newton Highlands, took $35 worth of orchids.

Other thieves got into a store at 156 Waltham St., West Newton, through a cellar bulkhead and carried out two cases of candy and two cases of tonic.

Headlights and Highlights From Newton South High

By BONNIE BELSON

Newton South High's only National Merit Scholarship Winner is William Taylor, president of the Class of '66 for the second consecutive year. He was chosen on the basis of his National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (NMSQT), his S.A.T. scores and his overall academic achievement. Bill will be using this scholarship at Yale.

Mark Cohen, junior, took away top honors at the French Oral Recitation Contest with his portrayal of Cyrano de Bergerac. Senior Peter Marin and sophomore Dean Schwab were also winning orators. The contest took place at the Newton South High auditorium when over 100 students from both high schools were inducted into the French National Honor Society. Membership is based on scholarship and excellence in French.

Inducted were: Lisa Ayman, Nancy Bakerman, Jody Baraban, Stephen Baron, Roberta Baruch, Bonnie Belson, Patricia Brecher, Mark Cohen, Jane Dangel, Jill Davidson, Laura Dine, Rochelle Dworet, Enid Ellison, and Linda Elovitz.

Also: Diane Feldman, Alvan Fisher, Peter Freeman, Robert Freeman, Sandra Gale, Ellen Gesmer, Arlene Ginsburg, Richard Ginsburg, David Guberman, Peter Haffermehl, Elissa Heard, Margaret Heyn, Richard Kenney, Nancy Kraft, Raymond Kwasnick, Judy Lazar, Victor Lersih, Ralph Locke, Linda Lown, Jane MacDonald, and Geoffrey Modest.

Others are: Malerie Nathanson, Alan Nogee, Spiros Pantos, Russell Platt, Gail Promboin, Kenneth Reisman, Carol Richmond, Roberta Sahl, Alan Saunders, Dianne Segal, Carole Shauffer, Martin Shapiro, Clarin Siegel, Marjorie Slivkin, Glenda Starr, Cheryl Weiner, Susan Windheim, and Brian Yates.

Graduating seniors explored forms of escape to which youth's alienation from society can lead, during the Senior Symposium on "The Alienation of Youth in the Urban Environment," on the mornings of June 1, 2, and 3. The faculty committee was composed of John Berwald, Mrs. Juanita Driscoll, William Geer, Mrs. Dorothy Gonson, Mrs. Patricia Kelley, Alan MacDougall, Herbert Ostrach, Mrs. Marcia Ratner, Mrs. Alice Shaw, Miss Ann Sanguinetti, Miss Helen Sweeney, and David Youngblood.

Students involved in the organization and presentation of the symposium were: Robert Carpenter, Robert A. Kaplan, Elliot Lobel, Howard Orne, Rosalie Phillips, Jane Pogatch, Peter Schneider, Arthur Stroyman, William Taylor, Charles Thompson, Beverly Woo, Phillip Woodbury, and Rhonda Young.

Quill and Scroll, an internationally recognized Journalism Honor Society recently admitted seven Newton South High School students. The honors were given to juniors Bonnie Belson, Jill Davidson, Glenda Starr, Lynne White, and seniors Robert Freeman, Bill King, Bruce Kirle, Paula Newman and Martha Young.

Founded in 1926 there are now over 5,000 chapters of Quill and Scroll in the United States, Canada, England, Australia and China. Quill and Scroll seeks to reward superior industrial achievement in journalism, creative writing and photography. Previous members from Newton South High are Eileen Boris and Carol Shuman, both seniors.

Judy Kumin, Newton South High junior, received the Roland Heintzelman Memorial Award for creative achievement in English at the Heintzelman Award Assembly May 4. To qualify Judy had to turn in one piece of writing to a faculty committee who then made recommendations to the Heintzelman trustees. South High junior, Hannah Kaye, was one of the honored finalists in the competition. At the assembly Judy read two poems from her manuscript—"Saturday" and "Sunday." These poems describe weekend visits in the country.

These awards were established to honor Roland Heintzelman, a teacher at Newton High School, who died at the age of 33. His students and associates began a fund which supports the competition. Each award winner received a book of his or her choosing which was also presented to their school library. Judy chose "The Complete Poems of Carl Sandburg."

In anticipation of the new year which will soon be upon us many new officers and editors of publication have been chosen.

The new associates council officers are President Steve Lampert, Vice-president Sue Ellen Segal, Secretary Leslie Shaw, Treasurer Sue Mescon, Senior Members-at-Large Lisa Ayman and David Sellinger, and Junior Members-at-Large Bonny Shuman and Marvin Swartz.

Newly elected Senior Class officers are President Mark Cohen, First Vice-president Susan Ferrick, Second Vice-president Tommy Thompson, Secretary Elizabeth DiCarlo and Treasurer Roberta Steinberg.

Newton South is divided into three divisions or houses. Each of the houses has a separate guidance department, separate administrations, and separate councils, each of which has its own officers. These new officers have just recently been elected. Cutler and Goodwin Houses only elect president and vice-president at this time of year. They elect the secretary and treasurer in the fall, giving the new sophomores a chance to vote.

The new officers of Wheeler House are: President Richard Ginsburg, Vice-president Debbie Morgenthal, Secretary Jo-Ann Cooper and Treasurer Drew Meyer. Cutler House elected President Robert Carpenter and Vice-president Nancy Lerman. President Laurence Dworet and Vice-president David Woo are the only elected officers of Goodwin House.

The first job of the new editors of "Regulus," Newton South High's yearbook, will be to put out a supplement to this year's "Regulus" which will include spring sports, senior symposium, the Senior prom, graduation and various other spring activities. Peter Freeman, new editor-in-chief, and Jane Dangel, the new business manager, along with Mr. Shaw, advisor, chose the other editors.

The other new editors are: Cheryl Weiner, assistant editor-in-chief; Marla Shapiro, data; Jane Oppenheim, circulation; Mark Cohen, features; Jon Balcom, sports; Nancy Kraft, copy; Leslie Richmond, art; Steven Marks, layout; Ellen Gesmer and Carol Richmond, literary; Sue Ellen Segal, advertising; Gerry Gehr, photography, and Lisa Ayman, publicity.

"Denebola," the Newton South newspaper, has been recently turned over to a new staff who will be responsible for the last two issues this year as well as next year's newspapers.

YMCA Camp Is Ready To Open For 23d Season

Camp Massasoit, a day camp for boys at the Newton Y.M.C.A., will open for the 23rd season in Newton on June 27.

Situated at the "Y" building, 276 Church St., Newton Corner, Massasoit is a particularly attractive camp for 7 through 12-year-old boys who will be staying at home for the summer and perhaps are going to camp for the first time.

The excellent outdoor and indoor facilities of the "Y" provide a full range of day-camping activities for the active youngster. Softball, baseball, archery, and track and field contests are regularly scheduled events on the large outdoor playfield and track. Two red-clay tennis courts are active as the campers get expert tennis instruction daily.

Swimming instruction, using the National Y.M.C.A. Aquatic Program, is scheduled for each camper as well as opportunity for free swims daily.

Trips to interesting and educational places around Greater Boston and overnight camp-outs away from Newton are another feature of Camp Massasoit.

Enrollment for two-week periods, the weeks of June 27, July 11, July 25, and Aug. 8, are now underway.

Kilimniks Will Get Degrees At Northeastern

Three years ago, Bernard and Gladys Kilimnik of 381 Newtonville Ave., Newtonville, simultaneously began master's degree programs through evening study at Northeastern University.

On June 19, at Boston Garden, the Kilimniks will be among the nearly 3000 degree recipients at N.U.'s 65th annual commencement.

For a husband and wife with one child, three years of successful evening graduate study in addition to daytime occupations deserves honors in time budgetting.

"At first we tried scheduling classes on alternate evenings," Mrs. Kilimnik said, "but we frequently had to hire a baby-sitter while we attended classes one or two evenings each week."

Mr. Kilimnik will receive a master's in electrical engineering. He is an engineer at Raytheon's Bedford plant.

Mrs. Kilimnik, a former junior high school teacher, will be awarded a master's degree in English. She plans to teach the subject at the secondary level.

Some of the facts concerning the background to the Collins-Peabody convention battle and the part Powers played in it should be understood before any final judgment is made as to whether Collins swung too lustily at Powers.

Powers supported Peabody at the convention. Indeed, he was the most influential leader in the Peabody camp.. He unquestionably did everything he could to aid Peabody's cause, as he had a perfect right to do. But Collins also had the right to strike back.

John Powers is no ordinary politician holding an obscure county office. He's the Democratic National Committeeman from Massachusetts, and his support is worth something at a Democratic State Convention.

He controlled the delegation in his home Ward 6 section of South Boston, and he delivered it solidly to Peabody.

But Powers' ties go deep in the Democratic party. He undoubtedly was instrumental in swinging the votes of other delegates and Democratic State Committee members to Peabody.

So Powers was not exactly an innocent bystander when Collins hit out at him. He was in the thick of the convention fray.

From where we sat Collins' speech to the convention wasn't actually as strong and strident as some political observers and many TV viewers interpreted it to be.

It assumed tones of harshness and bitterness because Collins was forced to deliver it over a crescendo of boohs from the Peabody backers.

Collins didn't deliver what we would consider a personal attack upon anyone. This is exactly what he said:

"First, may I express my deep and heartfelt thanks to every delegate who supported my candidacy for United States Senator and to every person throughout our Commonwealth who has been and is working in my behalf.

"I am certain that we will find in September that a majority of the 1,200,000 Democratic voters throughout our Commonwealth concur with the judgment of those delegates who voted for me and those men and women who are supporting my candidacy.

"Secondly, may I concede in all honesty and candor that tonight Johnny Powers has had his night of revenge. It was a long time coming, but it came.

"The voice was the voice of Peabody, but the hand was the hand of Powers.

"I have learned tonight—and, indeed, the hard way—that you can't always win when you're fighting power politics.

"But to all these wonderful men and women who are supporting my candidacy and championing my cause, may I emphasize that this is only a temporary setback.

"This is just a preliminary to the main bouts which are to come.

"With all possible confidence I say to you that we will win in September, and we will win in November.

"Any disappointment we feel tonight will be forgotten when the ballots of all the Democratic voters are counted on primary night next September.

"I am not one of those who believes that the Democratic party is hurt by primary contests. It is much too strong and healthy for that.

"Indeed, the records show that some Democratic candidates for high offices have won election in the past because of the momentum their campaigns gained during primary contests.

"I also believe — strongly and sincerely—that the candidates who carry the nominations of the Democratic party in the November election should be the choices of a majority of the 1,200,000 Democratic voters—not just 1800 of them.

"I will now take my campaign to those 1,200,000 Democratic voters. I have the utmost confidence in what their decision will be." (End of speech.)

Now this was a speech delivered to a Democratic State Convention, not to an afternoon session of a ladies' garden club. It obviously was aimed principally at the disappointed delegates who had supported Collins.

What was Collins supposed to say? Should he have got up and said: "Thanks, boys, for giving me the deep six and thanks, especially, to those delegates who indicated they would vote for me and then voted for my opponent."

If this was too strong a speech for a Democratic State Convention, then, as Powers suggested before Collins' speech, perhaps the delegates to future conclaves should wear tuxedos and evening gowns.

The first controversial thing Collins said in his talk was that Powers had had his night of revenge, that it was a long time coming, but that it came.

The newspapers quoted Powers himself as saying—before Collins went to the platform to address the delegates—that he had "waited seven years for this night."

We think that Collins was aiming at Peabody rather than Powers in his reference to "power politics."

Many persons at the convention were amazed at the obvious alliance between Peabody and Francis X Bellotti, bitter opponents in the 1964 Democratic primary.

Peabody and Bellotti traded delegate votes. They stood together in the lobby of the Sheraton Boston Hotel and buttonholed delegates.

While they did this, the Attorney General candidacy of Lester S. Hyman, Peabody's former first lieutenant and top adviser, went down the drain.

Hyman, who helped to make Peabody Governor in 1962, learned a hard lesson about power politics.

Some political pundits believe that Collins made a mistake in addressing the convention at all when he intended to run in the primary. Possibly they're right.

Collins could have done what former Presidential Aide Kenneth O'Donnell did. He could have left the convention hall quietly and made his statement to the press.

But Collins chose to go before the convention and stand up to the boohs of the Peabody backers in order to talk to his supoprters.

When he was forced to speak over the boohs from the Peabody contingents, his words came through harsh and strident.

Stiff Battles Looming In Democratic Primary

Hard fights will be waged in the September primary for the Democratic nominations for U.S. Senator, Governor, Attorney General, Lieutenant Governor and State Auditor.

In every Democratic primary that has been held since the convention system of endorsing candidates was revived the voters have overturned at least one decision of the convention and sometimes two. That has been the pattern in the past, and history is likely to repeat itself this year.

The battle between Collins and Peabody for the right to run as the Democratic candidate for U. S. Senate probably will overshadow the other contests.

But widespread interest also will be centered on the struggle between former Attorney General Edward J. McCormack and Kenneth O'Donnell for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

Former Governor Foster Furcolo will determine whether there really is a big sympathy vote for him in the Democratic party as he challenges former Lieutenant Governor Francis X. Bellotti for the nomination for Attorney General.

Former Assistant Attorney General Robert DeGiacomo has indicated he also will enter that race. However, DeGiacomo does not have a political organization, and he faces a big problem in obtaining the necessary signatures to qualify for a place on the September ballot.

Representative James H. Kelly of Jamaica Plain will test his strength in a primary match with State Auditor Thaddeus Buczko.

Perhaps the most important announcement in the wake of the convention was the announcement by Senator Edward M. Kennedy that he will remain neutral in the primary fights and then will support the Democratic nominee in the November election.

Ted Kennedy has been criticized in some quarters for not mixing into the convention fights. He probably would have been criticized even more harshly if he had attempted to dictate the convention choices.

Unfortunately for Ted, he's going to come in for some criticism, whatever he does or whatever he doesn't do.

It is understood that Ted Kennedy suggested to McCormack, after the latter had won the endorsement for Governor, that he try to rearrange the bottom of the Democratic State ticket by putting Secretary of State Kevin White in the Attorney General slot and making Lester Hyman the candidate for Lieutenant Governor.

Whether McCormack and Peabody, the two top convention winners, could have managed to do that if they had tried is uncertain. But they obviously wanted no part of the brawl which would have erupted if they had attempted to do it.

Two of the convention surprises to this onlooker were the manner in which some of Collins' supporters left him and swung over to Peabody, when the returns from the first delegates to report their vote totals showed Collins running behind Peabody, and the failure of Furcolo, as ex-Governor, to poll a bigger delegate vote.

The convention actually accomplished little and proved less. It provided additional arguments for those who believe that the convention method of endorsing candidates should be scrapped and that the selection of the candidates should be left to the voters in open primaries.

Chicago—Oil burner sales in some years have approached the one million mark.

Lee Loumos Says:

I suspect that the furor over the draft selection method is more political than practical. I can't help but agree with General Hersey that the lottery system of Selective Service is not the best way of administering the draft. I see nothing wrong with the present system so long as no political favoritism is involved and that college students be deferred only if they are doing well scholastically. It would be a shame to deprive our country of some greatly needed future professional and scientific talent so that others without scholastic ability or desire can be passed over. I am sure most of you will agree that the future strength of our country rests in the hands of our well educated youth. These are the people we will have to turn to when and if the pressure really gets great.

Swim Fee Schedules Are Announced At Lake & Pool

The Newton Recreation Commission has established the fee schedule for Crystal Lake Swimming area and the Harry Gath Pool at Albemarle Playground it was announced by John B. Penney, Recreation Commissioner.

Season permits will be sold to Newton residents only, which will be honored at both of Newton's public swim facilities. The fee for adults will be $3.00, and for students will be $1.00 for the 1966 season. Non-residents and others who do not have a season permit will be charged 50c for each of either Crystal Lake or the Gath Pool.

The permits will go on sale on June 13 at the Recreation Department office at City Hall and at Crystal Lake swim area. It is planned to open Crystal Lake for swimming on that date at 2:00 p.m.

The opening date of the Gath Pool is not definite at this time, being dependent upon completion of the construction. Both facilities will be open on a part-time schedule 2:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. until the close of public schools on June 24. Permits will be sold at the Gath Pool when it opens.

Commissioner Penney noted that proof of Newton residency will be required of all applicants for season permits. Polk's Directory and election poll books will be used as references.

Recent arrivals in the city who are likely not to be listed in these references are urged to obtain some proof of residency when applying for a permit. Commissioner Penney urged as many as possible to obtain their permits during regular working hours at the City Hall office to avoid long waiting in line at the swim areas—particularly on week ends.

Commissioner Penney also urged family groups to obtain permits for all family members at the same time with one proof of residency, rather than individual members applying at different times.

Friends O.K. Newtonville Library Site

The Friends of the Newton Free Library support the recommendation of the Library Trustees that Mayor Basbas explore the possibility of a Newtonville site for the new main library, it was announced last night by Daniel J. Ahern, president of the Friends.

Mr. Ahern reports that the executive committee of the Friends at a meeting earlier this week adopted the following resolution:

"We support the recommendation of the Trustees of the Newton Free Library that Mayor Basbas explore the possibility of building the new central library on a site in or close to the Newtonville shopping area.

"The site selected in this area would meet the basic professionally developed requirements that a central library must be in or close to an active business area.

It can meet the public's convenience and provide the best service to the people of the city, and because construction of a new library in this area would result in a consolidation with the Newtonville Branch Library at very substantial savings to the taxpayers of Newton."

The meeting of the executive committee followed by one week the annual meeting of the Friends at which there was a very extensive discussion of the proposed new library and the problem of finding an optimum site for this major new facility.

Father-Son, Mother-Daughter Dinners Are Well Received

Recent activity at Newton Community Center was highlighted by Father-Son, and Mother-Daughter dinners.

Both affairs, which were filled to capacity, are new activities at the Center this year. The response indicated a continuation in the future.

The Father-Son dinner was highlighted by the presence of Houston Antwine, defensive stalwart of the Boston Patriots. Houston spoke confidently of improvement in the Patriots for the 1966-67 season. Atuographed programs were available to all youngsters present.

Awards were presented to members of the Center Pony League and National League entries in the Newton Recreation Department basketball circuit. Special awards went to Oscar Carter, talented player-coach of the American League entry and Joseph Wright, who participated as assistant coach in the two lower leagues and aided the boys 9-12 years old physical fitness program. J. C. Callahan, coach of the recreation leagues entries, presented the awards to his team members. The 1965 World Series film concluded the program.

The Mother-Daughter dinner was highlighted by special awards and a gala fashion show. Service certificates were presented to students from the various local schools who have been serving as volunteer workers at Community Center over the past year. The agency, which is a red feather service, is dependent upon this type group leadership to complement the full-time staff. Students honored attend the College of the Sacred Heart, Boston College, Wellesley College, Lasell Junior College, and Newton South High School. Certificates were presented by Anthony J. Bibbo, agency executive director; Miss Gayle Saunders, program worker, and James C. Callahan, assistant director.

A fashion demonstration, headed by Miss Elinor Brillante from Newton High School, concluded the exciting evening. The demonstration included the appearance of many students modeling clothes they had made at school. Miss Cooney and Mrs. Zivick assisted Miss Brillante. Miss Barbara Burman served as the student narrator.

Programs were coordinated by Mr. Bibbo, Mr. James C. Callahan, Miss Gayle Saunders, Mrs. Carol Stenberg, and Mrs. Stanley Aston.

Dinner arrangements were by Mrs. Thomas Lepore, Miss Bonnie Algeri, and Miss Gayle Saunders.

For information on activity at the Center, visit the agency at 429 Cherry St. in West Newton, or phone 244-2260.

PTA Creative Arts Group Reports Rewarding Year

The city-wide PTA Creative Arts Committee winds up its sixth season this month after an active year of continued cooperation with the School Administration in bringing the best in creative arts to the school children of Newton. Co-chairmen Mrs. Peggy Charren and Mrs. Viney Tomb have issued the committee's annual report which sums up the functions of this group of creative arts chairmen from all the Newton schools.

The major function of this group is to bring finer enrichment programs into the schools. The committee continued to schedule fine programs from former years, such as the Young Audience Concerts, Bennington Dance Group, Cambridge School of Ballet, sculptress Polly Eggleson, the puppets of Ruth Brand and Eleanor Boylan, and performing musical groups of students from the various Newton schools.

The committee also set up auditions of various new programs for faculty approval, and then scheduled approved programs into schools. This year, 14 new programs were auditioned, resulting in over 60 in-school performances of such artists as author-illustrator team Harve and Margot Zemach, poet William Jay Smith, the Theatre Company of Boston, modern dancer Robert Cohan, pantomimist Judy Ross, Swiss mime Jan Kessler, 4-hand pianists Heide and Alfred Kanwischer, percussionist Arthur Press, the Radcliffe Freshman Choir, and folksinger Jackie Washington.

Another function of the committee is bringing students to out-of-school performances of special interest. This year they helped to sell tickets and arrange transportation and chaperones for schoolchildren's attendance at the Shakespeare Festival in Natick and the Youth Concerts at Symphony Hall.

To promote use of community resources is still another function of the committee, and to this end they arranged a reception and tour of the Museum of Fine Arts for principals and teachers of all the schools to acquaint them with new material for possible use in the classroom. The committee also scheduled museum lecturers to speak to students on subjects related to curriculum, and circulated loan materials from the Museum of Fine Arts, the Fogg Museum, and the Children's Museum.

In completing its season's work, the committee was able to arrange four programs to be incorporated into the special summer session of the Lincoln-Elliott and Emerson schools to be conducted this year under Title I of the Education Act. The following artists have agreed to present programs free of charge to the schools: Heide and Alfred Kanwischer, Judy Ross, Harve and Margot Zemach, and Eleanor Boylan.

Pretty June Wedding Unites Miss Seufret-Mr. Callahan

Miss Joan Anne Seufret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Seufret of 193 Winchester street, Newton Highlands, and Thomas Joseph Callahan, son of Mr. Richard A. Callahan of Tenafly, N. J., and the late Mrs. Callahan, were married on Saturday, June 4, at Mary Immaculate of Lourdes Church, here.

The Rev. Daniel F. Riordan celebrated the 11 o'clock nuptail mass and performed the double-ring ceremony. A reception was held at the Woodland Golf Club.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a white gros de londre gown fashioned with a circlet neckline banded with a seed pearl collar. The A-line skirt terminated in a detachable Watteau train.

A matching pearl tiara held in place her cathedral-length French illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of valley lilies.

Mrs. John J. Seufert, Jr., of Newton Highlands, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor, while Miss Lisa A. Seufert was her aunt's junior bridesmaid.

Richard D. Callahan of Closter, New Jersey, brother of the groom, was best man. Ushering were Thomas J. Mundy Jr., of Brighton, N. Patrick Quirk of Palisades Park, N. J., and James T. Murphy of Englewood, N. J.

After a European honeymoon, the couple will live in Tenafly, New Jersey.

The bride was graduated from Lasell Junior College.

Mr. Callahan, a graduate of Georgetown University and Georgetown Law Center, is a partner in the law firm Kelly and Callahan in Tenafly, N. J.

the Harvard Graduate School of Education. They hope to measure the academic achivement, attitudinal change of youngsters, teachers and adults and what happens to a youngster's self-concept as a result of being involved in the program.

Funds for the METCO program will come from a grant of $259,500 which has been applied for from the United States Office of Education for a one-year period. A grant of $126,700 from the Carnegie Corporation of New York for a two-year period will pay for the administrative costs, covering the salary of the central staff and coordinating services.

Dr. Brown explained the rationale behind the program by explaining that the future of Newton is connected to the future of the City of Boston and "we in Newton must consider our responsibilities to the larger city."

The Newton community has given overwhelming support to the entire METCO program, according to Dr. Brown and particularly to the "second home" plan. Each child is to have a Newton home within the school district, and possibly one or two others in case of an emergency.

Mrs. Ruth Batson of Roxbury, who will serve as assistant director of the METCO program, told the audience that the people in Roxbury by no means consider METCO as the solution to the racial imbalance problem but it is a step in the right direction.

The Roxbury community does not consider the program as a demonstration but rather as a means of providing better schooling for their children which they feel can be accomplished in a suburban community.

As far as the desire for integrated education is concerned, Mrs. Batson contended that where white persons are in the majority, there is more concern on the part of public officials and this is then reflected in the quality of education offered. Therefore, the concerned Negro parents must take their children where the concern is, in this case to the suburbs.

Mrs. Batson expressed the hope that Newton teachers would prepare themselves for this experience by trying to understand the problems that beset the Negro community.

The majority of youngsters from Roxbury who have applied thus far are in the fourth to seventh grades. High school students seem reluctant to leave their own schools and neighborhood friends.

In answer to a question, Mrs. Batson said that the youngsters hopefully will represent a cross-section of the Negro community so as not to reinforce a stereotype that "culturally deprived" equals Negro.

Nixon Explains Tax Rate As Set By City Fathers

The following letter to the Editor has been received by The Newton Graphic from Alderman John P. Nixon, chairman of the Committee on Finance:

"The decision of the Newton Board of Aldermen. on June 6, to set the 1966 tax rate at $72.20, an increase of $1.80 over the '65 rate, deserves an explanation. Particularly in view of the fact that many Massachusetts communities are enjoying a reduced rate this year.

"Newton is faced with a substantial increase in its budget mounting to some $1,469,000 over 1965. Despite the best efforts of the Mayor, the Finance Committee and the full Board to limit the increase the School Department budget alone accounted for $1,168,000 of the additional amount, plus salary increases to police, fire and other city employees and other incidental and necessary expenses making up the balance of $300,000 plus.

"If a similar situation existed as happened in 1965 when an adverse figure of $30,000 materialized via the so-called "Cherry Sheet" (the balance of the charges and credits with the State of Mass.) — an inevitable increased tax rate of about $4.50 would have been necessary.

"However, this year, a favorable balance of $1,480,000 occurred, chiefly due to the impact of the much-debated and maligned sales tax. At the suggestion of the Board of Assessors it was decided to take $700,000 from our surplus funds and also $150,000 from the surplus in the Water Receipts account which, in total, materially reduced what otherwise would have been a sharp increase in the rate.

"It might have been possible to have held the line on the tax rate or even effected a slight decrease if it had not been for the necessity to appropriate over $500,000 from surplus to pay for street and sewer construction (both badly needed), our contribution to reconstruction of state and county highways, such as Washington st., the control of Paul Brook in Newton Centre and a needed appropriation for snow and ice removl, the balance in this fund having been sorely depleted during the severe weather early this year.

"Dspite our reluctance to add to the already heavy burden of the taxpayer it was decided prudent to levy the increase. It should be emphatically stated that the School Committee should under no circumstances consider the modest tax increase as any excuse to impose a comparable budget increase in 1967. Constant tax increases can and must be controlled."

The bill in equity, brought by Basil K. Woods, Albert C. Horton, and Bert F Richards. went to the high court as the petitioners attempted to get it to set aside the change of zone from Residence "C" to Business "A" of 10 acres in the park and enjoin Building Commissioner Vincent D. Burns from issuing a permit.

City Solicitor Matt B. Jones Jr. appealed Superior Court Judge Frank W. Tomasello's ruling last January that the Board of Aldermen erred in granting permission to extend the height of the building from 40 feet to 58 feet.

However, the Supreme Judicial Court ruled in favor of the city over the height change.

Tomasello, in approving the change of zone, said the locus is "substantially different in character for zoning purposes from other land in the vicinity differently zoned." and that the rezoning "will increase the amentities of the city of Newton and will promote the convenience and welfare of its citizens."

The Board of Aldermen approved the change of zone Aug. 12, 1963. Assisting City Solicitor Jones with the city's defense was Atty. Gael Mahoney of Boston.

The petitioners tried to prove the zoning was unconstitutional. since no specific land was designed to be located in the new zone. They also claimed that the change of 10 acres of Norumbega Park from Residence "C" to Business "A" is spot zoning.

Their third contention was that since the petition for a change of zone was at first denied and then approved, following a motion to reconsider, the change was invalid.

The petitioners, who brought action in December, 1963. were represented by the law firm of Michaels and Adler of Boston. Atty. Richard H. Lovell, a former Newton alderman, represented the Marriott company during early proceedings.

During the trial, witnesses for the city included Mayor Basbas, who was city clerk when the zoning was changed; City Planning Consultant Charles E. Downe and Paul Mark Ryan. representing the trust which owns the park.

Study Possible Use Of Voting Machines Here

Action Monday night by the oBard of Aldermen included unanimous approval of Alderman Paul J. Burke's recommendation for appointment by President Wendell R. Bauckman of a committee to study the advisability of the use of voting machines in the forthcoming elections.

Four resolutions were adopted during the meeting.

One of them, presented by Alderman Jason Sacks, expressed the gratitude of the Board and of the city to Justin T. Horan for his "extraordinary accomplishments" as vice president of the Chamber of Commerce since Oct. 15, 1957. Mr. Horan is soon to leave Newton for a position with the Chamber of Commerce in Lawrence. That resolution was approved by a 13 to 4 voice vote.

Approved by a 20 to 2 voice vote was a resolution of the Board authorizing the filing of an application for a federal grant enabling the city to acquire open-space land. The application will be made to the Department of Housing and Urban Development for a grant of $75,569, part of the cost of acquiring land known as "Cold Spring Land." The total cost of acquisition is estimated at $151,138, and the city will pay the balance. The land is to be used for recreational purposes (a golf course).

Also approved was adoption of two resolutions presented by the Newton Redevelopment Authority for authorization of application to the Division of Urban Renewal of the Massachusetts Department of Commerce for advance planning funds for the proposed Newton Lower Falles urban renewal project, and for authorization of application to the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development for federal assistance on the Lower Falls project.

Doris Mogel and Lois Mogel, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney P. Mogel, 1597 Centre St., Newton Centre, were graduated from the University of Massachusetts, where they majored in Elementary Education. They were both on the Dean's List.

Approval by the Aldermen was given Monday night to the petition of Chestnut Hill Towers, Inc., for permissive use to erect two high-rise dwelling units at 250 Hammond Pond parkway, Chestnut Hill.

One will have 244 units, and the other 277, and the cost will be $15 million.

The petition had been heard four different times, the last time on May 9, according to Harry J. Ham, Jr., chairman of the Claims and Rules Committee. One reason for the multiple hearings was the petitioner's change of mind on the buildings' height. As the matter stand now, they will be two feet taller and have recessed corners.

Claims and Rules imposed a number of restrictions, among them stipulations that the dining rooms, restaurants, lounges and beverage bars would be available only for residents and would not be open to the general public.

Barber shops, beauty parlors, doctors and dentists offices and the swimming pool would also be available only to apartment residents.

SWAMPLAND VACATION HOMES

At this new community of year around vacation homes a swamp is a "potential pond site. "Unfortunately there are very few such sites left.

Most, ranging from 1¼ to 4 acres, are perched on heavily wooded hillsides overlooking our own club on beautiful, private Pleasant Lake. We have a magnificient beach, boating facilities, new clay tennis courts and endless riding trails.

Then, just minutes away, there are 3 excellent ski areas and 2 fine golf courses. With ski slopes nearby and shoreline at the door, a vacation home at the Slope 'n Shore Club can be used all seasons of the year. And, after all, a vacation home is only as good as the fun you get out of it.

Prices range from $5-8000, including piped water and your equity in the Club. Write us for some interesting details.

Waban Girl Scouts Have Camp-Out

Junior Girl Scout Troop 566, Waban, Bay Path Colonial Girl Scouts, went to Camp Naccochwa, Cochituate, to their second camp-out of the season on June 3 and 4. They were accompanied by their leaders, Mrs. Henry Harwood and Mrs. John Braasch, and three mothers, Mrs. Calvin Saravis, Mrs. David Heard and Mrs. Rudolph Junda.

This was first-time camping for some of the fourth grade girls. The fifth and sixth graders gained experience in teaching the others in firebuilding, cooking one-pot meals, and the use of buddy burners and tin-can stoves. The girls decided it would be a nice change to have their award ceremony around the campfire this year. They had a Scout's Own, using the theme of Loyalty and then received their awards. Those receiving the Sign of the Star were Becky Nickerson, Lorri Morrison and Winnie Hawkridge. The Sign Of the Arrow was awarded to Mary Jean Quinn, Ellen Porter and Lynne Porter.

All the girls received their Troop Dramatics Badge for the work they have done in putting on the play "The Crying Princess and the Golden Goose." The fifth and sixth grade girls received the Health Aid Badge and eight fourth graders received the Hospitality Badge.

The last meeting of the year was held June 9, a picnic on the banks of the Charles River, at which time plans for next year were discussed.

Elementary Art Presented For School Board

A discussion of Elementary School Art was presented to the School Committee Monday night by Miss S. Eleanor Eliott, the soon-to-retire supervisor of art.

In introducing her, Dr. Charles E. Brown, superintendent of schools, told the committee that "she has been with us since 1937, and will be sorely missed."

Monday night's meeting was held in the exhibit room of the Division of Instruction on Chestnut St., West Newton, and for the occasion its walls were adorned with interesting examples of art work by kindergarten pupils and those of the first, second, fourth and fifth grades.

The wall displays provided evidence that Miss Eliott had accomplished her purpose, which she described in her opening remarks with the statement that "I came here to put into the schools a forward-looking art program."

Miss Elliott retires at the end of this month.

Science Church In Exploration Of Atom Force

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?"—this is the question explored in the Bible Lesson to be presented at all Christian Science churches this Sunday.

The Golden Text is from I Samuel: "The pillars of the earth are the Lord's, and he hath set the world upon them."

Opening the Lesson-Sermon will be Paul's statement in Hebrews: "Through faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the word of God, so that things which are seen were not made of things which do appear."

The theme is explained further in references from the Christian Science textbook, including these: "The true theory of the universe, including man, is not in material history but in spiritual development . . . Through many generations human beliefs will be attaining diviner conceptions, and the immortal and perfect model of God's creation will finally be seen as the only true conception of being" ("Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy).

Harvard Scholarship For Virginia Boy, Local Grad

A reception in honor of Leslie Griffin from Farmville, Virginia, a graduate of Newton High School in the class of 1966 was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Proctor W. Houghton.

Present were his parents the Rev. Francis Griffin, a Baptist minister, and his wife with Skip's two younger brothers, Beanie and Ricky, as well as his Newton foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Beckett, and their children, Anna, Michael and William F. Beckett, Jr. Many other people who have been closely involved were also there to congratulate Skip.

Announcement was made during the evening of the award of a four year scholarship by Harvard University to Leslie Griffin. William Beckett expressed the joy of everyone when he stated, "We are happy even beyond our wildest dreams. We had hopes for him because he put in three years of hard work and was diligent and mature in his attitude toward his studies. We had hoped it would pay off . . . Harvard is the school he had always dreamed of."

Present also were Dr. and Mrs. Penzer, foster parents of Moses Scott, also of Farmville, Virginia and a graduate of Newton High School in the class of 1962, who is continuing his education on a scholarship from Howard University and will be working this summer in the Library of Congress.

Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Herzfeld shared a letter from Barbara Botts, their foster child during the year 1961, 1962 thanking them for her year in Warren Jr. High School, thus enabling her to graduate with her class in Farmville, Virginia this year. She plans to continue in college next year.

As Negro school children in a rural community, these three youngsters were among thousands of girls and boys denied an education when the Prince Edward County schools closed in order to circumvent a court order to integrate their classrooms.

A pilot program, inaugurated by the American Friends Service Committee made it possible for Newton to share its educational opportunities with these three students. Looking back over this experiment, participants agreed with Mr. Proctor W. Houghton, who stated, "we hope that this experience will encourage communities to duplicate this kind of effort whenever the basic right to an education is denied to any American citizen. Local church groups, service organizations, government commisions and civic-minded citizens should be continuously alert to this need.

PTA Council In Discussion Of Newton High School Plans

Principals and PTA presidents discussed plans for rebuilding Newton High School with Dr. Charles E. Brown, superintendent of schools, and Mrs. Norma Mintz, Newton School Committee member, at a recent meeting of the Newton Council of PTA's.

Said Dr. Brown, "District lines will have to be changed. However, no policy has become established as to the new district lines." He explained that the Mayor's High School Site Committee had recommended that an addition be made to Newton South High School to accomodate 500 students, and that a new school be built on the site of the present Newton High that would accomodate 2500 students.

Dr. Brown said that although this plan was a compromise, it was "the most realistic decision we could make." His feeling was that as an alternative to taking 41 homes to enlarge the present site, it was more realistic to face the problem by building an addition to Newton South and thus take only 12 homes in the Newtonville area.

In the discussion that followed, Mrs. Connie Lipton expressed the hope that the program would be expedited so that a new high school would be realized before its planned date of completion.

Jerome Grossman, past president of PTA Council, suggested "a serious study be made so that both high schools wind up as truly comprehensive."

Herbert F. Regal, vice-president, PTA Council, added that he felt a comprehensive school at the high school level was more important than at the elementary school level.

In response, Dr. Brown said his intention was to develop two high schools equally comprehensive with the exception of the Technical High School in Newton High. It would be unwise economically, he pointed out, to duplicate special technical equipment for a small number of students.

Mrs. Thomas Burnap, president of the Council, announced she was retiring from office because she plans to move to Texas.

She introduced new president, Bernard I. Kaplan, who presided over the meeting.

Col. Einstein recently completed his twenty years in the service and received the Air Force Commendation Medal for "distinctive accomplishments and a distinguished career in the service of his country."

He was executive officer of the 50th Maintenance and Supply Group at the time of his retirement.

Col. Einstein also received a 1964-65 Freedom Foundation Award for his essay; "My Vote; Freedom's Privilege."

He is now a vocational councilor with the Jewish Vocational Service, Inc., in Boston, having received his master's degree from N.Y.U. He also is a pianist who has published several songs, and has been active in scouting, the Toastmasters, and civic and cultural activities.

His wife, Margot, is a writer who has been published by the "Bayside Times," "U.S. Lady,"and "Baby Talk." The latter publication recently purchased their fourth article from her titled, "The Revolving Group."

Pete Einstein, age 16, was cited for outstanding scholastic achievements and "hard work in self-improvement and service to school and church."

He received a Declaration of Merit in recognition of this from the Sunrise Optimist Club as the Young Texan nominee of the club last fall.

Pete established an outstanding record as a scholar, musician and athlete while a high school student in Texas.

He was voted a member of the National Junior Honor Society at Hirschi High School and maintained a top average throughout his school career. He was a member of the school varsity tennis team two years and was active in scouting. He won numerous top awards in music competition and was a member of the Hirschi High School band as a talented musician.

their husbands are transferred to jobs in other parts of the country.

Supt. Brown made his statement in commenting on complaints made by parents of pupils to School Committee members concerning the teacher turnover and the loss of good teachers.

"All cities in the country are going to have to live with their changing teacher population," Dr. Brown observed. "We do not feel that our turnover is inordinately high.

"We would rather have excellent teachers who stay for three or four years than mediocre teachers who come to stay for life," the superintendent emphasized.

Two Newton teachers of foreign languages have received awards under the National Defense Education Act for foreign study this summer, Dr. Brown informed the School Board.

Franklin E. Davis, instructor in Spanish at Newton High School. will study at Salamanaca in Spain.

John P. Hanrahan, instructor in French and Latin at Bigelow Junior High School and former consultant for foreign affairs in the Newton schools, will study at Tours, France.

They will receive federal grants to cover their travel and living expenses as well as tuition charges at the institutions they attend. They will study abroad for approximately nine weeks this summer.

A request for pay raises for Newton teachers probably will be made to the School Committee late in Septembe..

This was indicated when a report by the Personnel Policies Committee of the Newton Teachers Association was presented to the School Board Monday night by Miss Bonnie Allen, the committee chairman.

The report contained no salary proposal, but Miss Allen said one would be submitted late in September.

Dr Brown told the School Committee he had been notified by Senator Edward M. Paula Lee Freedman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Freedman, 303 Upland Ave., Newton Highlands, was awarded a B.A. degree from Washington University, St. Louis, Mo.

ARCHITECT'S Drawing of the proposed $500,000 addition to the Queen of Apostles Seminary and College in Dedham shows the contemplated structure at the right blending in with the present facility. The slow rate of donations needed to finance the construction of the addition has forced a temporary halt in the plans of the African Missions Fathers, who are appealing for financial support for the needed facility.

In Dedham . . .

Lack Of Funds Delays Start On Dedham Seminary Addition Plans

The proposed $500,000 addition to the Queen of Apostles Seminary and College in Dedham will become a reality only when the funds for the envisioned chapel and auditorium are obtained, according to Rev. James B. Hill.

Father Hill, in noting the slow response from donors to date, added that "we don,t like to think the funds are not coming, however. The people of Dedham and the surrounding towns are known for their generosity", he added.

The fund drive, launched in November, has produced only a fraction of the funds needed and the building plans cannot proceed unless more money is soon obtained, according to Father Hill, superior of Promotion House, the seminary's administrative arm.

At the present time, the 22 seminarians now enrolled in the Dedham seminary and college use a converted dining room for chapel purposes. They have no auditorium in which to conduct broader services.

The proposed addition would provide the seminary and seminarians with an up-to-date chapel and an auditorium and would allow administrators to have the dining room reconverted to its original function.

The proposed addition would mark another milestone of progress for the society of African Missions, the seminary order, in Dedham, Fr. Hill noted yesterday.

The now 111-acre site on Common Street originated when the society purchased the former Royce Estate. Ten years later, the seminary was constructed. The growth and lack of facilities for the student seminarians has prompted the proposed third move at providing a more complete facility, according to Fr. Hill.

The order has a 110-year history, having been founded in 1856. It now consists of some 2,000 priests, most of whom are serving in African Missions.

Their impact on the emerging African nations has received wide comment, with over 500,000 young Africans now in schools conducted by African Mission Fathers, Rev. Hill noted. In the elementary school system staffed and managed by priests of the order, 513,224 boys and girls are learning the fundamentals of English, math, science and religion to enable them to take their places as members of their church and country.

Modern high school education is beginning to flourish in Africa, due in great part to the work of the order, with some 32,000 West Africans now enrolled in mission schools.

The missionaries, who accepted "the great challenge to convert a continent", have seen the Catholic population of Africa in areas staffed by their number increase over the past five years from 1,168,257 to 1,728,776 African Catholics.

The diocese of Benin City, Nigeria, alone has grown from 80,000 to 150,000. The increase - some 75 percent - reflects the African's desire for the Catholic religion and the efforts of the order to make the religion known to him.

The Dedham seminary and college is an integral part of the society's plans, also, Fr. Hill is quick to point out. Students once out of high school bent on entering the order spend their first four years of preparation at the Dedham seminary.

From there they go to the Ava Maria Seminary in Doylestown, Pennsylvania for the seocnd phase of their preparations. At Ava Maria, the seminarian receives an intense spiritual preparation for his life's work in the African missions.

Final phase of preparation is at Queen of Apostles Seminary in Washington, D.C. where the final four years of additional study and preparation are undertaken. The seminarian is ordained following completion of his four-year course at the Washington University.

Dedham, however, provides the start of the ordination process that culminates in Africa, Fr. Hill con-

An optimist by nature, the Irish born priest also contends that the people will rally to the aid of the seminary and support financially its plans for construction.

They have been generous in the past and, God willing, will continue to be so", he avows.

Anyone in the area wishing to contribute to the society's plans may contact Father Hill or mail contributions to him at the seminary, it was noted.

Whiting Chapter, DAR, Has Day At Hillside School

Several members of Lydia Partridge Whitin Chapter, DAR, attended "Hillside Day" on Thursday, June 2. This event, which brought together over 150 "Daughters" from Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, and Connecticut, was held on the grounds of Hillside School for Boys, Marlborough.

Following a tour of the campus, and a picnic luncheon, guests watched an exhibition of gymnastics by a group of students, and then adjourned to the gymnasium, where the boys presented a program of songs, recitations, and a playlet.

Massachusetts State Regent, Mrs. George S. Tolman, III, was among the State Regents who were introduced. Awards for excellence in American History classes were presented to individual students.

Hillside School, established 1901, is largely maintained by Daughters of the American Revolution as one of their projects for furthering education. It exists for those boys whose parents, for one reason or another, are unable to make homes for them. Providing instruction from the third grade through the eighth, it offers wholesome country living as well.

Lydia Partridge Whiting Chapter has been especially interested in helping the school, and much of its money-raising projects are directed to that end.

In attendance from the chapter were former Regents Mrs. Herbert Anderson and Mrs. Rose E. Langill, Mrs. Harry Walen, former Regent and present State Recording Secretary, Mrs. Edward Fletcher, Mrs. H. L. Walen, Sr., vice-Regent, Mrs. Thomas M. Desmond, Assistant Treasurer, and Mrs. David Hamblen, Regent.

Alexandra M. Dailey, daughter of Mrs. Nora G. Dailey, 35 Oak Terr., Newton Highlands, a sophomore at Albertus Magnus College, New Haven, Conn., has arrived home for the summer vacation.

B.C. Magna Cum Laude To Mother Of Seven

Mrs. Eleanor A. Jonasson of 312 Lake Ave., Newton Highlands, mother of seven, has received a Bachelor of Science degree magna cum laude in Elementary Education from Boston College.

The fourth member of her family to receive a B.C. degree, she enrolled in the college's Evening School in 1961, when 11 years away from the classroom.

Her brother, Edward Aiken, graduated from the Jesuit university in 1958 while Donald Aiken, another brother, received his degree in 1960 and Paul Aiken graduated in 1963. John, another brother, transferred to West Point from Boston College.

Paul was captain of one of Boston College's finest hockey teams.

"We follow the Boston College hockey team religiously," says Mrs. Jonasson.

A 1948 graduate of Arlington High School, she attended Boston University for a year.

"When most of my children reached school age, I decided to come back to college," she says.

Next fall, she is planning to teach in one of the area schools following a summer of student teaching at Suffolk University.

"Some day, I'd like to go to graduate school," she says.

Mrs. Jonasson says the most difficult problem when she first entered the Evening College was driving herself to concentrate.

"I really think the students here today are much more advanced than we were when we were in school," she notes.

"Trying to keep up with them is a real challenge," she adds.

Mrs. Jonasson's husband, Carl, is employed at Raytheon Co. in Waltham.

Pope Pius XII Suffered In Agony Over Nazi Relations

By ZANDER HOLLANDER
United Press International

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Pius XII, who has been criticized for not speaking out publicly against Nazi crimes during World War II, is depicted in a new Vatican historical volume as a man in agony, trying to do what he thought best in awful circumstances.

The volume, "Letters of Pius XII to German Bishops, 1939-1944," explains the Pope's motives for not openly denouncing the evils of Hitlerism.

But it also may provide some ammunition for Pius' critics by recording his efforts to reach an accommodation with Nazi Germany before the war.

Pius' public silence on Nazism has been condemned by many, perhaps most effectively—and probably somewhat unfairly—by German dramatist Rolf Hochhuth in his play, "The Deputy."

The Pope's critics imply that a papal denunciation of Nazi crimes, coupled with a threat of excommunication for German Catholics who helped commit them, would have persuaded Hitler that the mass extermination of Jews and others condemned by the regime could cause wartime disunity.

Even in Vatican circles, where Hochhuth's name is anathema, you hear churchmen say they think Pius may have erred in not speaking out. But they are generally quick to add that the Pope's motives were the best, that he featred a public denunciation of Jewish persecutions would not have helped the victims at all—indeed, would have spurred the Nazis to worse brutalities, and not only against Jews, but against Catholics.

Moreover, these sources say Pius feared a public denunciation would wreck not only his private efforts to help the Jews but also the papal potential as an impartial arbiter who might further peace.

In these meetings, Pius was concerned with holding Hitler to the concordat signed between the Vatican and the third Reich in 1933—that is, with protecting church property, safeguarding Catholic education of German children, and ending Nazi propaganda against the Church and the papacy.

"My wish is for peace between church and state . . . if they wish a conflict, we shall not fear it. But we do want to see if there is any possibility of arriving at peace . . ." Pius told the cardinals.

Nazis Not Interested

As events were to show, the Nazis were not interested in "peace" on any terms but their own. "We emphasize that we are talking about a peace presentable to God and to the future of the Catholic Church in Germany," Pius wrote Cardinal Bertram. "We are not talking about a 'peace at any price.' "

Bertram, in the view of contemporary German historians, leaned toward appeasing the Nazis. The volume reveals that Bishop Konrad von Preysing of Berlin, perhaps the most vigorous anti-Nazi of the German bishops, asked the Pope to remove Bertram as head of the Bishops Conference and, the request rejected, tried to resign his own bishopric.

But Pius, unwilling to remove Bertram, was equally unwilling to lose Preysing.

The Pope made the Berlin bishop one of his most frequent correspondents, relying on him for frank reports of Nazil crimes and encouraging him to speak out against them.

Preysing, the volume shows, did just that and at least twice urged Pius to publicly condemn the persecution of Jews.

The 124 letters to German bishops seem to bear out this explanation for Pius' silence.

"Superhuman efforts are required to keep the Holy See above the quarrels of the parties . . . It is often painfully difficult to decide whether reserve and prudent silence or frank words and energetic action are called for; all this tortures us much more than the threat to peace and safety in our house," Pius wrote Archbishop Joseph Frings of Cologne, now Cardinal Frings, on March 3, 1944.

Why Published

Some Vatican observers suggest that one of the main reasons for releasing the hitherto secret letters was to put in the public record the true motives of Pius' silence.

The Vatican archives usually keep such documents secret for 50 years.

But in answering critics who accused Pius of criminal ignorance, callousness and even Nazi sympathies, the Vatican also has conceded material for other charges.

For example, an appendix to the letters gives the transcript of conferences Pius held with the four German Cardinals a few days after he became Pope in March, 1939, and six months before the invasion of Poland.

The Pope, the transcripts show, responded warmly to the urgings of Cardinals Adolph Bertram of Breslau, Carl Josef Schulte of Cologne, Michael Faulhaber of Munich and Theodor Innitzer of Vienna that the Church should make an all-out effort to reach an understanding with Nazi Germany.

Pius agreed to write to Adolf Hitler in Germany because, as Faulhaber said, "Der Fuehrer might not like to call in a theologian" to translate a Latin message.

The Pope also agreed to muzzle the anti-Nazi opinions of the Vatican City newspaper Osservatore Romano to avoid offending Hitler.

Pius' critics are likely to seize on what is omitted in the transcripts as well as what was said. There is no mention of concentration camps, then already mushrooming in Germany, nor of Nazi racism and anti-Jewish measures.

"The Holy See has done all within its power both economically and morally to help in charity the Catholic non-Aryans (persons of inferior race, according to the Nazis) as well as those of the Jewish faith," Pius wrote Preysing April 30, 1943.

He made clear that he wanted German Catholics to help the Jews. "It consoled us to hear . . . that Catholics, especially Berlin Catholics, have responded with great love to the needs of the so-called non-Aryans."

The Vatican, Pius told Preysing, was doing all it could to help Jews escape from the Third Reich. But, he added, for Jews trapped inside the Reich, "in the present situation we can unfortunately offer no more effective help than our prayers."

No one can ever say with any certainty if Pius should have uttered more than prayers.

Lime Used By Ancients Now In Big Demand

NEW YORK (UPI) — The plaster ceiling over your head, the concrete road under your wheels and the chalk on your blackboard have one thing in common — they all originated nearly 500 million years ago as shellfish.

The calcium in the remains of the marine animals settled and solidified to help form much of the limestone from which men make lime, a chemical with an ability to neutralize acids economically.

Lime similar to that used in Egyptian tombs, for bleaches by the Romans, and for a variety of necessities by the Aztecs and Incas, is more in demand now than ever before, according to Steelways, official publication of the American Iron and Steel Institute.

The magazine said the American lime industry is in the midst of its greatest expansion program, with steelmakers providing a major market for this new output. The lime industry trade association reports that 1500 tons of new daily capacity have come into operation in recent months while further kiln facilities to produce 7000 more tons daily are planned.

In 1965 alone, the steel industry consumed more than 30 million tons of the stone and about 3 million tons of lime. Most of the steel industry's limestone is used in the blast furnaces which release iron from its ores.

The upsurge in demand for lime, however, has been triggered largely by the great increase in steelmaking by basic oxygen furnaces. These furnaces—in which a jet of high purity oxygen is forced into molten iron—take an average of more than 140 pounds of lime for each ton of steel made, compared with 25 to 30 pounds per ton used in the open hearth furnaces which still dominate in steelmaking, as they have for half a century.

Ire Of Parents Heard At School Committee Meeting

The ire of parents aroused by their dislike for policies in effect at Meadowbrook Junior High School, came in for attention at Monday night's meeting of the School Committee — a session attended by a sizeable delegation of the self-styled "Concerned Parents."

Meadowbrook, newest of the city's five junior high schools, has been attacked by parents who object to the experimental approach to continuous learning at the Newton Centre school. It has been functioning as two schools under a single roof this year, as a result of adoption of the CL, or self-motivated program, along with Tri Delta, or structural, traditional curriculum.

Manuel Beckwith, school committeeman, brought the matter up Monday night, saying that he recalled that parents had been assured that they would have an opportunity to choose a more or less structured program for their children in September. He asked about preparations being made by the school staff, and also asked that a more specific outline of the school plans be prepared on how it is intended to cope with numbers of last minute changes in curriculum.

Superintendent Brown assured the committeeman that Principal Bettina King and her staff have met with Meadowbrook parents and "we are prepared to do exactly what we said we would."

Beck maintained that there have been conflicting reports about communications being made by the school on choice of elective courses next year.

Dr. Brown replied that those communications won't go out until late summer, at which time parents will be invited to confer with the Meadowbrook staff on the program.

The superintendent offered to have a report on Meadowbrook ready for the next meeting of the committee on Monday. June 27, the final meeting of this school year.

Area Residents In Opposition To Apartments

Opposition was on hand at City Hall Monday night, when a petition for a change of zone to permit the building of six garden-type apartments containing 36 units at 77 Walnut St., Newtonville, was given a public hearing by the Claims and Rules Committee and the Planning Board.

Area residents objected on the ground that traffic congestion would result and the neighborhood's character would undergo a change.

The petitioners, Harry D. and Beatrice P. Brenner, 21 Park Ave., Newton, owners of Ruane Flower Shop, 77 Waltham St., West Newton, were represented by Atty. Ernest Angevine. He said the Brenners, who have been Newton residents for 26 years, would like to get out of the flower business and get permission to put up the apartments. The site is opposite the F.A. Day Junior High School.

Angevine said he had a petition signed by 150 area residents in favor of the requested zone change.

Opponents who spoke included Henry Maxwell, 14 Bacon Rd., Newtonville; Abraham Stadlen, 6 Fair Oaks Ave.; Karl Weiz, 8 Bacon Rd.; Fernand A. Boudreau, 607 Watertown St., and Alan G. MacNeil, 168 Walnut St.

The petition was taken under advisement.

1300 Visitors Attend 'Three-Day Art Pageant

The Art Pageant sponsored by the Burr-Murray Road PTA drew many visitors to its three-day exhibition in Lyons Park and has been adjudged an artistic and financial success.

The three goals of the pageant have been achieved. The first, "to stimulate the creative abilities which all our children possess," was superbly demonstrated by the banners and art work done by the children of the school.

The second, "to establish the pageant as a bi-annual Auburndale event," would seem to be achieved by the enthusiasm of local people who contributed to it and wish it to be repeated.

The third, "to start a permanent art collection for the children of Newton," is assured by the financial success, which will make it possible to purchase the beginnings of the collection and, hopefully, from exhibiting artists who will donate paintings.

Miss Charlotte Forgeron, principal of the Burr-Murray Road School, states that approximately 1300 pupils, teachers, principals and parent escorts visited the pageant. Guides were Miss Jean Hoxie, Miss Beverly G. Densler and Mrs. Patricia Van Kampen, art teachers for the Newton schools.

Miss F. Eleanor Elliott, supervisor of Art Education in the Newton schools, directed the selection of the student art and hung the exhibit with the assistance of Mrs. Judy R. Montgomery, elementary art consultant at the Burr-Murray Road Schools. The entire faculty of the Burr-Murray Road Schools supported the pageant beginning with the planning and execution of the banners made by the pupils and serving as hostesses. Miss Helen Boggs, secretary of Murray Road School and Mrs. Cecelia Adams, secretary of Burr School, donated their secretarial services. Custodians William Burke, Roswell B. Carmichael and Lester F. Farrell at Burr School and John Callahan at Murray Road School lent their support during the preparatory stages.

Initial support for the pageant came from Dr. Charles Brown, Superintendent of the Newton Schools, and Stanley Russell, assistant to Dr. Brown, John E. Gilleland, Director of the Office of Business Service and Harold A. Clark, Assistant Director. Pageant plans were then approved by Mrs. Worthing West of the Recreation Committee and John C. Penney, commissioner of the Recreation Department, acted in a general supervisory capacity.

The Newton School Department, through Frederick W. Wright, provided outdoor furniture. The Public Buildings Department, City of Newton, made framework for the protective awnings. The Printing Shop, Newton High School printed the catalog cover. Additional consultants were Russell Doucette and Arthur Hoener, faculty members of Massachusetts College of Art, Miss Charlotte Forgeron Principal Burr - Murray Road Schools, Miss Ellen Livingstone, Art Instructor, Jim Peghiny, electrical engineer, and Mr. Hoagland of Newton Potters.

During the three-day outdoor exhibit in Lyons Park demonstrations were given by the following local artists and craftsmen: Ann Martha Stanzler, drawing; Elaine Koretsky; wood products; Mrs. Mary S. Shakespeare, silk screen; Rosalind Smith, woodblock printing; Ada and Debbie Spivack, enameling; Mrs. R. K. Schwartz, weaving; Polly Egelson, sculpture; and June Fried and Lois Rosenthal of the Jewish Community Center of Brookline, Brighton and Newton, rug hooking. Ceramics by Margaret Rosenfeld were displayed in the Japanese garden created by Mrs. Elaine Eisenberg.

At the conclusion of the exhibition in Lyons Park the Art Pageant moved into the Auburndale Library. The Library exhibit was made possible through the cooperation of A. William Kunkel, director, Newton Free Library and Mrs. Marie Simpson, Auburndale Branch Librarian.

Miss Ruth S. Fielden, Supervisor of Adult Services, Miss Ann E. Golding, Supervisor of Children's Services, and Miss Bertha L. Cain, Assistant Librarian, arranged a collection of books for adults and children related to arts and crafts. Mrs. Virginia Tashjian, Newton Free Library Storyteller gave a story hour.

On Monday evening a reception was held in the Library for the exhibiting artists. Mrs. Maureen Hagerstrom served a collation featuring exotic "foods from far places" donated by the Mothers of the Burr-Murray Road School PTA.

Gangland-Type Murder Sets Off Police Probe

An investigation is being made by Newton police to determine if there was a holdup of a high-stakes card or dice game in Nonantum on a recent Sunday night.

The probe was ordered by Police Chief Philip Purcell following published reports that the card game holdup is one of the leads being checked by detectives working on the apparent gangland slaying of Rocco DiSeglio, 26, of 51 West St., Newton, a former welterweight boxer.

Chief Purcell declared yesterday that his men are endeavoring to track down the reports but so far have only rumors and no facts on which to work.

"We are investigating to see if there was a gambling game going on in Nonantum," Chief Purcell told the Graphic.

"At this point it's still rumor,' the chief added. "We have not yet come up with anything concrete."

He pointed out that conflicting versions have been published concerning the supposed card or dice game.

The police chief also stressed the difficulty of trying to pin down any facts concerning a possible floating card or dice game since the participants in such a game—even if they are held up and robbed don't come forward to tell about it or to volunteer any information.

What reports have been received have come in whispered rumors from gangland.

According to stories circulated in the underworld, there was a high-stake card game recently on a quiet Sunday night in Nonantum.

The underworld sources say that three holdup men, all with guns, broke in on the card game, swept the table bare of money and forced the players to empty out their pockets.

One of the players, according to the reports, was roughed up because he tried to hide a sum of money from the robbers.

As the three holdup men were leaving, so the story goes, they forced their victims to loosen and drop their trousers.

The holdup men supposedly departed with between $3000 and $4000.

Whether there actually was a holdup of a card game and whether it would provide a lead toward solving the murder of DiSeglio—if there was such a holdup—are matters on which police are now working.

Newton police are not yet able to state whether the rumors are fact or fancy.

As might be expected, no report of the supposed holdup was made to police, but rumors concerning it spread swiftly through underworld circles.

All the indications are that DiSeglio was the victim of a

By JAMES G. COLBERT

Democratic Conclave Caused Richardson to Run for A. G.

Lieutenant Governor Elliot L. Richardson is an unusual politician who places the well-being of his political party above his own personal desires and political ambitions.

Richardson, who will be the Republican nominee for Attorney General, would have preferred to stand for reelection as Lieutenant Governor for a number of reasons.

He would have had a relatively easy fight if he had sought reelection. He now faces a tough battle in his attempt to hold the post of Attorney General for his party.

Proposed Charter Changes To Get Aldermanic Airing

A special meeting of the Board of Alderman, called for Monday, June 27, at 7:45 p.m., in City Hall by Mayor Monte G. Basbas, will discuss and review the report on proposed city charter changes submitted by the body's Legislative Committee.

Ald. William M. Glovsky, chairman of the Legislative Committee that conducted the charter study, recommended that this meeting be held.

Glovsky presided at a hearing held May 10 to get public expressions on changes proposed in the 69-year-old charter.

At next Monday's meeting, the Legislative Committee will offer the Board a recommendation on House Bill 2876. It is felt that this could be a recommendation that the State Legislature authorize a referendum on the ballot in the 1967 election, or, the Aldermanic committee could recommend rejection of the proposed changes.

House 2867 was filed last December by Rep. Irving Fishman, and it was signed by Reps. Joseph G. Bradley and Paul F. Malloy. Rep. Theodore G. Mann, also of Newton, did not sign the bill, and spoke against the changes at the May 10 hearing.

Since submitting the bill, its sponsors have deleted from it a provision that would have called for a salary of $1000 per year for the city's aldermen.

One of the changes in the charter calls for a Board of Aldermen comprising eight ward aldermen and five aldermen-at-large, instead of the present Board of 24 members.

Also proposed is a four-year term for the Mayor, aldermen and School Committee members.

There has been a report circulated that the city's Republicans believe the Democrats are attempting a "takeover" by reducing the aldermanic body and increasing the terms of elected officials.

Phi Beta Kappa Books Are Given 2 High School Pupils

Frank Colley Newton June6

In keeping with the goals of national Phi Beta Kappa, a fraternity of sholars, to foster and recognize scholarship among high school students, Newton members of Phi Beta Kappa have again made an award this year to a member of each of the graduating classes of Newton's high schools.

Selection of the recipients of the Phi Beta Kappa Book Award is made by the faculty and administration of Newton High School and Newton South High School on the basis of highest achievement in scholarship, citizenship and all-around activities.

The award is presented at commencement exercises and consists of a book or set of books on a subject of interest to the recipient. A bronze plaque honoring the recipients of the award is on view in each of the high schools, and each year the name of the annual winner is added to the list.

The Newton High School Phi Beta Kappa Book Award this year goes to May Ying Chen, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Robert Chen, of 185 Fairway Drive, West Newton, and consists of an edition edited by Nigel Gosling entitled: Art Treasures of the Louvre.

The Newton South High School Phi Beta Kappa Book Award goes to Jane S. Kumin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Kumin, of 40 Bradford Rd., Newton Highlands. She receives a volume by R. Hughues, entitled: Leningrad.

This year a new custom has been established by Newton Phi Beta Kappas. A duplicate of the award will be presented to the library of each school as the start of a Phi Beta Kappa Bookshelf. Past awards will be duplicated and future awards will also be matched. In this way it is hoped that the entire student body of Newton's high schools will benefit.

This year's Book Commitee was made up of Mrs. Jere Mead, Mrs. Dorothy Restall, and Mr. Samuel Resnick, all members of the Newton Phi Beta Kappa Executive Committee. Other committee members are: Frank M. Chambers, chairman; Milton L. Levy, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Gordon Bloom, Mrs. Thomas Hayden, Mrs. Mark Aronson, and Mr. Michael Cooper.

Membership in the Newton Phi Beta Kappa Group is open to any member of Phi Beta Kappa residing in Newton.

Burglars Keep Busy; 4 Breaks Over Week-end

Three Newton homes and a business establishment were broken into over the past weekend.

Jewelry, including a diamond pendant worth $2500, two wedding bands valued at between $40 and $50 and a charm bracelet worth between $15 and $20, was taken by burglars who robbed the apartment of David Levine at 37 Commonwealth avenue, Chestnut Hill.

An undetermined amount of jewelry, including a platinum bracelet, earrings and a necklace, was stolen by thieves who looted the home of Edward U. Ritter at 413 Hammond street, Chestnut Hill.

Entrance was gained to the dwelling through an unlocked pantry window.

Leon H. Temkin of 47 June lane, Newton Centre, reported to police that his home was entered. He said that a lady's wrist watch and $1.25 in cash were stolen from a bedroom. A loaf of bread also was taken.

A break at Silver Lake Motors, 444 Watertown street, Newton, was discovered by Patrolman Richard J. Braceland who found that the door to the parts department had been forced open. Anthony Fantasia, the manager, was unable to determine what was missing.

Brendan J. Whittaker Jr., son of Mrs. E. J. Whittaker, 62 Herrick road, Newton Centre, received a Bachelor of Divinity degree and the Ames Prize for Preaching at Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge. A former forester for the state of Vermont, he will be curate at Trinity Church, Rutland, Vt., following his ordination.

Jonathan I. Narcus, 30 Quincy road, Chestnut Hill, was graduated with the degree of Juris Doctor from Western Reserve University School of Law, Cleveland, Ohio.

Daniels Agency Moves Offices To New Address

Donald L. Daniels, of Waban, announced this week the removal of his Life Brokerage Agency to the Boston Chamber of Commerce Building, 80 Federal street.

As the business of Mr. Daniels and his associates has grown through the years in the field of Pensions, Profit Sharing and Estate Planning, it has become necessary for the firm to be located near the attorneys, accountants, banks and insurance companies with whom cooperation is essential.

Daniels Associates is an outgrowth of Mr. Daniels' personal life insurance business started in 1937 and was one of the first to make use of funding media in equity investments along with fixed dollar annuity guarantees, accepting the "variable annuity" principle long before most in the industry deemed it appropriate.

Other Agency associates include Roy Brown, Accident and Health specialist, and Mrs. Bernice Barres, Brokerage Secretary.

High Color In Watches Adding Charm To Time

NEW YORK (UPI) — High color charm watches that can be worn as accessories just about anywhere, including the wrist, are a fashion trend in timepieces.

"This new trend toward color in fashion watches fits in with recent findings of psychologists who report that most women dream in color, while most men dream only in black-and-white," says George Keyo, women's fashion expert for the Caravelle Division of Bulova.

"Traditionally, women have preferred yellow gold color watches with yellow gold color dial markings and hands. Now this traditional feminine preference is enhanced by the bright reds, yellows, blues, greens, and other high colors found on the newest charm watches."

Local Graduates Given Degrees At Jr. College

Forty-eight Newton residents were among the recipients of degrees at recent commencement exercises held at Newton Junior College.

"The 34 years between now and 2000 will bring changes and obsolescence with increasing rapidity in social, technical, and political realities, leaving the educated person farther and farther behind unless we accept the responsibility to renew ourselves in process to make us capable to meet these changes," said Dr. J. Wendell Yeo, vice president of Boston University, in his address at the commencement exercises at the Meadowbrook Auditorium.

Dr. Yeo suggested that "education for renewal," should teach to innovate so that the mind may be used with relevance in the rapid changes unpredictable today.

Three major characteristics of this type of education are: (1) the ability to "select and develop attitudes and skills for independent and lifelong learning and growth;" (2) education of the imagination for "new and creative solutions to baffling problems and seemingly impossible problems;" and (3) "human relations education, using knowledge or the well-being of others . . . using the research of social science in man's relationship to men."

Charles W. Dudley, president of the college, greeted the students and guests.

President Dudley announced that an innovation in the college commencement exercises this year is the awarding of Distinguished Achievement Awards, the highest honor a two-year college may accord individuals who have brought distinction to themselves and the community by their outstanding achievement.

This year the Annual Distinguished Achievement Awards were given to Mrs. Ruth Karp and Harry Nichols, alumni of the college, who recently were elected to Phi Beta Kappa at Boston University College of Liberal Arts. The citations were read by Dr. Charles D. Merrill, Dean of the college.

Degrees and certificates were conferred by Professor Berman and Mr. Krim.

Following the exercises, the graduates and their guests attended the President's Reception, where President and Mrs. Dudley and members of the platform party received the graduates, their parents, and friends.

Newton residents among graduates are:

Local Composer Given Honorary College Degree

Dartmouth College has conferred the honorary doctor of humane letters degree on Homer P. Whitford, composer, teacher and organist-director at the First Church in Chestnut Hill.

Professor Whitford was one of seven honorary degree recipients at the combined baccalaureate and commencement ceremonies here.

In this citation Dartmouth President John Sloan Dickey said:

"Homer P. Whitford, you can say with happy remembering, I worked with many men but served one master, music. A graduate of two conservatories, Tarkio and Oberlin, a student of composition at Harvard and of the organ in Paris and elsewhere, for sixty years you have been a devoted subject of that 'King of instruments, while as composer, arranger and conductor you added to music's domain over one hundred published compositions and arrangements. You served this College as teacher for twelve years and as director of a Glee Club that won two intercollegiate championships; and yet for the men of Dartmouth all else is nothing as against the truth that thanks to that happiest combination of college song, Franklin McDuffee's lyrics and your composition, there is music 'for our singing' that, like Dartmouth, is 'miraculously builded in our hearts.' In gratitude to you and in honored memory of the poet whose Dartmouth Undying you bound in the beauty of sound, Dartmouth awards you her honorary doctorate of humane letters."

Professor Whitford is immortalized at Dartmouth for his "Dartmouth Undying," a song he composed shortly after joining the Dartmouth faculty in 1923. It is one of Dartmouth's best known and loved songs.

Professor Whitford was assistant professor of music, college organist and director of the Dartmouth Glee Club until 1935, when he left to assume duties as organist of the First Congregational Church in Cambridge.

He is now organist and director of the First Church (Unitarian) in Chestnut Hill, conductor of the Brimmer-May School Glee Club, director of music therapy and organist at McLean Hospital, and an active composer and arranger.

He has served as director of several choral groups in this area, including the Lexington Choral Society and the Highland Glee Club, Newton. He is also lecturer on music therapy at the New England Conservatory of Music.

gangland slaying, whatever the motives and reasons behind his killing.

He was found dead on the passenger side of his wife's sports car on a little-used road in a remote section of Topsfield.

Whether he was killed there or slain elsewhere and then driven there is not known.

Police said he had been shot three times in the back of the head. They reported there was also a dent in the roof of the car as if it had been hit by a bullet fired from inside the automobile.

He had more than $200 in his pocket when he was found, ruling out robbery as a possible reason for his slaying.

An unusual aspect to DiSeglio's dress when his lifeless body was found was that he was wearing sports clothes but had on a pair of black kid gloves.

Police theorize that DiSeglio may have been "set up" for his assassination, that his killers may have asked him to accompany them on some kind of errand and that this was why he was wearing the kid gloves.

Born in Italy, DiSeglio came to Newton when he was about eight years old. He attended Newton schools and participated in amateur boxing bouts when he was 16, later becoming a professional fighter.

When he gave up the fight game, he went into construction work.

Funeral services were held Monday for DiSeglio.

He is survived by his wife, a two-year-old son, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sebastino DiSeglio of Newton, by six sisters and two brothers.

Chief Purcell has accepted the post and is expected to begin his duties in September.

The Law Enforcement Assistance Act was signed into law last November by President Johnson, who is asking 14 million for its implementation this year.

Chief Of Medicine Named At Hospital

The appointment of Dr. Lot B. Page of Lincoln as chief of medicine at Newton-Wellesley Hospital was announced today by Jarvis Farley of Wellesley, president of the hospital's board or trustees.

Beginning October 1st, Dr. Page will center his clinical research activities at the 260-bed suburban teaching hospital, an affiliate of Tufts University School of Medicine. In addition, Dr. Page has been named an associate Professor of medicine at Tufts Medical School.

Since 1959, Dr. Page has been chief of the Hypertension Study Group and Clinic at Massachusetts General Hospital.

He is an assistant physician at Mass. General and an associate in medicine at Harvard Medical School.

Mr. Farley indicated the appointment of Dr. Page caps a three year search for a new chief of medicine, by a committee comprising physicians and trustee-management members of the community hospital.

"His presence will continue a tradition of strong leadership in the hospital's department of medicine. He will bring to us a combination of keen clinical skill and deep interest in community medical development," said Mr. Farley.

Dr. Page follows Dr. Arthur D. Baldwin of Wellesley as chief of medicine at Newton-Wellesley.

One of the prime movers of the hospital's affiliation with a medical school, Dr. Baldwin agreed to serve as chief beyond a normal term, and until his successor was selected.

Mr. Farley noted, "Dr. Baldwin furnished outstanding direction to the department of medicine. We are indebted for his service and for his guidance in helping to choose a new chief," he said.

Dr. Page attended Washington University of Medicine and Harvard Medical School. He graduated from West Newbury (Mass.) High School, attended Middlebury College, and completed his pre-medical education at the University of Missouri.

He was an intern and a resident in medicine at Massachusetts General Hospital. At New York University Medical School, he was an instructor in physiology and participated in research in renal physiology.

During the Korean conflict, he saw active duty with the United States Army Medical Corps. Later, he was assigned to the Army Medical Research Laboratory at Fort Knox, Kentucky. There he pursued research in renal and environmental physiology.

He was a post-doctoral Fellow with the United States Public Health Service and conducted research into mechanisms of ion transplant through biological membranes, a project directed by Dr. Alexander Leaf of Massachusetts General Hospital.

From 1959 to 1961, he was acting director of the clinical chemistry laboratory of Mass. General.

He has written extensively about his medical research. Currently, he is conducting studies about causes of hypertension, under a grant provided by the National Institute of Health.

Dr. Page is married to the former Patricia Howe and is the father of three children.

During July and August he

will be a member of the Harvard University Solomon Islands expedition, conducting medical and anthropological studies among primitive tribes of Bougainville and Malaita Islands.

Newton-Wellesley Hospital presently is celebrating its 80th year of community service. The hospital opened on June 5, 1886 and admitted its first patient on June 12, 1886.

Political Highlights

Richardson preferred the duties of Lieutenant Governor to those of Attorney General.

No ordinary Lieutenant Governor, he was assigned special duties and responsibilities by Governnor Volpe in the fields of health, welfare and education, areas in which Richardson is an acknowledgd expert on the basis of his service as Acting Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare during the Eisenhower administration.

He enjoyed his work in those fields, and he performed it well.

If Volpe and Richardson both were reelectd as Governor and Lieutenant Governor respectively next November, Richardson would have been almost automatically in line for the GOP gubernatorial nomination in 1970 when Volpe plans to retire to private life - - if he isn't elected President or Vice President in 1968.

The hard political fact of the matter is that no other Republican except Richardson could win the Attorney Generalship. If Richardson were Lieutenant Governor in 1970 and a Democrat were serving as Attorney General, Richardson would have the gubernatorial field to himself.

But the realization that he was the only Republican who would have a real chance of achieving election as Attorney General was the overriding factor which caused Richardson to reach his hard decision.

His decision obviously was finalized when Francis X. Bellotti won the Attorney General endorsement at the Democratic State Convention.

If Representative Michael Dukakis of Brookline or former State Commerce Commissioner Lester S. Hyman or former Assistant Attorney General Robert DeGiacomo had been the Attorney General choice of the Democratic conclave, Richardson undoubtedly would have sought another term as Lieutenant Governor.

DR. H. RICHARD NESSON

Dr. Nesson In New Post At Hospital

Dr. H. Richard Nesson of Chestnut Hill has been appointed assistant director of the Medical Service at Beth Israel Hospital. Associated with the hospital since 1959, he most recently has been Associate Director of the Clinical Center, a continuing responsibility in his new position.

Dr. Nesson was graduated ed from Harvard College with the A.B. Degree in 1954 and received the M.D. degree from Boston University Medical School in 1959.

He began his postgraduate medical training as Intern in Medicine at Beth Israel and continued as Assistant Resident the following year.

In 1961-62, he was Renal-Metabolic Fellow at the Massachusetts Memorial Hospital and returned to Beth Israel the following year as Chief Resident in Medicine. He held the post of Medical Director of Ambulatory Services from 1963 through 1964.

Dr. Nesson has been a Teaching Fellow in Medicine at Tufts University School of Medicine and currently serves as Instructor in Medicine and Tutor in Medical Sciences at the Harvard Medical School.

A native of Boston, Dr. Nesson is married to the former Lois Feinberg of Somerset, and they have two children: Edward Donald, 5, and Sara Faye, 2.

That Richardson holds Bellotti in less than high esteem was reflected in a statement, obviously aimed at Bellotti, when he said the office of Attorney General "is not the place for a political opportunist looking for power and patronage."

Until the Democratic conclave gave its endorsement to Bellotti, there was a strong likelihood Richardson would run for reelection. But the Democratic convention changed the picture from Richardson's viewpoint.

Richardson also provided a tipoff as to his thinking when he said: "If you were making the best alignment of the Republican strength, I suppose you wouldn't run me against Joseph McGuire (Joseph E. McGuire of Worcester who won the Democratic endorsement for Lieutenant Governor but who isn't as well known to the voters as he was to the delegates at the conclave).

In other words, Richardson was saying, in effect, that if the GOP was to utilize its political power to the fullest advantage, he would be expected to oppose a stronger candidate than McGuire.

While Richardson insists that his decision to become a candidate for Attorney General was his own and that Governor Volpe did not influence him, the fact is that Volpe in recent weeks has not exactly been beating the bushes in search of an outstanding contender for Attorney General.

However, Volpe may have considered that such a search would be fruitless because neither Volpe nor Richardson will be quite as strong in next autumn's election as if they were running in a tandem for Governor and Lieutenant Governor.

If Volpe's primary concern is to gain another term as Governor, Richardson's move to the Attorney General slot on the Republican State ticket will not help him to achieve that objective as much as if Richardson had stood pat.

So now Richardson is running for an office which was not his first choice. He does not relish the idea of assuming the image of a prosecutor. Nevertheless, he'll make a hard fight for the Attorney Generalship, and he's preparing for a knock-down battle with Bellotti.

Whether Bellotti, who is facing a primary conflict, will actually be Richardson's November adversary will not be known until the Democratic primary returns are counted on the night of Sept. 13.

Ironically, ex-Governor Endicott Peabody helped to make possible the endorsement of Bellotti by the Democratic State Convention which influenced the decision of Richardson to seek the Attorney Generalship.

Democratic circles are still buzzing over the convention alliance between Peabody and Bellotti, foes in the 1964 Democratic primary, and the manner in which they traded delegate votes.

If Senator Edward M. Kennedy had his way at the convention, Richardson probably would be running for reelection as Lieutenant Governor instead of having his sights set on the Attorney General.

Ted Kennedy tried quietly to persuade the top winners at the Democratic State Convention to revamp the bottom of the State ticket and endorse Secretary of State Kevin H. White for Attorney General and Lester S. Hyman for Lieutenant Governor.

Peabody and former Attorney General Edward J. McCormack either didn't buy the idea or weren't prepared to do what was necessary to carry it out, and the convention endorsements for the two offices went to Bellotti and McGuire instead of White and Hyman as Ted suggested.

If Kevin White had been the convention choice for Attorney General, Richardson probably would have been a candidate for reelection as Lieutenant Governor.

It doesn't happen often, but this time the decision of a Democratic State Convention had a chain reaction in the Republican party.

Republican Convention To Lack Drama, Thrills

Don't expect the same drama and excitement at the Republican State Convention this Saturday as exploded and flared at the Democratic conclave in the same hall a fortnight before.

The GOP will put on a spectacle and a show.

There will be bands and banners and demonstrations, all of which were banned at the Democratic convention.

But there will be no thrilling fights for the endorsement of the convention.

If the Democrats had allowed the time necessary for bands to parade through the hall and the delegates to demonstrate for their favorite candidates, they wouldn't have been able to conclude their business in two days.

The Republicans can permit these side activities, start their convention at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and still get home in time for dinner Saturday because they have no real fights to decide.

Practically everything will be settled in advance, and the convention itself will be cut and dried.

The only thing even resembling a contest will be waged for the endorsement for Lieutenant Governor, and that isn't likely to be much of a battle.

Opponents fo rthat spot on the GOP State ticket will be State Public Works Commissioner Francis W. Sargent and Representative Francis W. Hatch, Jr., of Beverly.

If Sargent and Hatch were to fight it out on their own, it would be quite a duel.

But Volpe is understood to want Sargent as his running mate, and what Volpe wants at this convention, Volpe will get.

Volpe is leaving nothing to chance in his efforts to put together what he considers a strong and balanced GOP State ticket, and the delegates will be told how he wants them to vote.

From where we sit ex-Representative Francis W. Perry of Duxbury, who is available, would be a stronger candidate for Lieutenant Governor than either Sargent or Hatch and would be more help to Volpe as his running mate.

Volpe, however, doesn't share that opinion, and his opinion will be the one which counts at Saturday's convention.

Both Attorney General Edward W. Brooke, who will be the Republican candidate for U. S. Senator, and Richardson, who will be the convention choice for Attorney General, will have token opposition at the conclave unless their present opponents recognize the futility of their bids.

J. Alan McKay, a member of the Conservative Young Americans for Freedom, will challenge Brooke, and former Representative Robert Hahn of Stoughton will stand against Richardson.

John J. Buckley, a special assistant to Senator Leverett Saltonstall, will be endorsed for State Auditor, probably by acclamation.

Governor Volpe will handpick the candidates for State Treasurer and Secretary of State. The guessing is that he'll use those two places on the GOP ticket either to balance it geographically or racially or to mollify some of the unsuccessful contenders for Attorney General and Lieutenant Governor.

Representative Mary B. Newman of Cambridge, an extremely able legislator, probably would accept the endorsement of Secretary of State if Volpe wants a woman on his ticket.

Mrs. Newman is so capable a law-maker, however, that some of Volpe's advisers may be reluctant to see her give up her seat in the House of Representatives to run for an office she probably can't win.

Former Republican State Committee Chairman Frederic C. (Buck) Dumaine, the old firebrand, will take the endorsement for State Treasurer if Volpe can't find anyone else.

Political observers, however, anticipate that Volpe will find someone else — someone who will help to balance out the Republican slate.

The way it is at the Republican conventions is that the decisions as to who will be endorsed for what offices sometimes aren't made until the night before or even the day of the conclave.

Two years ago, ex-Representative Wallace B. Crawford of Pittsfield was taking a brief respite from the convention and was having a bite to eat in a restaurant near the Boston Arena when Volpe sent word to him that he was to be endorsed for Secretary of State and to hurry back to accept the endorsement.

The decision to tap the surprised Crawford was made near the close of the convention.

Elementary School Pupils Develop Orchestra Career

Elementary School children in Newton have among them some veteran performing musical students. These children are members of the All-Newton Elementary School Orchestra which is under the direction of George A. Napoli and Vincent J. Marotto, both from the Division of Instruction of the Newton Schools.

James Remley of this division is their Supervisor and together with his directors has provided these children with a Thursday afternoon forum for assemblying together and producing some stunning musical concerts.

The students are selected from all of the elementary grades in Newton and are usually chosen in their fifth or sixth year in school. Many times children have entered the orchestra as early as the third and fourth grades, as they are in this year's orchestra.

They concluded a full year of music appreciation, ensemble work and performance by a special appearance in two elementary schools in West Hartford last Tuesday as special guests of the Department of Education of Hartford. This was a long to be remembered experience for these youngsters.

The opportunity to get together and put their musical talents to work has been an inviuable one. This same group last year was also especially honored by being invited to play before a meeting of music educators held in Amherst, where they were the only group of school musicians to be invited to perform.

The group meets each Thursday afternoon for a one or two hour rehearsal (if preparing for a performance) or music-fest (just for a challenge in sight-playing of new pieces). Many non-committed musicians turn out by year's end to have become die-hard performers. Their repertoire has developed into playing of difficult operatic music and even to contemporaries such as the disonances of Bela Bartok.

They prepared for a few weeks in the Fall for a series of concerts in several of the elementary schools and also for another series in the Spring, which performances have brought considerable praise for its conductors. Mr. Napoli and Mr. Marotto, as witnessed by the reception of both the teaching staffs and the children.

Official end for the year's experience culminates in the Annual Elementary School Concert at Meadowbrook Junior High School, featuring the orchestra and the All-Newton Sixth Grade Chorus.

This performance is presented to the parents, friends and members of the faculty of the schools and Staff Members of the School Department. The Chorus is under the direction of Mr. Remley and this year's accompanist for the combined chorus was Mrs. Linda Maranis from the Division.

Mrs. Maranis has also accompanied several soloist performances of the young orchestra's Concert Master, Peter Zazofsky of the Angier School. Mr. Zazofsky comes by his talents honestly, as he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Zazofsky of Waban, a leading member of the violin section of our own Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Other young people from the orchestra who have performed as soloists through the year were Jennifer Spinks (violin), Jo Ann Napoli (violin), and Robert Yaffee (piano). Mr. Yaffee is a regular member of the cello section. Also, Richard Perles on violin.

ANESO personnel this year represents 13 schools: from Angier: Jane Bloom, Julie Kritzman, Peter Zazofsky; Beethoven: Paul Altman, Robert Beaser, Amy Hiatt, Michael Kaplan, Teddy Ramonow, Gary Ross, Gerald Shrair, Lisa Sobel, Michael Turner, Robert Yaffe; Bowen: Jennifer Spinks; Cabot: David Gomberg, Donald Hicks, Kathleen O'Donnell; Claflin: James Orent, James Simons; Countryside: Emily Karp; Emerson: Jennifer Kimball, Nita Terlizzi; Hyde: Miriam Axelrod, Laurie Gilbert, Martha Juillerat, Sonya Merian, Jane Starkman; Mason-Rice: Bryna Bograd, Dorene Krieks, Philip Kruger, Richard Perles, Stephanie Rose, John Sabelli, Joseph Singer; Memorial: Lewis Blair, Richard Brodie, Audrey Goodman, Peter Harvey, James Sidman; Oak Hill: Priscilla Cohen, Laura Greene, Wendy Karg, Leon Maleson, Jo Ann Napoli, Matthew Sisson, Laurel Simon; Williams: James Berkowitz, Jonathan Levy; Ward: Gay Gordon, Lise Reichard.

Mr. Napoli and Mr. Marotto had a word of thanks to the parents of the young performers at the final school performance at the Oak Hill School this past Thursday, for making much of their success possible by getting children to and from the odd places and times for performances by the young people.

The orchestra is losing the greatest number of players this year than it has in previous years. The directors and the upcoming new musicians look forward to next year's challenge to recreate another such experience for not only the musicians but for the school children, their audiences.

Petition For Single Elementary School Session Has 1000 Signers

A petition asking that elementary school sessions be changed so that the hours of all five days of the week will be the same already has more than 1000 signatures, according to a spokesman for the Single Sessions Committee, and it will be presented to the School Committee at its next meeting, Monday, June 27, which will be in Day Jr. High School, 100 Walnut street, Newtonville.

Elementary classes have had two sessions on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays for the past 58 years, and only on Tuesdays and Thursdays does the session end at noon.

At the School Committee's June 13 meeting, which was attended by a large delegation from the Single Sessions Committee, Charles E. Brown, superintendent of schools, said that efforts would be directed toward complying with the new state law, which requires a total of 25 hours per week for elementary school sessions. He also said that there would be some flexibility in the scheduling of each day's sessions. (At present, the elementary schools are in session only 23½ hours per week.)

Meantime, assuming that a compromise of some kind may be in prospect, the Single Sessions Committee has taken its case directly to Dr. Owen D. Kiernan, State Commissioner of Education.

In their letter to Dr. Kiernan, the parents ask for a meeting with the state board "if by chance or for any reason whatsoever, the Newton School Department attempts to seek an accommodation to your five hours per day ruling."

The letter maintains that "a consistent and regular day in elementary school is advantageous to the child and also helps the teacher plan her schedule more uniformly."

Signers of the letter were Richard S. Fallows, 5 Bellingham street, Newton Highlands, a former president of Hyde School PTA, who has been named as the committee's spokesman; and by Mrs. Joan Saklad, coordinator.

James T. Vanderslice, son of Mrs. Joseph R. Vanderslice, 150 Tremont street, Newton, was awarded a Ph.D. in Philosophy at Catholic University, Washington, D. C. He was graduated from Boston College in 1962.

Lee Loumos Says:

Summer is officially here and the real hot weather will soon be on us with a vengeance. We are now substantially caught up on our backlog of pre-season work and are ready for volume installation of new machines. I need not tell those of you who have air conditioning in your home or office about the "good life." But for those who are still without at least one air conditioner in your bedroom let me give you the "word." People have discovered that no matter what the pressure of life or weather, if you can sleep in a cool, dry room each night, you will find new strength and vitality to face the next day and whatever it brings. And, best of all, to make your purchase easy, our prices have never been lower.

Centre Woman's Club Plans Art Festival

The Art Committee of the Newton Centre Woman's Club met last Thursday, June 16th to formulate advance plans for the Arts and Crafts Festival to be held in October. Miss Florence Kostarelos is chairman of the committee and called the meeting.

It was announced that the Festival would open on Sunday, October 23rd, with tea and sherry being served from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m.

The Festival will continue until October 29th, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. On Tuesday and Thursday evenings, the Festival will be open from 7 to 9 p.m.

The Newton Centre Woman's Club decided that the year 1965 was a timely occasion to initiate a yearly Arts and Crafts Festival for a scholarship fund.

This venture proved most successful and a scholarship was given to Miss Marion Leu of Newton High School.

That this festival was well accepted by more than 2500 people of the Newtons and surrounding towns, encouraged Miss Kostarelos to put on this second Scholarship Art Festival at the Newton Centre Woman's Club in 1966.

The Art Committee is now hard at work getting program ads. Mrs. Stanton J. Ten Broeck Jr. has charge of the patron list, with Mrs. William E. Connors working on the door prize, a Gloucester painting donated by Arthur Safford. The workers slogan is "Dollars for SCHOLARS." Miss Kostarelos can be reached at Tel. 969-7453 or LO 6-5588.

Come clean, Arthur Treacher!
How can you send us two maids for only $4.50 a day?
It's true. Call Arthur Treacher Service System has developed team method maid service. That costs a fraction of what old-fashioned full-time maids cost.
The idea is that the Clean Team works on a job basis. Not by the hour. They get the job done. Properly ... every day. No matter how long it takes. But it doesn't take too long. Because our people are experts. They make the bed, do the dishes, clean the bathroom and kitchen, dust and tidy up.
And they are bonded, insured, uniformed, reliable people. On our payroll. So you don't have to worry about social security, taxes, lunches, carfare, etc. You pay as little as $4.50 for this improved daily service.
Besides "Clean Teams" the Call Arthur Treacher Service System has other kinds of home service help: cooks, chauffeurs, bartenders, butlers, housekeepers, babysitters, window washers, carpenters, handymen, etc. Available on an hourly, daily or weekly basis. But that's another story. Right now we're scheduling "Clean Teams" in your neighborhood. So learn how to enjoy all the Treacher Comforts with the "Clean Team." It's like being on a permanent vacation with hotel-type maid service in your own home.
Call today . . . sleep tomorrow.

Folding Doors Hide Work-Areas Handsomely

You'll bless your hidden assets when you use designer-styled folding doors to close off the view of utilitarian household items not in constant use.

A washer and dryer alcove in the kitchen or service room can take on glamour with a folding door alcove enclosure.

In areas such as the laundry space, the appliances can be completely out of view when not in use, yet when opened, the doors lie flat against adjoining walls.

The machines are then in full view, easily accessible and offer plenty of room to work in unimpeded.

Best of all, the doors can be completely installed within ten minutes by any handyman with common hand tools. They're pre-hung — which means that they are complete on their own frmes.

The entire folding door unit slips into the alcove opening and nails in place through predrilled holes in the frame. All hardware is in place. The job is completed by clipping plastic molding trim onto hooks built into the frame.

HOW TO SUCCEED IN BUSINESS BY REALLY TRYING

Corcoran Ford sales are at an all-time high. During May Ford outsold all other car makes!

The word is spreading–fast–that Ford is building its best cars ever. And it's true. Never have Ford cars been so good – never have Ford sales been so high.

People discovered our 1966 Ford was the safest and strongest Ford ever built. A strong car, well-engineered, is a safer and quieter car–and the '66 Ford has a ride that is quieter even than some of Europe's most expensive hand-built luxury cars.

Over a million people have already bought Mustangs. This rare blend of sports-car excitement and solid value is the most popular new car in history . . . and right now it's the world's best-selling hardtop and convertible.

Wagon buyers are excited about our Magic Door-gate – the greatest step forward in wagon convenience in years. It opens out like a door for people and swings down like a tailgate for cargo. It's standard equipment on all Ford or Fairlane wagons.

Car shoppers discovered a whole new range of comforts and conveniences. The '66 Ford offers power front disc brakes, a Stereo-Sonic Tape System, America's largest V-8 to perform on regular fuel, Silent-Flo Ventilation that keeps air fresh with all windows closed, and a new Safety/Convenience Control Panel that lets you lock all doors with one switch, has lights to warn if fuel's low or a door's ajar, reminds you to fasten seat belts.

A whole new group of sports-minded car buyers has come over to Fairlane. Friends Of Free Library Urge Junior College Site

Daniel Ahern, president of Friends of the Free Library, reported following the recent meeting of the organization that the group would like Mayor Basbas to order a further main library site study with more emphasis on the professional opinions of the city librarian.

During the discussion, A. William Kunkel, librarian, indicated his interest in the site now occupied by the Newton Junior College. Although the Mayor's Site Committee did not select this site, the report did state that it was "very desirable." The committee report recommended that a new main library be built at Homer and Walnut street, Newton Centre.

Mr. Kunkel stated that the Homer street site would not give residents efficient service. Two major branch libraries would be located about a mile from it, he said, and would continue to attract much library business. Placing the library in the City Hall area, he continued, would create a system of 11 branches. The present system has 10.

"The committee did not consider the Newton Junior College site in its final vote," Kunkel said, "because the committee thought it was unavailable. Since this site is in an acceptable area, I believe the city should explore the possibility of its becoming available — in some way — before the main library is built."

Business enacted at the meeting included the election of officers for 1967: Daniel J. Ahern, Jr., president; Mrs. George Michaels, vice president; Jerrold R. Hickey, vice president; Mrs. Nathan Freedman, vice president; George Brewer, treasurer; Mrs. Harry Tarlin, recording secretary; Mrs. C. Martin Kamar, corresponding secretary.

Guest speaker was Mrs. Ernest Dietz.

Local Doctors Address Nursing Home Group

Several hundred delegates to the meeting last week of the Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Homes in Boston, were told by Dr. Thomas Gephart of 96 Berkeley street, West Newton, that "you are in a human business, and of the tools you have, one is compassion, and the greatest tool is your own heart."

He added that the nursing home profession serves in fulfilling the total needs of those entrusted to its care.

Another speaker, Dr. Reuben J. Margolin of 28 Halycon road, Newton Centre, chief of social sciences and rehabilitation for Northeastern University, referred to the great difficulty of obtaining nurses and resident physicians enough for hospitals and nursing homes. He urged that more medical schools be organized for the training of needed personnel, and expressed the hope that many more persons will be drawn into fields of nursing and caring for the elderly.

Boy Scout Troop 219 Holds Court Of Honor

Boy Scout Troop 219 of Newton Centre recently held its annual family night and Court of Honor at First Church in Newton, with 65 Scout family members present.

Following an excellent family style supper organized by Mrs. Clarence King and Mrs. James Spinks, Scoutmaster Ronald Dean gave his annual troop activities report.

Immediately after the report, the audience saw a movie made by the Scouts as a troop project this year. The movie was filmed by Assistant Scoutmaster Ken Patterson with the Scouts as subjects in a documentary on Scouting activities and opportunities.

Complete with voice commentary and background music, it was enthusiastically received by the audience. The movie will be available to other Scout units in Norumbega Council who wish to see it.

Mr. Dean then awarded cards for perfect uniform inspection at the annual Troop inspection to Albert Carpenter and Paul Manierre, then presented Spring Camporee patches to those boys who were present at that Council event.

After the traditional candlelighting ceremony, conducted by Bruce Guyon, Mark Houghton, and Douglas Nee, Troop Advancement Chairman Kenneth Patterson opened the Court of Honor. Mr. Dean then gave a perfect attendance medal to Albert Carpenter, and District Advancement Chairman Charles Kantar awarded Second Class rank to Mark MacFarlane, who also received a French interpreter's stripe from Scoutmaster Dean.

Assistant Scoutmaster Clifton Dean awarded merit bedges for Fingerprinting and Citizenship in the Nation to Al Carpenter, and for Coin Collecting to Bill Keeler.

Albert Carpenter was immediately called back to receive Star rank from District Scout Executive Ralph Sisson, who emphasized the importance of Star rank as the first of the higher ranks that culminate at Eagle rank, the highest Scout award.

Service pins were handed to the following Troop members in recognition of their years of membership in Scouts: one year to Bruce Guyon and Douglas Nee; two years to Paul Manierre and Mark MacFarlane; three years to Philip Anastasia and Albert Carpenter; four years to Mark Houghton, Bill Keeler, and Robert King; and five years to Nick Scrimshaw.

Explorers of Post 219, led by Post President Steve Emmannuel, presented Post Advisor Robert Livingston a gift check in appreciation for his splendid leadership of the post for the past three years. Recently ordained a minister, Mr. Livingston will serve a parish in Worcester, and will be unable to continue his Scouting activities in Newton. Col. E. Lake Jones, Institutional Representative of Troop and Post 219, later recognized Bob with a trophy for his conscientious efforts as Chaplain for both Troop and Post.

Scouts, parents, and Troop Committee members honored Scoutmaster Dean with a standing ovation when Troop Committeeman Carl Stiles presented him with an engraved plaque recognizing his years of service as Troop Committeeman, Advancement Chairman, Troop Committee Chairman, and Scoutmaster.

Col. Jones gave Assistant Scoutmaster Patterson a citation for his many hours of outstanding work with the Troop.

Highlighting the ceremony, Scoutmaster Dean presented the Carver Trophy for Scout of the Year to Albert Carpenter. This award, based on attendance at Troop functions, uniform inspection, enthusiasm, advancement, and leadership, is awarded annually to the most deserving Scout. Last year's recipient of the award, Nick Scrimshaw, received a permanent memento to replace the larger statuette the Scout keeps for one year.

As a conclusion, a candle ceremony was held, Mr. Patterson declared the Court of Honor closed, and the meeting was adjourned.

Lottery Idea Not Favored To Replace Our Draft Law

By FRANK ELEAZER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Almost anybody you ask will say the draft is inequitable, discriminatory and, since it can't be abolished, should be overhauled. "Do it by lottery," is the most commonly suggested alternative.

But doing it by lottery may not be as easy as it sounds. On past performance the squawks could be even louder if the current system of Selective Service were junked in favor of pulling draft numbers out of a bowl.

Congress will start an examination of the issue later this month, but despite mounting complaints, there isn't a chance the draft law will be rewritten this year. There's not even much chance a major change will be made when the present authorization expires next year.

The government tried a draft lottery in the Civil War. it was roundly denounced and there were accusations of fraud, manipulation and favoritism. There is no record of draft board "sit ins" but some riots and demonstrations broke out.

The lottery was revived in modified form in World War I, and tried again at the start of World War II. But draft officials found it unworkable. By 1942 it had been further modified into the present system under which men are called by birth dates and local draft boards make final decisions.

Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, who has been draft director since the start of World War II, hopes to stack the odds heavily against revival of the lottery when he testifies on draft complaints later this month before the House Armed Services Committee.

In preparation for the hearing, Hershey has been doing some homework. He has come up with a historical record lending strong support to his argument against substitution of chance for judgment in determining who goes into service.

The big current problem, paradoxically, is that so few people are being drafted. Almost 2 million youths reach draft age yearly. Only about 240,000 are being drafted per year.

Some are deferred and called later. Some never are called. Some are rejected. Only a minority are inducted. That, of course, is discrimination. Discrimination in fact is inherent in the term "Selective Service."

"Musicare" Seen As Assist To School Musical Classes

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — In thousands of classrooms nationwide, the grade school child's music education comes via pitch pipe and a song, all that promises to change provided Music in Maine, an experimental project starting in September, works out as anticipated. Since federal funds are involved, call it musicare. The Maine program can be used as a model for other states and what a model, according to Mrs. John G. Chapman, president of Music in Maine, MIM.

The experiment provides for the formation of a resident professional chamber orchestra with a conductor and 22 musicians in all.

The primary function of the orchestra will be to bring two live performances to students in grades three to eight within the academic year.

"You'd think we had a paradise for Musicians in Maine," Mrs. Chapman, of Bangor said in an interview. "Ninety conductors applied for the top job and so far 500 musicians want to be auditioned for the other openings."

Paul Vernel, presently musicial director of the Fresno Philharmonic in Fresno, Calif., landed the conductor's position. The musicians who want to respond to his baton come from all states and some of the top symphony orchestras.

"We even have people applying from Ireland and England," Mrs. Chapman said.

It seems like a paradise for musicians because $7,500 a year is guaranteed, plus extra earnings from public concerts. In addition, the musicians will get the very important person treatment.

For the rural shool child in Maine who now receives a minimal exposure to the live performance of good music, the project will provide "a rudimentary aesthetic experience expressed through music."

Federal funds support MIM as an "onnovative and exemplary project" endorsed by the U. S. Office of Education.

Mrs. Chapman said the money is available for worthy "educational and Secondary Education Act, Title III. Groups in 42 states have asked her how they can follow Maine's example.

Health For All

(Prepared by Norfolk County TB & Health Ass'n)

QUIET, PLEASE!

Most people agree that loud, sudden, or prolonged noise can be a nuisance. But is it a positive hazard to health?

There are two schools of thought on the subject, but those who uphold the affirmative view seem to be getting more numerous. (And, incidentally, noisier.)

Recently a Congressman announced his intention of introducing a bill calling for the establishment of a national noise control agency. He did not soft-pedal his conviction that noise is getting noisier everywhere one listens, and that it "destroys efficiency, interrupts minimum requirements of sleep, severely strains the nervous system, is extremely costly, and may even cause coronary conditions."

No conclusive studies have been made so far on the effect of noise on general health. It is known, however, that constant or frequent exposure to loud sounds can damage the hearing. "Hearing loss induced by occupational noise," observed a writer in the American Journal of Public Health "has been recognized for over a century." He added that such hearing loss "results from years of exposure."

Another commentator in the same publication pointed to the fact that engineers and mechanics who tested jet engines in the early years of their development were subject to nausea, headache, and fatigue.

Whether or not the rising sound volume has a marked effect on general health, a rising volume of opinion appears to support the Congressman's complaint against what he calls "the cacophony of aircraft engines, automobiles, air conditioners, construction equipment, machines, trains and buses—to name only a few."

Whatever may happen to his proposal, at least it marks serious recognition of the growing nuisance and probably health hazard caused by excessive noise.

$10.89 Appropriation Faces Aldermen's Vote At Meeting

The Board of Aldermen voted Monday night to deny a request by the city treasurer for an appropriation from surplus to pay the National Shawmut Bank of Boston $10.89, representing a check that was never cashed for a motor excise refund dated 1957.

Chairman John P. Nixon of the Finance Committee termed the demand a "picayune" matter that had resulted in a great amount of correspondence between the bank and the city.

It was explained that the bank, as administrator of the estate of a Newton resident, found the uncashed check among the estate's papers, and that when the statute of limitations expired after six years, the city closed the amuont into surplus.

Action on the item was set aside for a separate vote, which was 12 to 8, with four absent, against the small appropriation. The Aldermen who favored payment were Winslow C. Auryansen, Adelaide B. Ball, William L. Bruce, Franklin N. Flaschner, William M. Glovsky, Harry H. Ham Jr., William E. Hopkins and Harry L. Walen.

Opposed to payment were Alan S. Barkin, Paul J. Burke, Melvin J. Dangel, Ernest F. Dietz, George L. Hicks, Andrew J. Magni, William P. Matthews, John P. Nixon, Jason Sacks, H. James Shea Jr., Edward C. Uehlein and Wendell R. Bauckman. The absentees were Charles F. Hovey, Jack M. Roberts, Joseph M. McDonnell and Warren A. Sutherland.

Among appropriations voted at the meeting was one of $9500 to engage legal assistance for the city's labor negotiations with various groups of municipal employes.

A new state law allows employes to select a bargaining agent, and the city's representative will be the Boston law firm of Kowall and Kowall, who will serve for one year from the date of the contract.

No objectors appeared at hearings of two petitions for storage of inflammables, both of which were approved by a representative of the Fire Department. One was by Honeywell, Inc., 165 Needham street, Newton Upper Falls, for storage of 3000 gallons of No. 5 fuel oil underground. The other was a request by the Buildings Commissioner for storage of 9300 gallons of No. 2 fuel oil, 3000 gallons of gasoline and 200 gallons of waste oil, all underground ,at the new municipal incinerator on Rumford avenue. The committee on Franchises and Licenses reported favorably on both petitions.

Other appropriations voted by the board were as follows:

The sum of $5500 from budget reserve sought by the Public Buildings Commissioner for professional services for the remainder of this year.

A request by the Mayor for an appropriation to the Executive Department of $700 to cover an increase in the price of the planning consultant until next Dec. 31.

An appropriation of $4970 requested by the Water Commissioner to cover the cost of a water main extension in Ober Rd., Ward 8. Abutters have paid $4470 toward the total expense.

An appropriation to the Street Department for acceptance of Anthony Cir., Newtonville, under the betterment law, in the amount of $17,500, and one of $23,000 for acceptance of Anthony Rd., Newtonville.

Held for further information from the petitioner was a request by Champion Broadcasting System, Inc., for an addition to its existing building at 750 Saw Mill Brook Pkwy., Newton Centre. In this matter, the petitioner's attorney, Haskell C. Freedman, former chairman of the School Committee, requested that a public hearing be waived. The petition sought a revival of previously granted permissive use.

A motion to table the item was made by Alan S. Barkin, and it carried by a vote of 14 to 6, with four absent. Voting not to table it were Winslow C. Auryansen, Adelaide B. Ball, Melvin J. Dangel, Franklin N. Flaschner, Harry H. Ham Jr., and William E. Hopkins. Absent were William M. Glovsky, Charles F. Hovey, Jack M. Roberts and Warren A. Sutherland.

question has arisen during the past several years as to whether the Junior College as it presently exists fulfills the city's needs and what its future status should be.

"Given the nature and functions of the comprehensive two-year public college as a framework for examination, it is the intended purpose of the Junior College Study Committee to probe in depth the future need and demand in Newton for such an institution, the nature and extent of community interest, and the financial capacity of the city to provide an adequate level of support," the Mayor declared.

He said the study "would be directed toward a recommendation as to the form of control and operation most appropriate and feasible in assuring that the post-secondary educational and cultural interests of Newton citizens will best be served."

"The Study Committee will properly be concerned with a general but thorough investigation of the philosophy and purposes of the comprehensive community college as classically defined, the available patterns of control and organization, and the acceptable configurations of operational and capital financing for public two-year colleges," Mayor Basbas asserted.

"Specifically, the committee will be deeply involved in an examination of the characteristics, peculiarities and aspirations of the Newton community as these relate to the aforementioned issues," the Mayor stated.

Community Center Camps Open Season Next Monday

Monday, June 27, marks the start of the Newton Community Center, summer camp programs.

At 8 a.m., buses and station wagons will be traveling throughout the city to transport youngsters to the Kinder Kamp and Day Camp programs. Other youngsters will arrive by foot or through transportation provided by their parents.

James C. Callahan, director of Kinder Kamp, and his staff, will greet over 120 boys and girls between the ages of 3½ to 6 years old. William Jesdale and his staff will welcome aproximately 150 children to the Day Camp.

Kinder Kamp, operating out of Warren Junior High School, and Day Camp, at Sever Hale Reservation in Westwood, will both run for eight weeks. Individual youngsters will be in attendance for at least a two-week period, with additional periods optional.

Kinder Kamp's vast facilities are conducive to creative program planning. Youngsters will participate in arts and crafts projects to include clay play, drawing, painting, paper crafts, popsicle stick crafts, finger painting, and paper mache, among others.

The large gymnasiums will provide a spacious area for doll play, play school, etc., in addition to active free and organized play. Warren's vast outdoor area includes shade spots for sandbox and swing set play and finger painting, and warm sunny spaces for splashing under a sprinkler and wading in the Kamp's large pool. Equipment and materials utilized are those ordinarily found in a nursery or kindergarten classroom. Beginning swimming instruction is also a part of the scheduled program.

Day Camp begins its third year at Westwod's Sever Hale Reservation. Improved facilities should add to the Camp's continued sucess. Ten acres of wooded area, a sandy beach, and the docked swimming facility are all most conducive to a day camp program.

Woods shade and surround benches and tables set up for the use of campers for arts and crafts and other projects. Rustic nature trails lead through the woods and into the sandy beach area where youngsters exercise and participate in free play and organized games. Swimming activity includes one hour of instruction and an additional hour for free swimming daily.

Trips are scheduled for each of the camps periodically. Museums, salt water beaches, and industries are among the destinations.

South High School Teacher Awarded A Coe Fellowship

It has been announced that Peter C. Briggs, teacher of history at Newton South High School, has been awarded a Coe Fellowship for a Summer Institute in America History.

The Coe Institutes in American History and Government, one on Long Island and one at Stanford University, offer stipend fellowships to 40 or 50 secondary school teachers for six weeks of study during the summer. Granting six hours of credit, the Institute offers a morning course, consisting of lectures on recent developments in historiography, and afternoon seminars on six predetermined areas in American history. In addition, each Coe Fellow has the opportunity to pursue individual readings in an area of his own choosing. A professor, recognized for his scholarship in American history, conducts the lecture program and provides direction and guidance to the seminars, which are held by the staff of the State University of New York.

The high school teachers are selected for their excellence in the classroom; their proved capacity for research and inquiry; the promise of their ultimate contribution to the teaching of American history.

Four Newton teachers have been Coe Fellows in the past three years: John Robinson in 1964, William Hollman and Robert Hurlburt in 1965, and Peter Briggs this year. These fellowships have been particularly helpful to these teachers because of the opportunity they provided for research and development in connection with the curriculum work being accomplished at Newton. Significant advances were accomplished in locating and adapting new materials, and the seminar allowed for an exchange of teaching techniques between professionals or recognized achievement.

Health Head Urges Water Safety For Young And Old

"Drowning is one of the major causes of accidental death in the United States today," said Doctor Hale H. Cook of the Newton Health Department. Excluding automobile and other transportation-connected mishaps, drowning ranks among the top three causes of fatal accidents, accounting for over 5000 deaths each year."

One factor Dr. Cook cited is the growing numbers of people enjoying water sports in areas set aside for recreation, including fishing, camping, swimming, boating, and water skiing. Drownings related to these activities appear to be on the increase, and many deaths could be avoided, the Doctor said, by exercising caution and using common sense when in or on the water. He offered these suggestions for safe use of recreational water facilities:

1. Never swim alone.
2. Do not exceed your limitations as a swimmer.
3. Know rules and regulations of the local recreational area and abide by them.
4. Be sure you have all the proper equipment and know how to use it.
5. Wear U.S. Coast Guard approved life jackets when boating or water skiing.
6. Don't panic in emergency situations.
7. Stay with a capsized boat, if it is still afloat, until help arrives.
8. Don't overload your boat or use too powerful a motor on a light boat.
9. Stay away from water during storms.
10. Take lessons from an accredited instructor before engaging in skin-diving.
11. Learn artificial respiration or mouth-to-mouth breathing.

Doctor Cook also pointed out that water safety is not limited to public bathing and recreational facilities. The large numbers of home swimming pools and portable pools for children mean added responsibility for home owners and parents to practice water safety on their own premises.

"Never allowing children to play in or near water unless supervised by an adult, and knowing the swimming capabilities of guests before they use the home pool, are two basic precautions for water safety in the home," the Doctor stated.

"Accidental drownings are not always the result of sport or play. There are many instances each year of small children drowning when left unattended in the bathtub or when they fall into an open well or cistern.

"The best preventive for water accidents is skill in swimming. Some countries like Sweden have cut the water accident rate greatly by requiring that all children learn to swim as part of their primary education. They have built all-year swimming pools as part of each new school, using these during the day for swimming instruction as part of their physical education, and opening them to the public in the evenings under recreation department supervision.

"In Newton we could work toward this ideal by planning all-year swimming facilities for each Junior High School addition and, when built, using them for students during the day, and for Newton citizens in general on evenings and weekends."

Doctor Cook concluded by urging everyone to be careful when using public and private recreational water facilities this summer, to learn to swim under competent instruction, and to practice water safety the year round. "Many tragedies could be avoided," he said, "by practicing common sense rules of water safety."

Meadowbrook Jr. High Students Visit Quebec

Recently eighty-six ninth grade French students from Meadowbrook Junior High School in Newton embarked on a four day trip to Quebec. The trip was directed by Mr. A. Earle, chairman of the Language Department at Meadowbrook Junior High School, and arrangements were made by Mrs. Ina Bauer, teacher aide in the language department.

There were nine chaperones for the trip: Mr. and Mrs. A. Earle, Mrs. Mary Cestero, Mrs. Brenda Franklin, Miss Bridgit Eyres, Mr. David Connolly, Miss Marguerite Friederichs, Mr. Ray Brisson, and Mrs. Ina Bauer — all teachers on the staff at Meadowbrook.

The students had an opportunity to exercise their knowledge of the French language while on a visit to an area where French is the predominant tongue. The city of Quebec welcomed the group warmly. Announcements were made on the Quebec television station that the group was visiting, pictures were taken, journalists interviewed the teachers and students — the Meadowbrook group found the people of Quebec most hospitable and so pleased with the interest of the students in their culture.

Two guides were provided, Monsieur Nadeau and Mademoiselle Goslin, who planned the itinerary and stayed and traveled with the group. The group stayed at the Chateau Frontenac. The trip included visits to Laval University, Montmorency Falls, a walking tour of the old city, watching the colorful changing of the guard at the Citadel, a visit to Sainte Anne de Beaupre, the zoo, the aquarium, and a visit to a secondary school in Quebec.

One of the highlights of the trip was a social get together planned by a French high school for the Meadowbrook students. The Quebec students decorated their social hall as a French cafe, had planned entertainment, a dance, and a late supper. Many new friendships were established among the students.

There were many things that made this trip so valuable — To the Meadowbrook students this was a splendid opportunity to put their studies to practical use and to act as goodwill ambassadors. Perhaps the most important item was the delight and amazement of the people of Quebec at the interest displayed by the students toward their French culture and the ability of the youngsters to communicate so well in French. As a result of the trip there is hope of establishing a permanent exchange program.

'Ownership' Lure Spurs Building Boom In Russia

By K. C. THALER
United Press International

MOSCOW (UPI)—Russians who have money to spare are now lining up to buy their own apartments which they can sell, pass on to their heirs, and even occasionally rent out, though not for profit.

This token "move towards private property" stems from the economic relaxation set off by ousted Premier Nikita Khrushchev in the post-Stalin era aimed at improving living standards.

The demand for private apartments is great, and "business" is flourishing.

With living space still extremely scarce and heavily curtailed, the rush for alternatives to state-allotted apartments is considerable.

It coincides with greater "affluence," or more correctly, with many Russians having more money than they have had for a long time.

The method is for a group to form a co-operative for the purpose or use an existing one, frequently a professional association. They make a down payment of some 40 percent of the purchase price and start building. Prices may reach some 8,000-10,000 rubles (about $8,000 to $10,000) for a 3-room apartment or less for a smaller one.

The government which is now encouraging the development is making cheap loans available.

The advantage — in addition to owning one's place—is that participants can supervise the building of the apartment house, get a better design and improvements in the interior decorating over rather utilitarian and uninspired design, let alone the often poor finish.

Participants also can wangle a somewhat larger apartment than they would receive under the government allottment scheme which still stands at the average quota of some nine square yards of living floor space per person.

Cooperative apartment building and private ownership of the individual apartment once completed was in existence before Stalin abolished it and had the apartments all taken over by the state. Khrushchev reversed the move which is now beginning to pay dividends.

Housing is one of the very sensitive spots in Russia.

An impressive amount of apartment building is in progress currently in this city and in other parts of the country. The speed of the building is ostensibly at the expense of its quality.

But the big demand — due to pre-war shortages, wartime destruction and a multi-million shift in population with a gigantic move from the country side to the cities—is still tremendous.

The official figures claim the war has left 25 million people homeless, but that 75 million, or one-third of the country's population, have "moved into new homes" between 1957 and 1962.

The party program called ambitiously for the building of 86 million apartments between 1960 and 1980.

Another remnant of "private ownership" in this otherwise virtually complete nationalized economy is the small allotment of land which farmers are allowed to retain for their own needs. They are also allowed to sell its produce on the so called free market.

The incentive of an additional income has enabled Soviet farmers to produce an often startling amount of vegetables and dairy produce, and even meat from their tiny plots — a result which is in no way matched by their achievement in the collective or state-owned farms.

Peasant women cart their produce to the so called free market several days a week — there are several of them in Moscow — where they sell well, even though they are often more expensive than in the state run shops. Their quality is often superior to that of state offered goods.

MIT Appoints Dr. Charney Sloan Professor

Dr. Jule G. Charney of 288 Prince st., West Newton, one of the world's leaders in the application of computors on weather analysis, has been appointed Alfred P. Sloan Professor of Meteorology at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Dean Jerome B. Wiesner of the School of Science, who announced the appointment, said "Professor Charney's contributions to meteorology as a science have been highly significant. He is an authority on dynamical meteorology and oceanography and pioneered in the field of numerical weather prediction. The appointment of a distinguished scientist is appropriate to honor the memory of Mr. Sloan."

Dr. Charney came to MIT in 1956 as a professor of meteorology and since that time has been director of the Dynamical Weather Prediction Project. His research has carried him beyond the use of computors for forecasts into analysis of extremely complex meteorogical and oceanographic data for construction of mathematical models of weather.

Mrs. Charney, the former Elinor Kesting, is completing her work for a Ph.D. in philosophy and logic at UCLA, interrupted 20 years ago by their marriage. She is a researcher in linguistics at MIT. Their son, Nicholas, who graduated from MIT in 1962, is also completing his work for a Ph.D. in biopsychology at the University of Chicago.

Hospital's 80th Birthday Is Observed With Party

Frank Colley Newton June6

Patients, personnel and visitors celebrated an anniversary at Newton-Wellesley Hospital on Sunday, June 12

On that day, 80 years ago, the hospital admitted its first patient.

Women members of the hospital's board of trustees helped observe the milestone.

Between 1 and 4 p.m. in the hospital's reception lobby, they served punch and cake to visitors and members of the hospital family.

Beginning at noon on Sunday, anniversary cake and greetings were distributed to patients of the 260-bed community hospital, a teaching affiliate of Tufts University School of Medicine.

Old photos and other memorabilia of the hospital's early days were displayed during the toast to good health, the theme of Sunday's observance.

Women trustees of the hospital are Mrs. Winslow H. Adams of Auburndale; Mrs. Arthur J. Anderson, Jr., of Framingham and formerly of Wellesley; Mrs. Paul T. Babson of Boston and formerly of Wellesley; Mrs. Warner Eustis of Newton; Mrs. Elvyn K. Mentzer of Newton Centre; Mrs. Robert W. Moore, Jr., of Waban; Mrs. Lucius E. Thayer of eWst Newton; Mrs. Worthing L. West of Newton Centre, and Mrs. Harold C. Wiswall of Needham Women who are honorary trustees include Mrs. F. Marsena Butts of Lincoln; Miss Louisa Hunnewell of Wellesley; and Mrs. Theron B. Walker of Natick.

To ready a cake to feed 800 people, hospital baker William Renke of Newton Lower Falls, the hospital baker, started his ovens early on Saturday morning.

The root of the observance traces back to a midnight 87 years ago, when in 1879 a Newton clergyman and physician encountered difficulty locating nursing assistance for an elderly dying woman.

Rev. George W. Shinn, D.D. later approached the Mayor of Newton, about "the desirability of establishing an institution for the care of the sick and for kindred objects".

A citizens meeting in the fall of 1880 at the Newton High School resulted in a unanimous vote to establish a Cottage Hospital. In 1881, an Association was formed and a hospital incorporated. Fund raising began in the community, to obtain $9,000 for the purchase of land and suitable hospital buildings.

By 1884, a parcel was obtained along Washington Street in Newton Lower Falls, site of the present 19-acre hospital complex.

In 1885, a Ladies' Aid Association was formed to provide furnishings and supplies that a new hospital would require. In addition, churches of the community arranged to observe Hospital Sundays on the Sabbath before Thanksgiving. Over the next 30 years, Hospital Sunday helped finance operations of the hospital and the purchase of new equipment.

On June 5, 1886, following the invoking of Divine blessing, the wooden cottage hospital was opened. It represented one of the earliest hospitals west of Boston, between Cambridge and Worcester. Owned by the community and operating without tax support and municipal aid, it boasted 14 beds, a matron, and four employees. The first patient, a Mrs. E. P. Powell, arrived one week later on June 12, 1886. She was hospitalized for four weeks.

Rev. Shinn, who was appointed a trustee of the hospital, later noted, "the hospital has the honor of being a pioneer in the work of showing the possibility of suburban hospitals. The need of it was felt here long before the hospital was established, for there were delays and difficulties in transporting the sick and the injured to Boston institutions, and sometimes, owing to the crowded condition of those places the applications from outsiders could not be considered."

To provide fresh foodstuffs to patients, the early hospital maintained its own vegetable gardens, plus its own cows and chickens.

In addition, medical staff members were equally divided among two schools of practice prevalent then, allopathy and homopathy. The medical staff comprised about a dozen physicians, including two allopathic and two homopathic surgeons, two consulting physicians of each school, and such specialists as the hospital trustees might appoint. In emergencies and in serious cases, all surgeons assembled to treat a patient.

Today, the hospital's active, medical staffs number 190 physicians. A total of 88 trustees represent the community's ownership of the hospital. They serve without pay solely in the interest of assuring an excellence of medical care and treatment in the community.

The Ladies Aid Association became the Hospital Aid Association, and has a membership of nearly 1,800. In addition, the Junior Aid Association is a 16-year old adjunct to the hospital, with a membership exceeding 200. Both provide substantial volunteer service and fund raising assistance, supplementing the essential work of the hospital.

New Recreation Program To Start Tuesday

Recreation Commissioner, John B. Penney, announced today the opening of a new nursery school summer recreation program.

Funds for this program are provided by the Federal Government under the School Work-Study Program in accordance with the Federal Education Act of 1965.

The program, which will be supervised by the Newton Recreation Department in cooperation with the Newton School Department, will be held at Memorial and Davis Schools. It will be staffed by two college girls trained and experienced in pre-primary education and four Newton High School girls at each of the two schools. Mrs. Rose Shapiro, supervisor of the Newton School Department will direct the staff.

Sessions will be conducted Monday to Friday starting Tuesday, June 28, and continuing until August 19. There will be two sessions each day from 9:00 to 12:00 Noon and from 1:30 to 4:30. This program will be in addition to the regular playground program at these two areas.

Since the program is new the enrollment will be limited. Only children four and five years of age will be permitted to attend. Preference will be given to those children in the Memorial and Davis School districts. Parents who have not received and returned the registration forms distributed at the Davis and Memorial Schools must register their children at Newton City Hall on Monday, June 27, between 9:00 and 5:00 at the Recreation Office. Parents of children outside of the Memorial and Davis School districts are requested to call the Recreation Office. Names of their children will be placed on a waiting list until the department has a clear idea of the enrollment. Any questions concerning the program may be directed to Mr. Ford in the Recreation Department Office 244-4700 Ext. 266,267,-268.

Harry Hanson of the History faculty at Mt. Ida Junior College, was a participant in the fourth annual conference on "The Nature and Demands of Two-Year College Teaching," held at Bennett College, Millbrook, N. Y.

Pesky Bugs Fail Screen Test

Be sure to rescreen your outdoor room for more enjoyment this summer. You can do it yourself.

First determine the amount of screening needed to do the job. Next you'll want to rent or buy a gun-type stapler.

If your outdoor area was built with wood framing, carefully remove the thin batten strips and remove the staples that hold screen in place.

To insert new screening be certain to start your stapling across the top at 1½-inch intervals. Leave ½-inch overlap of screening and fold over and staple between previous staples. If you're using fiberglas screening, it cuts easily with an ordinary scissors.

Next do sides, alternating between the two posts, keeping screening taut at all times Leave a 6-inch margin on bottom to keep pressure on screening while stapling and cut off later.

For aluminum frame outdoor rooms first remove the vinyl splines which hold the screening in place. Align the screening and starting with the top framing member insert a 1-inch length of spline at each end of the groove. Next, remove one of the short pieces of spline and run the doller over the screen the length of the groove. Then roll the spline into the groove, removing the second short spline at the other end of the framing as you reach it.

Framework Of That New Home Is Important

It's what you don't see that counts for a lot in that new house of yours.

The home is completely built and everything looks fine. That is, from the outside.

But what about that invisible but vital part of the house —the structural framework?

The security of the entire home investment depends on how well this part performs, says the Southern Pine Association.

Whether outer walls are surfaced with wood or non-wood materials, the framework, which holds your home together, is formed with lumber. And that, says the Association, is where quality is most essential.

Of prime importance is the nail-holding power of the lumbe rbecause the wood structure joins and connects various house parts and is the determining factor in how the house holds up in violent storms.

"Some species of lumber have greater natural holding ability than others," the Association says. "These differentials should be carefully considered in specifications. The lumber should also be properly seasoned and pre-shrunk before being surfaced to final size. Nails will not loosen in pre-shrunk lumber as they do when unseasoned material dries in service."

But the advantages of quality in framing don't stop there. It also assures minimum maintenance and low cost heating and cooling and has a favorable effect on retention of paints and other forms of finish on the outside of the house.

"The stabilized size and nail holding power of pre-shrunk lumber assure a snugness and rigidity of structure that protect the home again costly defects such as squeaky floors, unsightly plaster cracks and sagging ceilings," says the Association. "Snug character is also essential to efficiency and economy of air conditioning."

"Engineered lumber," in which the Southern Pine industry has been a pioneer, assures proper seasoning and pre-shrinking for structural wood, the Association says.

"Mathematically precise stress ratings identify structural capacities of the lumber for various spans and loads," the Association says. "The material may be cut into shorter lengths without imparing stress values or grade. Standard framing grades may be without special grading.

Women Yearn For Charm Of Home Fireplace

CHICAGO (UPI) — By promoting directly to the smoke dream of fuffillment American women have about fireplaces, three times as many of the latter could be sold to the former.

The mass market—50 per cent of the nation's population and 52 per cnt of its home owners — has been neglected by the fireplace industry, marketing consultant A. A. Imberman told a conclave of fireplace and hearth accessories manufacturers recently.

"Our consumer surveys indicate that women think of a fireplace as a symbol of a happy home, security and status, not merely as a decorative feature or a place to toast marshmallows," Imberman, president of Imberman and DeForest, said.

"The blue or white collar wife needs only to have her motivations catered to. Show fies a deep, emotional need her that a coby hearth satisand she'll start and keep the home fires burning," he said.

San Francisco To Get More Oriental Flavor

United Press International

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Francisco's Chinatown will soon have a Japanese rival to contend with in a city where Oriental culture, entertainment and food are top attractions for the tourist dollar.

A new $15 million, Japanese cultural center is rising in a three-block area, a former slum where sagging houses, survivors of the 1906 earthquake and fire, were cleared out.

The center, scheduled for completion in the spring of 1967, will border the present "Japanese town" of small family shops and restaurants.

It will house the 16-story Mikado Hotel, a 1,000-seat Kabuki theatre complete with the famous Japanese Dreamline company of dancers, and underground parking for 800 autos.

Between the hotel and theater will be a complex of low buildings housing more than 100 retail shops that will frame a Peace Plaza complete with a huge Pagoda, presented by the people of Japan as their symbol of a West Coast Statue of Liberty.

Three Companies

Much of the land and buildings will be owned by three Japanese companies, The Kinko Nippon Railway Co., the Nippon Dream Kanko Co., and the Schimizu Construction Co.

In Japan, Kunizo Matsuo, president of the Nippon Dream Kanko Co., has reported he already is hiring stars for the grand opening of the theater. Production of the first show will start this summer, with rehearsals scheduled to begin by the end of the year.

The Shimizu Co. is completing plans for several restaurants in the Center to be operated by Suehro, one of Japan's foremost restaurateurs, who specializes in "hand massaged" Kobe beef.

The center's building interiors will be fabricated in Japan and installed under supervision of Japanese technicians.

Ground for the cultural Central was broken in November, and the massive excavation, involving the removal of 200,000 cubic yards of dirt, has been completed. Foundations for the hotel are being laid.

Backers of the project even made money on the dirt. They old it as fill to Oakland across the bay.

Lucy R. Needleman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Needleman, 80 Puritan Rd., Waban, a freshman at Lake Forest College, Ill., will join a contingent of students who will attend the University of Dijon next fall, inaugurating a French program similar to the college's fall term in Madrid, which is entering its third year.

Unitarian Society Holds Special Sunday Services

West Newton Square residents heard unusual bell ringing from the carillon of the First Unitarian Society recently. The bells were commemorating their 50th anniversary at a rededication ceremony during Flower Communion and Children's Sunday. The unusual service also brought to a close another Sunday School year.

Dr. Leslie T. Pennington, minister of this Society, presided at the service with special assistance from the Director of Religious Education, Mrs. Arthur S. Laughland. The Junior Choir of the Sunday School presented the entire choral music for the morning under the direction of Gary Fuerer.

Portions of the original service of the dedication of the bells held in June 4, 1916 were repeated, including a hymn, prayer and the dedication of each individual bell. Each bell is inscribed with a tenet of belief and as the congregation recited the inscriptions each bell responded.

Following the service, a surprise ceremony was held in the church vestibule at the stairwell leading to the church tower. A plaque was dedicated to honor Mrs. Julian Jaynes of 76 Prince St., West Newton, who has kept the music of the bells ringing over West Newton Square for almost 50 years.

It was a deeply moving ceremony shared by Mrs. Jaynes, her family and the congregation as a whole, led by Mr. L. Fabian Bachrach of West Newton, Chairman of the Board of Trustees.

For the Flower Communion each member of the Society carried into church a flower of his own choosing which was placed in huge baskets borne to the front of the church by eight girls from the upper school and which became the central symbol of the service. Upon leaving, members of the congregation in turn left with a flower other than his own, completing symbolically the communion with one another in cherished memories, faith and hope.

Dr. Pennington made presentation of ribbon awards to each of the School children in grades Kindergarten through three for their own unique contribution to the experience of the group and who in turn gained from it a new dimension for his own life. Grade 3 students were especially recognized for their graduation into the Intermediate Division of the Church School, and were presented with a volume of "Water: Its Form and Motion" from the Beacon Science series, in preparation for their 4th grade study of science as it relates to Liberal Religion.

The young people in Grade 5 also received special presentations of their own Bibles in preparation of their 6th grade study of the Old Testament. Graduating High School Seniors were honored with a copy of the "World Bible" which Dr. Pennington pointed out had special significance to them as it contained portions of the sacred writings of all the world's great religions which underlays Unitarian-Universalist respect for the religious heritage of all of the peoples of the world, and which heritage their Church School has endeavored to impart to them through the years.

The Church, through Dr. Pennington, thereafter extended a heartfelt "Thank You" to the devoted church school staff and had the members stand for individual recognition: William R. Horner of Newtonville, chairman of Religious Education Committee; John W. Gurry and L. James Nagy of Waban, Adult Discussion Group Leaders; Newton A. Teixeira of West Newton Senior High class teacher and Jaynes League Youth Group Advisor; and teachers: Robert Fraser of Waban, 8th Grade; Howard Murphy of Newton Centre, 7th Grade; Dr. Norman Hobica of Auburndale, 6th Grade; Mrs. Floyd H. Gilles of Waban, Dr. Robert M. Herndon of Newton Centre, and Dr. Iolanda Low of Newton, 5th Grade Team; Charles Levy of Auburndale, 4th Grade; Mrs. Thomas A. Morris, Jr., of Newtonville, 3rd Grade; Mrs. Norman R. Buck of Newtonville, Mrs. Thomas G. Hagan of Newton Centre and Mrs Sylvio P. Lessa of Waban, 2nd Grade Team; Mrs. Robert F. Butterworth and Mrs. Arthur F. Lein of Newton, Kingergarten. Mrs. Erwin Salzer of Waban, Nursery: and Mrs. Richard MacLeod and Miss Dorothy Kramer of Newtonville, Pre-Nursery.

Special Study teachers recognized were: Organists, Mrs. Elizabeth T. Sweetser and Mrs. Newton A. Teixeira of West Newton; Guatemala Cultural Study, Mrs. Nevin S. Scrimshaw of West Newton, Mrs. Stanley Molner of West Newton, Parker M. Lord of Newtonville and Mrs. Laughland; Senior Division Electives, John Adams of West Newton (drama), Mr. and Mrs. Dutton S. Van Alstine of Auburndale (photography), Parker M. Lord, (art) and Mrs. Richard A. Lovell of West Newton (co-ordinater).

Final recognitions were made to Choir Directors Mrs. Sweets and Mr. Fuerer; Audio-Visual Education, Mrs. H. Peter Karoff of Watertown; Library Personnel, Mrs. Leonard A. Monzert (Chairman) of West Newton, Mrs. Langdon W. Chandler of Auburndale, Miss Fanny Garrison of West Newton and Mrs. Wilfred H. Madsen of Newton Centre; Administration Mrs. Laughland, DRE, Harry B. Tomatoes Reach Flavor Peak This Time Of Year

By LYNN MARSHALL

(Norfolk County Extension Service)

During the summer, we Northeasterners take special pleasure in the fine vine-ripened tomatoes shipped in by nearby truck farmers. Tomatoes never taste sweeter, more flavorful, nor more at their height of perfection than this time of year. Since tomatoes are forecast to be in the good buy class in the weeks ahead, homemakers will undoubtedly be including them frequently in their daily menu plans.

Although the tomato is American in origin, it traveled around the world before we appreciated it as a food. The Indians in the Andes in the area of Peru, Ecuador and Bolivia, are believed to have been first to cultivate tomatoes. As Indian tribes migrated, the tomato journeyed northward.

The Italians grew the tomato about 1550 and probably were the first Europeans to eat it. A little later the tomato appeared in English, Spanish, and mid-European gardens as a curiosity rather thn a food. The French called the tomato "pomme d'amour".

Thomas Jefferson was one of the first Americans to grow tomatoes. Back in 1812, they were served to people in New Orleans, but the idea that they were poisonous was slow to disappear. Around 1850, Northeasterners began to enjoy tomatoes.

Be a careful shopper, and you'll enjoy your tomatoes at their best. Handling tomatoes carefully is important. They bruise easily. Since fully ripe tomatoes are extremely delicate, they're often picked before reaching maturity and then allowed to ripen en route to market. If they aren't as yet fully ripe when you buy them, place them in a dry place away from light—never on the windowsill because the sun will ripen them unevenly. Refrigerate fully ripe tomatoes to prevent over-ripening.

When selecting tomatoes, look for those that are well formed and plump of uniform red color, free from bruise marks and not overripe or soft. Avoid tomatoes that are puffy, a sign of poor flavor.

Scarred, rough tomatoes, or those with slight deformities, or with well-healed growth cracks may be objectionable only as to appearance, but may otherwise be all right. Slight irregularities will not detract when you serve tomatoes sliced, cut into pieces for salads, or used in soups, stews, and casseroles.

Here's a recipe for tasty Baked Tomatoes to serve with a poultry or fish main dish:

TO PREPARE: Wash medium-sized tomatoes, ripe or green and cut off the stem ends. Place tomatoes in a baking dish. Sprinkle tops with salt and pepper and crumbs mixed with butter or margarine. Add just enough water to cover bottom of dish. Cover and bake at 375°F until tomatoes are soft — about 30 minutes for ripe tomatoes, 45 minutes for green. When tomatoes are about half done, uncover the dish to brown the crumbs.

CURRENT PLENTIFULS: Mixed greens, Watermelons, Canned red salmon, Raisins, Split peas and lentils, Beets, Iceberg lettuce.

Blonde Paid For Tippling

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI — Pretty blonde Karen Austin drinks on the job — and gets paid for it.

Mrs. Austin is probably the nation's only female beer taster.

When she gets to work "sometimes we have 14 bottles lined up," she said.

She and the other five tasters for Lucky Beer retire to a long, narrow room where each has an individual stall.

If they cannot tell the difference between the present batch of brew and the previous one, then everything is all right.

Unlike a wine taster, a beer sampler actually drinks the beverage. But Mrs. Austin never gets intoxicated.

"I thing it's different at work," she said. "You do it because you like the job. It's not like a party."

She has been a taster for eight years and she still has a 24-inch waistline.

She started drinking beer as when she went to work for the brewery as a secretary she always had a glass of beer on the desk.

U. S. Cities Still Worst Of Firetraps

By WILLIAM HAMILTON
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — For all of its scientific know-how, the United States is still a firetrap among nations of the world. And no solution is in sight.

"All around the world, we're known as the country of fire," said Chicago Fire Commissioner Robert Quinn. "We have far more fires than any place else."

Statistics would seem to bear him out. The National Fire Protection Association, with headquarters in Boston, says there were 2,367,325 reported fires in the U.S. during 1964, the last year of complete record. Of these, 912,000 were in buildings. Fires accounted for 11,900 deaths that year.

A United Press International spot check of several cities around the country produced broad agreement from fire chiefs and city officials that the U.S. was making little headway in reducing fire damage and deaths. No single theory was cited to explain the "why" of it, however.

Quinn, citing the homogenous makeup of Chicago's population, has what can be ironically called a "melting pot" explanation. Many persons migrating to the U.S., he said, come from areas "where they never had to use a furnace or a heater."

New York Deputy Fire Chief James G. O'Hanlan agrees in part. "Every city in the United States is way behind most major cities in other parts of the world," he said.

"Their laws and enforcement methods follow an entirely different concept. And there are other factors. For example, they haven't used wood for years in buildings in much of Europe," he said.

O'Hanlan says European fire codes put heavy responsibility for fire safety on the individual, a system he favors. "In this country it has gone the other way. Individual freedom is the big thing. You can do almost anything.

O'Hanlan says old buildings, including many in New York that were built before the Civil War, are a constant problems. But Don A. Hickman, assistant fire chief in Miami, Fla., worries about new buildings.

"New office buildings without windows are difficult to get it," according to Hickman. He said new plastics and chemicals which have become everyday items for builders and owners pose new threats to fire fighters.

Ralph J. Malone, fire marshall for Hartford, Conn., believes the scope of fire prevention has been effective in businesses, but not in the homes. New York's O'Hanlan agreed, referring back to his belief that new laws are needed.

"Factory fires and company fires can be held down by requiring sprinkler systems and strict inspections," said O'Hanlan. "Industry is doing more and more on its own.

"But the individual home is almost an untouched area," he said.

Last year fires claimed the lives of 196 persons in New York, or about four deaths a week in the nation's largest city, Chicago had 147, Houston 47, Los Angeles 41, St. Louis 37, San Francisco 31. The older the city, the higher the death rate in general, according to the National Fire Protection Association.

Bedsmokers are the biggest enemy, says Houston Chief W. O. Hunter. "We make laws governing fire safety standards, but it's still impossible to keep some person from going to sleep with a cigarette in his hand and setting his bed or chair on fire."

"We're trying to come up with fireproof bedding and mattresses which would eliminate all these unnecessary fires," said Boston Asst. Chief John E. Clougherty, who noted that smokers caused 15 deaths in his city last year.

Boston Fire Commissioner Thomas J. Griffin, San Francisco investigator Robert Gerhow, and authorities in Las Vegas, Atlanta, Portland, Ore., Oklahoma City and Minneapolis all condemned the sloppy smoker.

Cigarette, pipe and cigar smoking accounted for 159,400 fires in 1964—17.4 per cent of the national total according to NFPA figures. In spite of a continuing public education program, the percentage was up from 1950, when smokers accounted for only 15.5 per cent.

It has climbed nearly every year.

Men Gaining On Gals In Cosmetics Buying

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Yes, Virginia, they are making a bubble bath for men, and in time for Father's Day. There also are hair tints, colognes, perfume, hair sprays, hair set, face packs to ease fatigue lines, skin moisturizers, after shave lotions that give you a tan and, of course, perfumed soap.

These products — plus preshave and after shave lotions, deodorizers, shaving cream and similar old standbys—are part of the burgeoning male fragrance and toiletries industry expected to top $600 million in total sales by the end of 1966 and exceed $1 billion by 1970.

John T. Wilson, vice president of Carven Distributors in New York City, predicted that "within three years the men's industry will equal that of the women's cosmetic field—truly a phenomenal growth." He said sales were $400 million iin 1965 and a growth of $150 to $200 million is expected this year.

Wilson, whose firm already makes cologne and perfume for men, has just added a perfumed soap, Vetiver, joining a long line that includes Saks Fifth Avenue's "611" and a lot of soaps-on-a-rope (to hang up in the shower)—Yardley's Jaguar, Jean Nate, Kent of London and Aramis.

Beauty Fashion, a trade magazine for the cosmetics industry, reports 78 companies were manufacturing and distributing men's fragrance in 1963, and 120 by the end of 1965. This year there are 156 firms — a 100 per cent increase in three years. One of the main reasons is the growing teen age market. The other is a desire to remain young.

There are 303 individual scents on the market but they generally break down to five categories: citrus scents which are crisp and discreet; spicy or herbal types using verbena, lavender etc., for a brisk odor with sweet overtones; woodsy, mossy odors with a hint of balsam or myrhh (headier and more sophisticated); orientals with sandalwood and a musky note (daring) and modern blends which run the gamut ("men who seek a fierce animal image.")

Men's toiletries are made by jewelry companies, hat manufacturers, garter manufacturers, and now shirt makers. Van Heusen has just introduced its Passport 360 series including an after shave lotion to keep the skin moist and supple; Lion of Troy shirts is putting out By George! and now the necktie people are doing it. Beau Brummell Ties has just introduced Aztec which comes in ceramic containers featuring a relief of an Aztec Indian god.

Old line houses famous for their inexpensive brands are adding luxury items to compete for the luxury market. Yardley added Jaguar ("Tame It's Not"); Mennen added Kanon which is vaguely Scandlnavian in background; Old Spice added Teak. ("A tang of salty spindrift.")

John Weitz, who designs spectacular resort wear that includes $135 brightly colored tie silk jackets, now finds himself in the toiletries field with his "International Club by John Weitz."

Packaging gets more forceful all the time with emphasis on masculinity. English Leather does it with a wooden box containing soap, shaving cream and lotion with enormous wooden caps, all products with the identical fragrance. Mark II makes a handsome and convenient travel kit, a fake leather container with small aerosol containers of shaving cream, cologne and deodorant.

Here's New Gift Idea; Set of Branding Irons

By MAX JENNINGS
United Press International

LUSK, Wyo. (UPI) — Step right up, Podnuh, and 74-year-old blacksmith John Mudra will fashion you your own personal branding iron, true western style.

Mudra works for one of Wyoming's newest businesses, The Blacksmith, a branding iron manufacturer.

The idea was sparked in Lusk, Wyo., in March when a visitor asked how he could obtain a branding iron like the dozens that decorated a dining room in a hotel. To every one' surprise, the display irons were the only ones around.

The business was launched a month later and now has manufactured as many as 200 branding irons a day for use for anything except livestock.

On each is an attached tag explaining the iron is illegal for use on livestock — but handy on den walls, patios or as a fireplace poker.

The branding irons now are being made in eight basic designs, the quarter circle, traverse 7, half flying V, gull, heart, diamond and S. Price is about $8. For the imaginative — and a couple of dollars more — the purchaser can get his branding iron custom made up with the family initials or a special monogram.

There is no assembly line process in this eastern Wyoming business. The irons all are hand made. Mudra is the oldest worker in the shop with more than 56 years of blacksmithing experience. There are three other men, including shop owner Buck Culver who has practiced the disappearing trade himself for more than 30 years.

The irons are heated and forged into shape on an anvil by the master craftsmen. They are given their ancient appearance by being alternately heated red hot and then dipped in cold water.

One of the types of irons which may find the biggest success is the gift-packaged barbecue set for branding steaks at outdoor cookouts to individual tastes with a big um or rare-cooked steak.

Now's the Time to Enjoy Broiled Scallops in Wine

(Norfolk County Extension Service)

If you fancy scallops, as many Northeasterners do keep tuned to New Bedford, the major area for scallop fishing in the country and the heart of the New England scallop fishing industry. Word has come out that the sweet and tender-meated shellfish is now in plentiful supply and attractively priced.

Five million pounds of scallops were on hand early this year, twice as much as a year ago.

Scallops are harvested both from the sea and bays. Sea scallops are larger than bay scallops and are often called the "giant scallop," sometimes reaching a shell diameter of 8 inches. Both sea and bay scallops have a lean, light, firm meat with a sweet flavor. Both are protein-rich, low in fat, and high in minerals and vitamins.

What is a scallop? It's a two-shelled mollusk, similar to oysters and clams, but unlike these in that they're good swimmers and move freely, though erratically, about in the water. They are able to do so by opening and closing their shells, which effects a natural jet propulsion.

Scallops have another important difference. Two openings near the hinge of the shells prevent them from remaining air tight, as are clams and oysters. For this reason they must be processed immediately upon being caught or they will die within a few hours when the water inside the shell drains away.

We Americans eat only a part of the scallop — the "eye," so-called by fishermen, or adductor muscle that controls the closing of the shells. Europeans eat the entire scallop meat.

Scallops may be prepared in a variety of preparations—fried, broiled, baked, in casseroles, skewer-style, and even as a "bisque" or ground preparation. It's particularly well-suited for springtime meals because it's an easy-to-eat food that goes properly in both main dishes and hors d'oeuvres, and can be prepared both indoors and on the outdoor grill.

Try this broiled scallops with wine sauce for a festive meal.

- 1½ lbs. scallops, fresh or frozen
- 2 tblsps. sliced green onion
- ¼ cup sherry
- 2 tblsps. chopped parsley
- 1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
- ½ tsp. salt
- Dash pepper
- ¼ cup salted oil, butter or other fat, melted
- 1 cup scallop liquid and water
- 1 tblsp. cornstarch
- 1 tblsp. cold water
- Toast points

To prepare: Thaw frozen scallops. Remove any shell particles and wash. Cut large scallops in half. Combine onion, sherry, parsley, Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper. Marinate scallops in sauce for 30 minutes.

Drain: reserving sauce. Place single layer of scallops on a greased broiler pan.

Brush with fat. Broil about 3 inches from source of heat for 3 to 4 minutes. Turn carefully. Baste other side with remaining sauce and fat and broil 3 to 4 minutes longer. Remove scallops to a warm platter. Remove liquid from broiler pan. Combine cornstarch and water to make a thin paste. Add gradually to hot scallop liquid and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Serve over scallops. Garnish with toast points. Serves six persons.

Current Plentifuls: Cabbage, Mixed greens, Sweet potatoes, Apples, Honey, Grape juice, Raisins, Scallops, Crabs and crab meat.

VA Newsletter

The Veterans Administration is preparing for a huge influx of applications from Post Korean veterans planning to attend school this fall under the new GI Bill. An indication of the number of ex-GI's who will be taking advantage of his educational entitlement became obvious from the numbers of "early birds" who either filed applications or inquired at the Boston VA offce during the month of May. New educational benefits were not provided for under the new GI Bill before June 1.

According to William F. Connors, manager, nearly 1,000 Massachusetts post Korean veterans actually filed applications before the June 1 beginning date. In addition, Connors said, 2373 personal at-the-desk discussions were had with VA contact personnel throughout the state about the educational provisions of the bill. Another 2,892 veterans chose to call VA offices throughout Mass. for information concerning schooling aid.

The new GI Bill provides that any veteran who has served continuously on active duty for a period of at least 181 days, any part of which was after January 31, 1955, and who was discharged or released under conditions other than dishonorable is eligible.

These veterans may pursue an approved course at a college, vocational, business, high school, or correspondence school. Under certain circumstances, a college course pursued in a foreign country may be approved.

VA said the schooling limit is 36 months. This would cover 4 school years of 9 months each for a veteran who served on active duty for at least 3 years after January 31, 1955. If he served less than 3 years, he may receive one full month of educational assistance allowance for each month or part of a month he served on active duty on or after February 1, 1955.

Payments from VA for full time schooling are: $100 per month no dependents; $125 per month one dependent and $150 per month two or more dependents. Comparable rates are paid for three quarter and half-time training.

Applications may be made at the nearest VA affice.

Whiting Milk Company Bought By Dairymen

Dairy farmers have acquired ownership of New England's second largest milk distribution business according to a joint announcement last week by the principles in the transaction.

The Whiting Milk Company, a major supplier of Boston and other Massachusetts markets for 126 years, has been purchased by the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association which has some 15,000 farmer-members in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New England.

Because of operating problems caused by a difficult market situation, the Whiting Company became involved in a bankruptcy proceeding in 1960. It was taken over the following year by a new management organization which has operated the Company in the intervening five years, re-equipping it, stabilizing its financial position and rebuilding it into a solvent effective milk marketing organization.

Charles Schusterbauer, representing League management and Arnold J. Bullock, President of Whiting, stressed that no changes in personnel, sources of milk or distribution routes are planned for Whiting which markets approximately 500,000 quarts of milk a day.

Whiting presently processes milk at its plant on Rutherford Avenue in Charlestown, Mass., for distribution by refrigerated trailers to depots in Braintree, Marblehead, Duxbury, Hyannis, Worcester, N. Dartmouth, Nantucket, and Oak Bluffs. Wholesale routes in the Boston metropolitan and suburban area are served directly from the Charlestown Plant. The Company presently employs approximately 1,000 persons in its various operations, including a refrigerated foods subsidiary.

While exact financial details of the purchase were not revealed, it is undoubtedly the largest single transaction of its kind in the history of the dairy industry in the Northeast.

Milk for the Whiting operation is supplied by some 1,200 dairymen located primarily in Vermont. Many are members of the New England Producers Association. A joint statement by NEMPA and the Dairymen's League emphasized that Whiting would continue to receive New England milk as in the past with no change in cooperative membership on the part of NEMPA producers.

"It is our intention," declared Schusterbauer, "to retain the name and New England character of Whitin exactly as it has been developed over more than a century. We will continue to use New England produced milk to the fullest extent that such milk is available to meet our needs."

Schusterbauer also pointed out that in spite of current predictions concerning a possible sible concerning a possible milk shortage in some areas of the country, Whiting customers would always be assured of a full supply of milk.

The League, founded in 1907 in Orange County, New York, is a marketing organization, owned and operated by dairy farmers. Its full time President and 3-man Executive Committee are dairy farmers, elected by their fellow-members as directors of the Association. The 24-member Board of Directors elects the officers from among its members. Lester Martin of Milford, N.Y., is President. Eugene J. Vandenbord of Delancey, N.Y., is 1st Vice-President and James R. Donnan of Galway, N.Y., is Secretary. Donnan is also the director representing producers in several northern counties of New York and Vermont.

The League presently operates some 70 milk plants, including city branches, manufacturing plants, ice cream plants and country shipping facilities. Its milk is marketed in some 10 states and more than 35 major cities. Last year, it reported sales of $218,000,000, representing the marketing of some four billion pounds (about two billion quarts) of milk. Some of this is sold under the League's own trade name, "Dairylea", the rest is marketed through buying dealers or packaged in League plants under the buyer's label.

Under terms of the purchase contract, the League will take over operation of Whiting on or before July 1. It will be operated as a wholly owned subisidiary of the Cooperative.

Early Postoffice

Washington — Earliest record of a postoffice in North America appears in a court order in Massachusetts in 1639. About 20 years later a postofice was established in Virginia.

Rejoice in the Lord always ... In nothing be anxious. —(Phil. 4:4-6)

There may be times when things do not go according to schedule, times when confusion runs rampant. Let's not be tense or anxious at such times, for if we hold to the idea of divine order, we know that God's good is at work. Order and perfect harmony are the right and natural state of affairs and they are brought forth as we affirm divine order, as we let this idea find expression through us in words and works.

Teacher Feted As 40-Year Career In Schools Closes

Miss Esther M. Pepin is retiring this month after serving as a teacher in the Newton public schools for forty years.

At a gala retirement dinner held at the Holiday Inn, Auburndale, last Thursday evening, John W. McLeod, principal of the Warren Junior High School, presented her with a Paul Revere Bowl from the Newton Teachers Association.

Mrs. Grace Bleloch congratulated Miss Pepin on her outstanding service to the Newton schools and extended best wishes and a gift from her many friends and faculty members. Lincoln Heck was chairman in charge of the dinner committee.

An entertainment program was featured by the music popular during the first few years of Miss Pepin's teaching career in Newton. This was directed by Donald R. Sullivan of the Music Department assisted by those present.

Miss Pepin came to Newton in January of 1926 as building assistant to Paul C. Scarborough at the Pierce School in West Newton. When the Warren Junior High School opened in 1928 she served as the school secretary. Two years later she became a full-time English teacher.

Always interested in dramatics, her ability was shown in English classes presentation of bits from Shakesperian plays, the writing of material for school assemblies, and radio programs, as well as her own acting in faculty plays.

She took an active part in rationing, civilian defense, the Red Cross program and also served as a Nurses Aid during the Second World War.

She spent the school year of 1947-48 as an English exchange teacher in Seattle, Washington. In 1957, Miss Pepin took a half-year sabbatical for a tour of eastern Europe, Scotland, Ireland and England, with considerable time at Stratford-on-Avon.

Miss Pepin was at one time secretary of the Newton Teachers Association and served two years as chairman of the Federation Salary Committee. She has worked with the pupils on the school paper and has been interested in any activity related to her English teaching.

Two Crashes Spur Plea For Traffic Lights

Long recognized as a danger spot, the intersection of Harvard street and Newtonville avenue, was the scene of two accidents last Monday evening, and as a result, parents of the area have increased their efforts to have the crossing protected by traffic lights.

One crash there at 5 p.m. involved a car and a truck. Then, four hours later, there was a second collision.

During those four hours, one Newtonville parent obtained 45 additional signatures to a petition originated earlier, and nearly 100 names were n the paper delivered to Alderman Joseph M. McDonnell.

The petition, in part, read as follows: "We hereby petition the Board of Aldermen for a traffic light and/or signal at Newtonville avenue and Harvard street, due to hazardous conditions and numerous traffic accidents; increased traffic on Newtonville avenue and Harvard street, in addition to the fact that this is a crossing for children attending four schools in the area."

Action was begun two months ago by a group of women including Mrs. James B. Bishop of 42 Gilbert street, West Newton, formerly of Madison avenue, Newtonville. She herself had been in an accident there in January of last year when, she said, a man drove through the stop sign for Newtonville avenue traffic.

Others who helped originate the plea for protection were Mrs. William Jordan of 304 Newtonville avenue; Mrs. Robert Nolan, 97 Madison avenue and Mrs. Frank King of 41 Farquhar road.

Mr. Kleiner maintained that his fall was due to an uneven place in the curbing, where he was attempting to unload a chair from his car.

Reflectorized Bumpers For Cars Urged By Local Solon

"Congress can improve highway safety throughout the nation by requiring auto manufacturers to reflectorize front and rear bumpers," Rep Theodore D. Mann (R) of Newton declared this week.

The Newton legislator revealed that he has filed a bill to memorialize Congress to enact such a requirement "as one step forward in preventing unnecessary loss of life on our highways.

"Because this problem is nationwide, it is essential that Congress take action to prevent the increasing highway death toll," Man contended. "Safety experts advocating reflectorized license plates in Massachusetts have testified that over 300 lives and 25,000 injuries can be prevented over a five year period in this state alone.

"In our neighboring state of Maine, reflectorized plates resulted in a 58% reduction of rural nighttime accidents." Mann Claimed.

"We are constantly deluged with complaints about the high cost of auto insurance. This cost can be reduced by reflectorized plates and bumpers," Con concluded. "Action by Congress, requiring manufacturers to reflectorize bumpers will be a start in the right direction.

2-Sessions In Schools To Continue Next Year

The 58-year-old policy of conducting two sessions in Newton's elementary schools on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays will be continued through the next school year under the provisions of an order adopted unanimously by the School Committee Monday night.

This blocked, at least for the present, a campaign by the parents of many elementary school pupils for a single session all five days of the week under which the children would have a 45-minute lunch and playtime period in school and would be dismissed for the day at 2 p.m.

However, the School Board, on the recommendation of Superintendent Charles E. Brown, voted to create a study committee which would recommend changes in the school schedule for the school year starting in September, 1967.

Approximately 300 persons attended Monday night's meeting in the Day Junior High School Auditorium in Newtonville, and a majority of them obviously favored the single schedule proposal.

Richard S. Fallows of Newton Highlands, former president of the Hyde School PTA, presented the case of those supporting the move for a single school session.

He also submitted to the School Committee a petition signed by 2435 Newton parents urging five daily school sessions of five hours a day, with a supervised 45-minute lunch and recreation period and with the children dismissed at 2 p.m.

Mr. Fallows made a 30-minute statement to the School Committee and concluded with the following summary of his position:

"We want a uniform daily schedule. We like the idea of five hours per day, five days a week, as recommended by the Massachusetts Department of Education. We believe that one and one-half hours for lunch is wasteful.

"We believe that walking to and from home for lunch is undesirable. It is potentially hazardous due to weather, traffic, and inadequate supervision. We favor a school lunch program and believe it is quite feasible. We believe that the free Tuesday and Thursday afternoons are not necessary for the school or the children and, in effect tend to restrict free time throughout the week rather than liberalize it.

"We want you, the Newton School Committee, to review and weigh our arguments. We request that you investigate other outstanding school systems as we have done. We ask you to weigh the cost in confusion, irregularity, inconvenience,

UPROAR GROWS OVER NORTH VIET RAIDS

THE BOMBING of fuel depots near Haiphong and Hanoi, North Viet Nam, stirred a rising wave of protest at home and abroad Wednesday, but Defense Sec. McNamara said the attack proved that the Communists will "have to pay the price" for increased infiltration and continued aggression in south Vet Nam.

McNamara insisted that the door is wide open for peace negotiations and he assured Communist China that the U.S. does not wish to widen the war.

The Soviet Union descirbed the raids as "barbaric" and a "criminal escalation of the war."

Sixteen House Democrats issued a statement charging that the U.S. is jeopardizing "continued Soviet restraint" and risking encounters with Soviet missles and expanded Chinese air power. They warned that the US. is inviting alienation of its allies, especially Great Britain.

Britain's prime minster, Harold Wilson, noted the bombing "with regret." He said, "We have made it clear on many occasions that we cannot support an extension of the bombing to such areas."

Meanwhile, North Vietnamese paraded an American pilot, whom they said was shot down in the raid, through the streets of Hanoi. Angry crowds shouted "down, down, down" at him.

STRONG MAN ONGANIA RULES ARGENTINA

TOUGH, ANTI-COMMUNIST Lt. Gen. Juan Carlos Ongania was installed Wednesday as president of Argentina by a military junta which made clear he is not considered a provisional office holder.

Deposed President Arturo Illia, who was considered by the military too soft on Communism, unable to stop massive inflation and not hard enough on extremist Peronists, remained in seclusion at his brother's home in Buenos Aires. He was expected to go to Uruguay or perhaps to the United States, where his wife is recovering from back surgery in a Houston, Tex. hospital.

The Nation

AMA VOTE JOLTS MEDICARE PLAN

THE AMERICAN MEDICAL Association Wednesday urged the nation's doctors to bill their Medicare patients directly and leave it to the patients to collect health insurance benefits from the program.

The AMA's house of delegates, going beyond the recommendations of its trustees, also called on physicians to have nothing to do with forms that provide for payments to doctors by government-designated insurance firms.

By voice vote with no dissenters heard, the representatives of 200,000 doctors expressed their opposition to any extension of Medicare into a national health plan. Medicare goes into effect Friday.

DON'T BECOME A JULY 4 STATISTIC

NEGROES TELL TRIAL OF HARRASSMENT

THE CONSPIRACY trial of three Ku Klux Klansmen in Athens, Ga., Wednesday heard two negroes testify they were harrassed by armed vigilantes who roamed the city without police interference. COMPROMISE ON RIGHTS BILL

THE U.S. HOUSE Judiciary Committee broke a deadlock Wednesday and voted its final approval of the new civil rights bill. The deadlock was broken by a compromise which exempts persons who sell their own homes from a ban on racial discrimination in the sale and rental of all houses. The bill may reach the floor for House action by the end of July.

DIVERS ESCAPE IN BRIDGE COLLAPSE

TWO DIVERS, working under the surface off Newport, R.I., Wednesday escaped serious injury when the frame of the new Newport bridge, under construction, collapsed. Both divers, John Rivesto of Brockton, Mass., and Howard Curran of Central Falls, R.I., were knocked from the pier to the bottom of the bay, 162 feet below the surface.

STOCKS SELL OFF FIFTH TIME

STOCKS ENDED UP losers for the fifth consecutive day Wednesday, as the market suffered its severest setback in more than a month. Trading was moderate.

Airlines and electronics received the brunt of the selling as usual but declines were not limited to any specific group.

Analysts believe the decline was spurred by the latest bombing of North Viet Nam along with the numerous other economic and monetary uncertainties which have been depressing the market.

The Dow Jones industrial average plunged 9.30 to 871.60, the lowest level since May 17. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index fell 0.81.

The State

REVERE CHIEF ORDERED REINSTATED

THE STATE civil service commission Wednesday ordered the reinstatement with back pay of Colin A. W. Gillis as Revere police chief.

Gillis was suspended by Revere Mayor George V. Colella April 25 after a federal grand jury indicted Gillis on a charge of failing to pay $6,281 in income taxes from 1959 to 1961.

The Commission, acting on Gillis' appeal of the indefinite suspension, said the mayor's action was not justified. The Commission said it has consistently taken the position that an indictment does not form the basis for action by an appointing authority.

6 HOSPITALS WIN IN RATES SUIT

BLUE CROSS RATES in Massachusetts are legal, the State Supreme Court ruled Wednesday. The ruling upheld six hospitals in a suit against Administration Commr. John J. McCarthy. Submit Plans For 3 Civic Projects

Three prominent Newton residents yesterday submitted to several civic organizations a new plan for the location of a new Newton High School, Central Library and Junior College.

Herbert F. Regal, vice president of the Newton PTA Council, Henry F. Myerson, president of the Weeks Junior High School PTA, and Daniel Ahern, president of the Friends of the Newton Free Library, urged a new approach of comprehensive planning in connection with the three projects.

One of the proposals they advanced was that a single new high school be erected for boys and girls in all sections of the city.

They advanced three recommendations for "careful review."

"1. Construction of a new high school with a 4500-student capacity to service the entire city—either in the Cold Springs area or at some other suitable and obtainable location.

"2. Use of the Newton South Junior High School campus as a junior college.

GOP Puts Up Strong Ticket; Richardson Rescues Sargent

The Republicans have put together an extremely strong ticket for the November election. It probably will pack more punch and voter appeal than any GOP slate since Christian A. Herter, Leverett Saltonstall, Sumner G. Whittier and the late George Fingold ran together as a team in 1954.

John A. Volpe, Edward W. Brooke, Elliot L. Richardson and Francis W. Sargent loom as highly attractive candidates. All but Sargent are tested vote-getters.

Yet, some Republican weaknesses were apparent during the GOP State Convention, and the conclave itself, despite the smiles and gracious statements of the losers, left a measure of bitterness in its wake.

Newton Hospital Ready As Medicare Starts Tomorrow

Medicare begins tomorrow,

"It will create more paperwork and some misunderstanding, but no foreseeable change in the quality of hospital care," Dr. William S. Brines of Newton-Wellesley Hospital observed today.

"We forecast no change in the quality of the care we provide. Our ability to serve patients will remain perceptibly unchanged. People can have confidence in their hospital and its staff," the Wellesley resident said.

"By the same token, the program is totally new to citizens, to the hospital, and particularly to the Social Security Administration. Problems and misunderstandings are inevitable, I believe."

He said expectations of Medicare patients may not match the realities of Medicare coverage.

"Medicare will help eligible persons finance acute hospital care, various diagnostic preeedures and follow-up treatment. However, patients will be required to meet some of the expenses out-of-pocket.

"Medicare does not signal carte blanche access to a hospital, free of charge, whenever a Medicare recipient desires. Only a physician can

The day will begin, as usual, with the raising of Old Glory on the playground, followed by the salute to the flag and singing of the National Anthem.

Oldsters who recall the pyrotechnic displays on Fourth of July eve in bygone years, and the all-day bang-bang of exploding firecrackers and cherry bombs, can expect no such activity here this year. The sky in no part of the city will reflect the colorful glow of fireworks of any kind.

Nor will boys and girls take to the streets in the early morning hours to set off the firecrackers they have bought with their savings over a period of weeks prior to the Fourth.

The reason for all this serenity — the ban on fireworks of any kind that was put into effect five years ago, when children were injured by fireworks left over from the Fou... continues.

An additional reason for the ban is a decision that was made to prevent the clogging of the city's streets by automobiles of persons attracted here by displays of fireworks.

While the city will have no official observance of the day, the Recreation Department, as it did in previous years, has spotted appropriate patriotic programs for youngsters on the individual playgrounds throughout the week preceding July 4.

Norumbega Park Razing Underway

The old Normandie Ballroom and other buildings at Norumbega Park are in the hands of a demolition squad.

According to an order delivered to the owners by the Board of Aldermen, the Normandie Room must be razed by next Tuesday, July 5, and the rest of the structures must be flattened by Monday, July 21.

The way will thus be cleared should Mariott Motor Hotels of Newton, Inc., decide to go ahead with its intention to build a $4,000,000 motel complex at the site. However, as yet the Mariott people have not given the city any indication that they are still of the same mind relative to the site overlooking the Charles River, Route 128 and the Massachusetts Turnpike.

Reports Feature Final School Board Meeting Of School Year

Presentation of two reports, one on plans for summer curriculum work in the schools, and the other on the program at Meadowbrook Junior High School, occupied what time of Monday night's School Committee meeting wasn't given over to a discussion of the problems arising from pressure by a group of parents for a single session in the elementary schools.

Monday's was the final meeting of the School Board for the 1965-66 school year.

The summer curriculum report, presented by Dr. J. Bernard Everett, head of the Division of Instruction, in part was as follows:

"This summer a total of 163 teachers will be employed on various kinds of curriculum development projects. In most cases, teachers will be continuing work which has been going on over a period of three or four years. A limited number of teachers will be involved in an in-service course in linguistics. The staffs of 4 elementary schools will be meeting to work on problems of scheduling and pupil grouping.

"All of the curriculum writing teams will be meeting either, at the Division of Instruction or in Nweton High School. Secretaries, librarians, artists, and audio-visual specialists will be available to assist the writing teams. Most of the writing will be done during the month of July in order that the materials can be edited and reproduced before school opens.

"Most of the teachers on curriculum writing teams will be working 4 weeks. Among the total group, length of employment will range from 2 or 3 days to 6 weeks."

Under the head of "Notes on Specific Projects," Dr. Everett's report described a continuation of an effort to develop a new curriculum for students in English II, III and IV, involving 18 teachers from Newton High School and Newton South High.

"In it," the report stated, "English and social studies teachers working in tandem are introducing students to selected aspects of the great literature, issues and history of Western man. Teachers will be revising 10th and 11th grade materials and developing new materials for grade 12."

Other specific projects are:

Social Studies, involving 11 teachers from both the high schools; Junior High School English, with 16 teachers working on materials for the teaching of language.

Also, Junior High School Mathematics — 14 teachers working on a curriculum for the slow student.

Another, Junior High School Science—eight teachers working on an analysis and assessment of various national curriculum projects in science.

Still another, Junior High School Social Studies — 10 teachers working on the 8th grade units as recommended in the 1953 Social Studies Report.

In the HEIAB and Kappa Group, six teachers from Day and Meadowbrook will be working on curriculum for slow learners.

In Elementary Social Studies, four teachers will be finishing units they have worked on during the year.

Elementary Art—here three teachers will be attempting to finish a course of study in art which they have worked on for two previous summers.

Elementary Health — one teacher will be working on the first unit of the American Cancer Society No Smoking Program.

Music Ensemble — two teachers are continuing their work of two previous summers in selecting and adapting ensemble music for Newton children.

Cataloguing — one teacher will catalogue social studies materials as the beginning of the development of a central cataloguing system at the Division of Instruction.

Elementary Reading Tests —one teacrer (Dr Grimes) will be working on the continued assessment of various methods of teaching reading.

Technical Staff — four art specialists will be assisting all writing teams in the preparation of graphics, transparencies and other illustrative materials.

Elementary Linguistic Workshop — 24 teachers will spend a week becoming familiar with the liguistic approach to the teaching of reading.

Elementary School Workshops — six teachers from Bowen, seven from Oak Hill, 11 from Horace Mann and 10 from Hamilton will be working for one or two weeks on organization, scheduling and grouping practices in their respective schools.

Meadowbrook report, presented by the school's principal, Miss Bettina King, stated that in September, most members of the staff will report for work four days before school opens. During the preschool conference, teachers will be briefed on the pertinent data on each child and its revelance to the child's schedule.

Each teacher will be responsible for working with 21 children in the building of their schedule. Says Miss King, "It is during this process which occurs in the first weeks of school that tightness of structure, looseness of structure, parental involvment as well as teacher recommendations become important."

Political Highlights

Governor Volpe came perilously close to suffering a setback in the contest for the convention endorsement for Lieutenant Governor in which he had placed his prestige on the line.

A fairly substantial vote was cast against Attorney General Edward W. Brooke, as a political unknown, who entered the lists only days before the convention and had no chance whatever against Brooke, polled 215 votes, or about one in each eight.

It was obvious that these votes were cast against Brooke, not for Attorney J. Alan MacKay, and they reflected an opposition to Brooke within the GOP's right wing because of certain of his views.

Lieutenant Governor Richardson stirred some feeling against him when he rallied his supporters behind Sargent during the Lieutenant Governor battle in order to help pull Volpe's political chestnuts from the burning embers.

Richardson probably could not have done anything else under the circumstances since he presumably acted in response to an urgent request from Volpe, the State's top GOP leader. It was Richardson who actually rescued Sargent.

But Volpe didn't handle himself with the skill and deftness he would be expected to display in his maneuvring to pick the Lieutenant Governor nominee.

There's an old adage in politics that you don't go half-way in a political fight. Volple violated that rule.

Volple, in the opinion of most political observers, either should have given Sargent an outright endorsement and full support; or he should have remained neutral in the battle for the GOP endorsement for Lieutenant Govornor.

Instead, he tried to remain half-neutral while letting it be known that Sargent was his personal choice to be his running mate. In the process he risked damage to his prestige.

The governor may have under-estimated the popularity of Representative Francis W. Hatch of Beverly and the extent of the drive Hatch could make for the Lieutenant Governor endorsement.

Or he may have over-estimated the number of votes Sargent could get on his own and the number Sargent would receive because the word had been passed that Volpe favored him.

Whichever the case, Volpe and his lieutenants suddenly realized that there was a serious danger Sargent might go down the drain.

That was when requests began for roll calls of individual delegates in order to give the Volpe and Richardson forces time to shift the votes needed to save Sargent.

A ironic aspect to the situation was that Hatch, in the judgment of this onlooker, would have been just as big an asset to the Republican State ticket as Sargent even though Sargent has had greater statewide exposure and is better known throughout the Commonwealth.

Volple, of course, is Governor and the head man in the Republican party, and few politicians would challenge his right to hand-pick his Lieutenant Governor running mate.

The trouble developed when Volpe attempted to hand-pick his ticket mate in a rather subtle way and sought to prevent it from being obvious that he was doing so.

The only real complaint the Hatch adherents had was that Volpe indicated three days before the GOP conclave that it would be a free and open convention and that the delegates would make their own choice of a Lieutenant Governor candidate.

If Volpe had made it plain to Hatch that Sargent was his man and that he intended to get Sargent on the GOP ticket, whatever he had to do, Hatch would have undoubtedly have folded up his campaign and would not have gone into the convention.

But on the basis of what Volpe said, Hatch expended his energy, time and money to make a fight for the Lieutenant Governor endorsement. Then he had the rug pulled out from under him when it appeared he might win.

He took this development with remarkably good grace and, in congratulating Sargent, spoke of the political tomorrows of which he hopes to be a part, while giving Volpe a polite dig for the rug-pulling operation.

Some of Hatch's disappointed supporters were stronger in their expressions although there was no talk of bolting the Republican party.

Volpe's explanation of the course he followed was that a leader is supposed to lead and that he was trying to provide leadership without twisting any arms.

We don't know where the fine line of distinction on arm-twisting is drawn, but midway through the Lieutenant Governor balloting there was plenty of pressure on the delegates to get behind Sargent.

Other strange and perhaps significant things happened during the course of the Republican convention.

Elmer Nelson, the old pro of the GOP, who was Volpe's campaign manager in 1964 and who supposedly has been slated to perform in a similar capacity for Volpe during the coming fall, mounted a drive to stop Sargent, the man Volpe wanted.

This doesn't mean that Nelson will not be Volple's campaign manager. It only means that the independent, tough-minded Nelson didn't want Sargent as the Lieutenant Governor nominee.

Nelson led the fight for former Republican State Committee Chairman Frederic C. (Buck) Dumaine, but Dumaine polled a surprisingly small vote, largely delivered by Nelson.

If Dumaine had received as many votes as most political pundits anticipated he would get, Sargent would have been stopped on the first ballot, and Volpe would have suffered a rebuke which his former campaign manager helped to deliver.

That's the kind of convention it was.

Republican State Senate Leader Philip A. Graham, whom Volpe is to appoint to the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority, made the major nominating speech for Hatch, and in the course of it he gave the GOP delegates something to think about.

Graham told them that Republican leaders expect GOP law-makers to fight their party's battles in the Legislature but then, after they do so, pass them up for places on the GOP State ticket.

The message Graham was getting across was that Republican legislators like himself, who make the good Republican fight, are usually considered too controversial to run for state-wide office.

Ex-Representative Robert C. Hahn of Stoughton and Elwynn J. Miller of Medford, both members of the Republican State ticket two years ago, were obviously disappointed that Lieutenant Governor Richardson decided to run for Attorney General, crushing any hope they had of achieving the nomination for that office.

But Hahn and Miller didn't have the same cause for complaint as did Hatch.

There was always the possibility that Richardson would move into the Attorney General race. Richardson had made that crystal clear.

Hahn and Miller knew that, and they knew that if he did so, their candidacies would be washed up on the rocks. Nobody misled them as to what might happen.

The cold, considered judgment of Republican leaders and of most political analysts was that Hahn and Miller, personable candidates that they are, would have little chance of winning an election fight against Francis X. Bellotti or Foster Furcolo.

That was why there was so much pressure on Richardson to seek the Attorney Generalship, and it was why Richardson finally agreed to do so.

If the results are what count, Governor Volpe and other top GOP chieftains probably have good reason to be satisfied with their State Convention.

You can't discount the fact that Volpe accomplished what he set out to accomplish at the GOP conclave even if he made some mistakes along the way.

Volpe, Brooke, Richardson and Sargent should make a very potent political combination at the head of the Republican State ticket.

John J. Buckley is likely to make a real bid for election as State Auditor.

Raymond Trudel and Joseph E. Fernandes were endorsed for Secretary of State and State Treasurer only because the Republicans must put up some candidates for those offices which they have no chance of winning.

Fernandes must have been the most surprised man in Denmark when he was notified by long distance telephone that he was being tapped as the GOP candidate for State Treasurer. He probably is the only man ever endorsed by a State Convention who wasn't even in the country at the time.

Volpe didn't have to go as far to get Trudel who is a member of his own staff.

There will be no state-wide fight for nominations in the Republican primary, as there will be on the Democratic side of the political fence.

The mistakes made in the behind-the-scenes maneuvring at the GOP convention will be quickly forgotten, and the bitterness left by the conclave will ebb and evaporate long before the November election.

Lee Loumos Says:

There are two ways to buy air conditioning. One is to fight your way thru heavy traffic to the large stores on Route 9 (fraying your nerves trying to get from one side of the street to the other) or bravoing the big city to other all-purpose stores then guessing at the proper size and waiting in line to get your machine or waiting for days for some independent subcontractor to deliver and install it for you.

Or you can call or come to see an air conditioning specialist such as myself, park in our private lot at the rear of our store, give me the dimensions of your room or rooms, let me tell you exactly what the proper size is, and then either take the machine right with you or arrange for our own technicians to deliver and install it for you within one day. So why not save yourself a lot of aggravation and "play it cool" with us?

Epstein Named Chairman For Annual Outing

Banker Rubin Epstein of Chestnut Hill has been named chairman of the Greater Boston Brandeis Club's 12th annual summer outing, which will be held July 13-17 at The Equinox in Manchester, Vt.

Mr. Epstein, president of the City Bank and Trust Co. of Boston and a Fellow of Brandeis University, has served as chairman for the event for the past several years.

The annual outing, said GBBC President Bertram C. Tackeff of Brookline, serves to provide club members "with a long weekend of sports and entertainment, a good opportunity to get away from it all for a few days."

The famous hotel, at the foot of Mt. Equinox, has its own golf course, a private lake stocked with trout, a tennis court, swimming pool, and complete hotel facilities.

The summer outing is one of the four communal events sponsored by the GBBC each year. During the rest of the year, the club holds a Reunion Day at the Brandeis campus, a winter dinner, and a spring dinner dance.

The club, organized when Brandeis opened its doors in 1948, has been one of the Brandeis-affiliated organizations around the nation offering the closest support to the University's development.

The association's 179 mutual savings banks serve over 3 million people and hold in trust for them over 8½ billion dollars all of which is insured in full.

Under Mr. Ober's guidance the Newton Savings Bank has advanced to become the eighth largest mutual savings bank in Massachusetts.

It has six offices in Newton, Wellesley and Needham and has received permission to establish a seventh office on Austin Street in Newtonville. Total assets of the bank and its Savings Bank life Insurance Department are over 183 million dollars.

Plans

"3. Construction of the new central library on the present site of the junior college."

The three advocates of this plan submitted it to the PTA Council, the Friends of the Library and the Board of Directors of the Newton Junior College.

"A single city-wide high school is the best way—and perhaps the only way—to ensure uniform educational opportunity for every student," they declared.

"Since the construction of Newton South High School, the city has maintained two schools of increasingly different characteristics," they said. "The recent proposal of the High School Site Committee would widen the gap.

"The single school for 4,500 students would be officially managed under the house system. It would reduce duplication and consolidate academic resources, and it would be more economical than two separate schools.

"A single, city-wide school would lay a new foundation of civic unity and eliminate the dangerous tendency toward civic disunity which has been apparent since the establishment of Newton South High School.

"The use of the present Newton South High School as a Junior College campus would be an efficient way—perhaps the only way—of ensuring the continuation of a junior college in our City," they maintained.

They pointed out that it is presently planned to build a partially new Newton High School, with the construction of two new buildings and the renovation of one building to provide total accomodations for 2500 students at the Walnut street school site.

Also being planned, they cited, is an addition to Newton South High School to accomodate an additional 500 students and bring the total enrollment to 2000. Realignment of school districts is planned to effect the enrollment shifts.

The cost of these combined school projects is estimated at $11,375,000.

A Library Site Committee report recommended that the new central library be built at the corner of Homer and Walnut streets, across from City Hall.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas recently appointed a committee to study the needs of the Junior College.

In commenting on their own plan, Regal, Myerson and Ahern said: "It is not suggested here that the city should adopt this particular program, but merely give it full consideration along with other possibilities, as part of the needed comprehensive planning program."

Wiliam Hibbard, a graduate student, plays viola in the University of Iowa Symphony Orchestra. A Newton Centre resident, his home is at 5 Channing Rd.

Park St. Church Chimes Gift Of Local Woman

R. Rice Nutting, organist and music director at Boston's Park Street Church, is presenting the third annual series of Freedom Trail Concerts on the Albert O. Wilson Memorial Organ and the Harry Lee Jones Cathedral Chimes.

Of particular interest to Newtonites who happen to be in the church's vicinity during the concerts should be the fact that the chimes were given by Mrs. Harry Lee Jones of Newton Centre in memory of her husband, a former trustee of Park Street Church.

The concerts will be given Wednesdays at 12:10 p.m. and Sundays at 6:45 p.m., July 6 through Aug. 7. They are open to the public without charge.

Each program will begin with "America," first played 135 years ago for a children's July celebration at the historic church — third site on the Freedom Trail.

Medicare

admit a patient. In his judgment hospital care must be necessary. The doctor must so certify.

"Medicare headquarters in Baltimore will notify us whether a patient is eligible for benefits, and to what extent. We will provide the necessary hospital services as fully as a patient requires, and as we do for all patients. The determination of what Medicare will cover is up to the Medicare authorities. We are bound by their rulings," he said.

He indicated the hospital family has been briefed about current Medicare procedures, forms, benefits and exclusions. During May, the hospital was certified by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, paving the way for the reception of Medicare patients.

In addition, a utilization Committee comprising members of the hospital medical staff, organized before Medicare legislation was enacted, continues a case-by-case review of care furnished in the hospital.

He noted the advent of Medicare does not suddenly produce an army of new patients.

Medicare patients will represent people we have served right along. The functioning of our utilization committee should assure that admissions to the hospital are essential and that care-days are not wasted. Further, I feel strongly that people prefer to stay out of a hospital unless admission is absolutely essential. The utilization committee will help promote this practice."

Mr. Brines expected an increase in the use of diagnostic resources of the hospital by Medicare recipients. He noted that sound use of preventive facilities can forestall a later, lengthy hospitalization. He also indicated greater use of outpatient services probably could be handled by the hospital.

"However, we could encounter problems if confronted by a sudden demand for beds," he related.

"Over the past 12 months, adult medical-surgical beds have been absolutely full, and the hospital has had a waiting list for accommodations. A similar condition prevails at most Boston-area hospitals. Under such circumstances, an increased demand simply increases the waiting list and sharpens priority under which admission to a hospital is determined."

He pointed out that a building program will provide additional capacity at the hospital in the future. An expansion fund drive, to help finance a new addition, is 94 percent complete. Nearly $3,300,000 has been raised.

"We know Medicare signals much new paperwork, an inevitable outgrowth of any Federally sponsored program. Nonetheless, we have done our level best to be ready for Medicare. We are confident we can cope with whatever it brings," he concluded.

Newton Girl Is Bennington Grad

Barbara Sue Matthews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard L. Matthews of Newton Centre, was recently graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Arts at Bennington College, Vermont.

A graduate of Newton High School, 1962, Miss Matthews has been engaged by the Reece School in New York City where she will work in the field of art therapy with emotionally disturbed children. Last summer she was a member of the Experiment in International Living and resided with an Italian family in Como, Italy.

Margaret Heckler Launches Her Campaign For Congress

MARGARET M. HECKLER

Governor's Councillor Margaret M. Heckler has made it official that she will oppose veteran Congressman Joseph W. Martin, Jr., for the Republican nomination for Congress in the 10th congressional district which extends from Newton, Needham and Westwood down into southeastern Masachusetts.

She formally announced her candidacy for Congres at a press conference held Tuesday at the Sidney Hill Country Club in Newton.

Now completing her second term and fourth year in the Governor's Council, Mrs. Heckler is an active practising attorney and a graduate of Boston College Law School.

Councillor Heckler conceded candidly that she faces uphill fight but added this neither discourages nor deters her, pointing out that she has had uphill fights before.

"In 1962, when I felt a responsibility to get into Massachusetts state government, certain party leaders sought to discourage me because they felt I could not win a seat held by an incumbent Democrat," she asserted.

"Then, as now, like all people committed to excellence in government, I felt that the will to win plus sincerity of purpose are 50 per cent of any battle," she stated. "As a great philosopher once said: "To know what is right and to fail to do it is the worst form of cowardice."

"I know what is right, and I will not fail to do it," she stressed.

Councillor Heckler emphasized her conviction that the 10th congressional district needs a Congressman who can keep abreast of changing conditions and developments, who can be in attendance on all matters which come before the national House and who can speak out and work energetically for the people of the district.

"We live in dangerous days," she said. Days when domestic tensions and national needs clamor for recognition. Our future as a nation may well depend not only on our economic strength, our military might, the brains we produce, the skills we train, the production we achieve but also on the dedication and moral strength of our people. There was never a time when the functions of our government were more important than at the present. It is in the light of these problems that we must consider our representation in Congress," she said.

"This issue involves competing claims. On the one hand there is the claim to admiration and respect for the long and honorable service of our congressman. On the other hand there are the pressing claims of present problems and current crises which cannot be handled except by attentive and informed full time representation. Last but not least there is the claim for responsible action to preserve the two party system in our national government.

"This is one of the keystones of our democracy. It is essential to the protection of the rights of all, essential to the proper functioning of government itself. What has happened to the two party system in regard to the Massachusetts Congressional delegation? Only 15 years ago the Republicans controlled the Massachusetts Congressional delegation by a margin of 8 to 6. Today with a redistricted delegation of 12 members the Democrats control it by 7 to 5. Unless a change is made this year in the Tenth Congressional District the Congressional delegation will be Democratic by a margin probably of 8 to 4 or 2 to 1.

This is the critical year for this district. If we postpone a change until 1968 we will have for the first time in Massachusetts, an abbreviated ballot which will not include state wide constitutional offices. This year the strength of the state ticket will enhance the chances for election of other Republican candidates on the ballot.

"The candidate for Congress in 1968 will stand virtually alone without the added boost from the state ticket. In this district which is rapidly going democratic, if the Republican party intends to hold this congressional seat, we must make the change now.

"For these reasons and because of my proven vote getting record concerned Republicans throughout this district have urged me to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Tenth District. I have found their arguments persuasive. We all feel deep respect for our present congressman but this respect should not and must not silence us from acknowledging the needs of today.

"I hereby announce that I shall be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in this district because I believe that the Tenth Congressional district from Newton to Fall River with all the cities and towns in between needs and deserves energetic continuous, full time representation, deserves a member of Congress who can keep abreast of changing conditions and developments, who can be in attendance on all matters which come before the national house of Representatives and who can speak out and work energetically for the people of the district," Councillor Heckler stated.

City Workers Lose Most Time Through Colds

What Dr. Hale H. Cook, city health commissioner, calls "upper respiratory infections," and what the layman refers to as common colds, were the major cause of absences from work by city employes in 1965, according to the doctor's annual report.

Statistics, compiled in his office by a secretary, Mrs. Nancy Smith, indicated that there were 2081 one-day sick leaves, of which 904 occurred on Mondays or Fridays.

Municipal workers lost a total of 10,472 sick leave days last year, the report states, a figure representing more than six days per person. In all the city has 4114 employes. Those lost days exceeded the ones of the previous year by 584.

These figures do not include school employes.

Stacks Of Mail Tip Off Thieves Families Warned

Postmaster Ephraim Martin has issued a special appeal to the public to make arrangements with the letter carrier or the local postoffice for the disposition of mail while families are on vacation. "Mail allowed to accumulate in home mail receptacles indicates that the occupants are away and invites thefts," said the postmaster.

He said that a change of address for a temporary period can be filed or other disposition made of letters, magazines, circular and packages.

At the same time, Postmaster Martin requested all persons having boxes located on highways where delivery is made by vehicle, to inspect the box to see if it is neat in appearance, securely erected and properly maintained.

Everyone should have a proper receptacle for mail and of sufficient size to permit the enclosure of all classes of mail. The name of occupants should be provided and the houses properly numbered to facilitate the delivery of mail.

Burke Chairman For Committee

Alderman Paul J. Burke was appointed this week by President Wendell R. Bauckman of the Board of Aldermen as chairman of the committee to study the advisability of using election voting machines in the forthcoming city elections. Ald. Burke had made the original recommendation.

Serving on this committee will be Aldermen Edward C. Uehlein, William L. Bruce, Jason Sacks and H. James Shea Jr.

Dr. Melvin Howards Of Newton Heads New Northeastern Center

A Center for Educational Development has been established at Northeastern University to co-ordinate its growing number of experimental education projects.

N. U. President Asa S. Knowles said that the center, to be headed by Dr. Melvin Howards, will co-ordinate the College of Education's Reading Department, Center for Reading Improvement, and education projects financed by the federal government and private foundations.

Dr. Howards, of 94 Shady Hill road, Newton Highlands, is an associate professor of education and a specialist in reading instructions.

Among the projects that will be co-ordinated by the center, he reported, are:

The only federal Neighborhood Youth Corps projects in the nation that include an educational program.

Two scholarship programs financed by the federal government and the Ford Foundation for Northeastern freshmen who wouldn't be able to go to college without freshman year scholarships and the ensuing work-study jobs during their four upperclass years.

An intern program for Northeastern undergraduates who, after six weeks of intensive training during the summer, teach during their co-operative work terms in the classrooms of junior and senior high schools in economically depressed sections of Boston.

Summer remedial classes for junior and senior high school pupils who are having academic difficulties, financed by the Ford Foundation. Application has also been made for a grant from the Office of Education to enlarge this project.

Dr. Howards said the Center for Reading Improvement serves about 600 N. U. freshmen a year, conducts reading improvement courses for adults and school pupils from the elementary through the high school level and offers clinical services for persons with special reading problems.

"We try to help anyone who has a reading problem and asks for assistance," Dr. Howards noted.

The Reading Department of the College of Education has expanded in four years from a dozen graduate students to nearly 250. The department also offers to undergraduates courses in the techniques of reading instruction.

"All these projects overlap," Dr. Howards remarked, "so it was decided to establish the Center for Educational Development to co-ordinate the different activities.

"The intern program, for instance, is producing innovations in reading instruction that might be used in the Center for Reading Improvement.

"At the same time," he added, "the Neighborhood Youth Corps 'school for dropouts' is turning up teaching techniques that can be applied by the interns."

The combined efforts of all these activities, Dr. Howrads said, will eventually result in the publication of both the results of various experiments and new teaching materials.

Meeting Next Saturday For Fatima Shrine

Fr. Cajetan Bendernagle, C.P., spiritual director of the Crusaders of Fatima of Boston, will be the principal speaker at the First Saturday Meeting which will be held Saturday, July 2, at St. Gabriel's Church, Brighton.

Fr. Cajetan has spearheaded the recent drive to erect a Shrine to Our Lady of Fatima on the Brighton Monastery grounds, and will discuss the future plans once the Shrine has been erected.

The sons of all members are invited to attend with their dads each year at the July meeting.

B'nai B'rith To Continue Visits

Members of the Dr. Joshua Loth Liebman Chapter, B'nai B'rith, of Newton, announced this week that visits to paraplegic veterans at the West Roxbury Veterans Hospital will continue steadly throughout the summer months.

Among those who have faithfully visited there for over 15 years are Mr. and Mrs. Hershey Bernstein, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Horowitz, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Jerome, all of Newton. Mrs. Ruth Schuman is chapter present.

Event

Volpe, Mary Gorgone and Dorothy Maffiola.

The following delegates will attend the National DAV Convention Aug. 6 to 13, at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, New York City: J. Edward Theriault PC, Edward Edmunds PC, Joseph Maffiola, Fred Grasso, John E. Bouchard PSC, and Robert H. H. Nichols. For the Auxiliary: Lucille McCarthy PNC, Cmdr. Etta Twombly, Margaret G. Sharron and Frances Edmunds.

Commander Gorgone today advised that Chapter No. 23 delegates will support J. Edward Theriault for State Commander, and at the national convention will back John E. Bouchard for president of the Commanders and Adjutants Assn., on the national level.

Concerted plans are now being made for a strenuous campaign for both Newton candidates, and a large group of chapter members will accompany the delegates to both conventions.

Newton Soldier Finishes Course

Pvt. Daniel R. Pini, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Pini, 165 Chapel street, Newton, completed a light vehicle driver's course at Fort Rix, N. J., June 10.

During the course, he was trained in the operation and maintenance of military vehicles up to and including the 2½-ton truck.

GOP Delegates Have Busy Day At Convention

Newton's delegates to the Republican State Convention put in a hard day performing their duty as the community's GOP representatives.

Led by City Committee Chairman William A. Lincoln, Newton's delegates took their assigned places in the Convention Hall and stayed with the proceedings throughout the day and deep into the evening until adjournment.

Since there were no recesses declared for either lunch or evening meal, delegates grabbed a sandwich and hastened back to their seats so as to be on hand for balloting.

In contrast, however, to the extreme heat of the 1964 session, delegates enjoyed cool comfort in the air conditioned War Memorial Auditorium.

Demonstrations and circus atmosphere notwithstanding, serious business was conducted with great earnestness. Newton's thirty-six delegates returned to their homes Saturday night weary to be sure, but happily satisfied that they had done a workmanlike job — that they had helped shape out a ticket that would stand up well in November.

Newton High Students Going To Germany

Dr. Thomas L. Lowe, associate professor of German at the College of the Holy Cross in Worcester, and Richard A. Clark, coordinator of modern languages at Newton High School, will head a group of 13 boys and 13 girls who are students at Newton and Waltham High Schools, on a six-week study of the German language at Aachen, Germany.

Dr. Lowe is the undertaking's associate director, and Mr. Clark is its program director.

The group departs today (Thursday) by Lufthansa German Airline, arriving in Frankfort, Germany, July 1.

The students will not speak English during their stay in Germany. While in Aachen, they will live with carefully selected German families. A 16mm film will be made during the trip for showing to interested groups throughout this country.

According to Dr. Lowe, the project received much aid and encouragement from the Boston office of the German Consul, from Dr. Joachim Weno, director of the German Cultural Center in Boston, and from Dr. Charles E. Brown, superintendent of the Newton Schools.

Title of the non-commercial undertaking is "Summer Institute for High School Students in Germany, Inc."

Gets Degree At Michigan State

Thomas C. Jones, 61 Page rd., Newtonville, received a master of science degree in police administration at recent spring quarter commencement ceremonies held by Michigan State University.

3,487 degrees were awarded at the exercises held in Spartan Stadium, East Lansing. Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey delivered the commencement address.

Micky Beard of Newton has completed a very successful season as shortstop on the Dartmouth College varsity baseball team. He is majoring in Economics and intends to go on to graduation in business administration.

Schools

and potential danger which our present schedule portends. We ask that you inquire into the educational benefits which must counterbalance our arguments."

It was also argued that there are mothers in Newton "who must work to support their families" and that the present elementary school schedule makes it impossible for a mother of elementary school youngsters to work and care properly for her children.

Mrs. Thomas Morris of 99 Kirkstall Rd., Newtonville, spoke in behalf of those parents who favor retention of the present schedule. "I represent no committee but am simply here to go on record for those parents who are opposed to the proposals by the single session committee," she said.

Most schools are within easy reach for the majority of children," she continued. "As a parent of five children and a professional social worker, I believe that the children benefit physically and emotionally under this plan, from walking h ome since they need the exercise, from a decent meal, talking with mother and from the break in the school routine.

Mrs. Morris pointed out that under the single session plan the children would eat their lunches at the same desks where they had sat in the morning and added that the teachers would not be responsible for supervising the lunch period.

Superintendent Brown, in answering the advocates of the single session plan, declared in effect that it would not be possible to put it into effect during the next school year because of the problems and expense involved.

Dr. Brown asserted that the adoption of a supervised school lunch program would necessitate the employment of at least 325 persons to o v e r s e e the classrooms where the children were eating their lunches.

..He estimated that it would cost about $247,000 per school year for the lunch time supervision and pointed out that this money is not in the school budget.

Dr. Brown added that it would be difficult, if not impossible, to find 325 qualified people to do this supervisory work by next September.

Commenting on a second plan the single sessioners had proposed, Dr. Brown said "it would involve the use of our playrooms for eating at least in those schools where such a facility exists. The first cost under this plan would be for tables and chairs, an estimated $30,000 to $40,000. Supervisors would still be needed, even though in smaller number, and the estimated cost of their service would be $175,000."

The superintendent concluded his statement by making two recommendations to the School Committee.

1—"That the following hours for Grades 1-6, for 1966-67 only, be adopted: Monday, Wednesday, Friday from 8:20 a.m. to noon, and from 1:15 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday, 8:20 a.m. to noon.

2—"I would propose that the School Committee authorize the establishment of an Elementary School Schedule Study Group, to be charged with the responsibility of working its way through this maze of issues and concerns, and recommending a new, permanent schedule to the School Committee in time for implementation in September, 1967. The study group would be representative of all of the groups and organizations involved, the School Committee, the administrative staff, the teachers, the PTA Council, the p a r e n t group that is before us tonight, the Hebrew schools, other specialized schools, and any other group whose point of view should be heard.

"It is my view," Dr. Brown said, "that only through such a thorough and thoughtful examination of all the issues involved can we find a reasonable solution to this problem."

The S c h o o l Committee voted unanimously to adopt both of Dr. Brown's recommendations.

Prior to making the recommendations, the superintendent's statement was as follows:

"In considering this matter of the schedule for our elementary schools, a number of factors must be kept in mind. Certainly, one of these is the matter of parental opinion. We owe a great deal to the parents of Newton, and I would hope that we would always be sensitive to their concerns in every decision we make. In regard to this particular issue, one has to be impressed both with the sincerity of their expression and with the number of people who support their point of view.

"I would add, however, that while we have had no organized attempt in Newton to marshal those parents who support the present split-session policy, we have heard from a number of such people, both informally and formally, and it is clear that there is by no means a unanimous position on this issue in the total parent group.

"Another group that must be considered is the professional staff. In regard to our principals and teachers, I can say that there is a virtually unanimous feeling of grave concern about the proposed single session policy. I have talked with them about this on a number of occasions, and it is their feeling that such a schedule could pose serious questions from an educational point of view for both teachers and students.

"A third consideration which must be taken into account has to do with the practical matter of implementing a lunch and play program in our schools. As you know, our buildings were not designed to accommodate a lunch program. There are no cafeterias and no working kitchens, which means that children would have to bring cold lunches and eat them in their classrooms. The first problem here would be that of supervision. This should not, indeed cannot, be done by the teachers.

"This school system has been working for years to free our teachers from this sort of duty, and to reverse our policy now would be a serious setback to our effort to improve the conditions for teaching in Newton. Neither can we expect parents to perform this duty on a volunteer basis. We have had some experience with this in the past, and it just doesn't work.

"Therefore, we would have to hire qualified persons, and I would like to underline the word qualified. To supervise a lunch and play period for even 25 lively youngsters requires a certain amount of skill and training, and we could not expect just anyone to take on this responsibility.

"The principals have raised a whole host of smaller, but important problems which would have to be considered, including the providing of substitutes for supervisors who are absent, the lack of available indoor play space for the children during inclement weather, the problems of washing of hands and lost or spoiled lunches, the possibility of increased illness because of improper sanitary conditions posed by eating in the classrooms, and the need for cleaning every classroom after it has been used for eating. While these may seem minor, they serve to support our concern about the whole issue.

"A fourth consideration in our discussion must be the recently adopted State Board of Education regulation regarding the length of the school day and week. As you know, the State has established that the elementary day should be at least five hours, and the week at least 25 hours.

"Given our traditional schedule, this imposes a particular problem on Newton. As I am sure you know, our faculty and staff are concerned that we may lose the many advantages that accrue to this community because of our Tuesday-Thursday afternoon program.

"Also, we have heard from many others in the community, ranging from Hebrew schools to music schools to dtntists, all expressing the hope that we can continue with our present program. In this regard, we have been told informally by State officials that the State Board of Education would be willing to give serious consideration to a temporary waiver of the five hour a day requirement as long as we met the 25 hour a week requirement."

Having made his recommendations, Dr. Brown said, "I would like to make it clear that we regard this as a temporary schedule, designed to do three things. First, it would enable us to meet the 25 hour a week State requirement. Second, it leaves open the question of how we handle the Tuesday-Thursday afternoon issue in the future, and third, it gives us time for a thorough study of the entire matter."

Rachlin and Dr. Albert M. Starr. Mrs. Lawrence Kaufman, director of volunteers, coordinated the program.

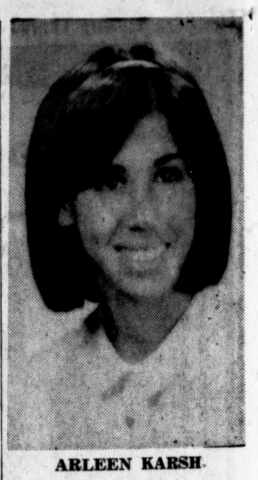
Countryside's Highest Ranking Alumna Honored

A highlight o f the recent Pops Night at Countryside School was the presentation of the school's scholarship to Miss Orleen Karsh of 39 Parker Ave., Newton Highlands, the highest ranking alumna in the graduating class of Newton South High School.

he presentation was made by Dr. L. Jerome Stein, president of Countryside PTA.

Miss Karsh will enter Syracuse University in the fall to major in English Literature.

Arts and flowers was the theme as parents and friends enjoyed the Pops Night sponsored by the PTA. The school orchestra and chorus, under the direction of Robert Giorgi, presented a lively concert to an audience seated at flower-bedecked tables. An exhibition of student art decorated the halls.



ARLEEN KARSH

Fund raising chairman, Mrs. George A. Volpe, assisted by Mrs. George H. Kwatcher, was in charge of a highly successful sale of geraniums. The annual Pops Night under the chairmanship of Dr. and Mrs. Justin Richman once again proved to be a huge success.

New PTA officers were announced by Dr. Stein as follows: President, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Levine; vice presidents, Dr. and Mrs. Justin Richman and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Anderson; treasurer, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Garber; recording secretary, Dr. and Mrs. Laurence Phillips, and corresponding secretary, Dr. and Mrs. Felix Endenfeld.

Wins Contest Award

A Newton Centre resident was a winner this week in the "Three for the Money" contest being conducted by Jenney service stations. The local winner, Albert Chance, 21 Nardone rd., received his $50 award at Newton Centre Jenney station, 1146 Centre st.

This car is for people who think cars are a waste of money.

This is a Volvo. Why do people who don't like cars, like this one? You don't have to trade it in just when you're through paying for it (Volvos last eleven years in Sweden, where there are no speed limits on the highways and there are 70,000 miles of unpaved roads). You don't have to lay out money for repair upon repair. And you don't have to tinker with it (Sports Car Graphic magazine says that "the Volvo B-18 engine is one of the most, if not THE most reliable, rugged and unbreakable car engines built today."). The more you think cars are a pain in the neck, the more you'll like the Volvo compact. Come in and test drive one. It'll give you over 25 miles to the gallon—even with automatic transmission.

"Joe" Martin Will Enter Campaign For Re-election

JOSEPH W. MARTIN

Congressman Joseph W. Martin, Jr., announced this week that he will be a candidate for reelection in the 10th congressional district which stretches from Newton, Needham and Westwood down to Fall River.

Martin, who will be 82 years old in November, will be seeking his 21st term in the national House of Representatives. He is now serving his 40th year in Congress.

His announcement of his candidacy for a new term was made at a testimonial dinner sponsored by the Fall River Republican Committee. He indicated that the campaign he is now starting will be his last.

Martin said he had not planned to run for reelection this year until he was approached by a committee of Republicans.

He declared that he had consulted a committee of doctors to see if he was healthy enough for another term.

"They told me that physically I was in good shape, much better than I have been in years," Martin asserted.

"So I will be a candidate for reelection," he continued. "And I hope everybody here and anybody you can muster will rally to my support.

"But I'll serve notice that I don't expect to be back again," Martin added. "I expect some rest, some little leisure time to do some chores for Joe Martin."

Speakers at the Martin testimonial dinner included Governor John A. Volpe, Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, Republican State Committee Chairman John F. Parker and former Congressman Laurence Curtis.

Governor Volpe endorsed Martin's bid for a 21st term.

"I am delighted that he is again a candidate for Congress, and I want him to know, as I have told him personally any number of times, that he has my wholehearted and enthusiastic support in his quest for reelection," Volpe told the gathering at the testimonial dinner.

The Governor said after his speech that his statement meant he does not intend to support Governor's Councillor Margaret M. Heckler who is opposing Martin.

Martin asserted that he is looking forward to opposition in the Republican primary. "I hope for every race to be tough," he said. "The bigger you win afterward, the better you feel."

Senator Margaret Chase Smith expressed the conviction that Martin was "the finest Republican House leader in history."

"Joe Martin is pretty special to the Republican party," Senator Chase continued. "He is the only living Republican who has served as either Speaker of the House or president pro tem of the Senate. In other words, he is our only living symbol of victory in either of the two bodies in Congress."

She said she had never seen anyone in Washington who was more respected by both Republicans and Democrats than Martin.

"His country and his constituents' are literally his life," Senator Smith declared.

Congressman Hastings Keith discussed Martin's 20 years as Republican leader in the House. "He kept the flag of the two-party system and the Republican party alive," asserted Keith.

Local Teachers At Miami Convention

Delegates from the Newton Teachers Association are among the 10,000 teachers who are attending the six-day annual convention of the National Education Association at Miami Beach which started on Sunday, June 26th to end tomorrow, Friday, July 1st.

Richard D. Batchelder, of Newton, is president of the Association.

A scholarly seminar, how-to workshop, and political forum all rolled into one, the NEA's 104th conclave covers teaching concerns from art education to youth fitness, from civil rights to salaries.

Convening under the theme "Free To Teach" on which NEA President Richard D. Batchelder, of Newton, based his presidential address, the 8,000 official delegates comprising the NEA Representative Assembly consider current issues in education, some controversial.

Repercussions from civil rights legislation, such as slow-paced integration of faculty when schools desegregate.

Impace of recent federal action on school finance.

Conflicts between teachers and school boards.

The professional association vs. the teachers' union; strikes and sanctions and professional negotiations.

Political activity of teachers.

In general sessions they heard Secretary John W. Gardner of the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare Sunday night; NEA Executive Secretary William G. Carr's annual report to the membership on Tuesday afternoon; President Batchelder Tuesday night; Publisher Ralph McGill of the Atlanta Journal Thursday night; and President Andrew Holt of the University of Tennessee at Knoxville, a former NEA president, at the closing session Friday night.

A special feature of the "Free to Teach" convention will be issuance on July 1 of a new five-cent stamp commemorating the 175th anniversary of the Bill of Rights. Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien will take part in the official ceremony Friday morning, and first day covers will be on sale throughout the meeting.

The first business session of the Assembly, policy-making body for the 985,000-member NEA, Tuesday afternoon included nominations for President-Elect, and two Executive Committee posts. Voting will be held Friday.

Candidacies already announced are those of: Braulio Alonso, Tampa, Fla., principal, for president-elect; Mrs. Thelma Davis of Griffin, Ga., and George D. Fischer of Des Moines, Ia., for the executive committee vacancies. Mr. Fischer, a classroom teacher, is running to succeed himself. Mrs. Davis, a first-grade teacher, is immediate past president of the NEA Department of Classroom Teachers.

Resolutions to guide the Association's course during the coming year were aired first at the open hearing at 1 p.m. Sunday. On Thursday morning, the Resolutions Committee, headed by Mrs. Maxine Smith of Medford, Ore., makes its official report to the Representative Assembly. Voting on platform and resolutions will take place Friday.

In addition to the official business of the convention, each of the 33 autonomous departments of the NEA has scheduled convention sessions as have the myriad committees, commissions, and special project staffs.

Among important subjects of these sessions will be the annual report to the profession on "Financial Status of the Public Schools" by the NEA Committee on Educational Finance; a 25-year review of investigations conducted by the Professional Rights and Responsibilities Commission; an analysis of the National Teacher Corps by the National Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards; a review of problems of merging segregated affiliates in the southern states by the NEA-American Teachers Association Joint Committee; analysis of recent federal education legislation, the future of educational TV, the ungraded classroom, and the self-contained teacher.

Top leaders of groups interested in education such as the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, the National School Boards Association, and the American Legion will bring greetings to the teachers.

At the final session Friday night, NEA President-Elect Irvamae Applegate, dean of the School of Education at St. Cloud, Minn., State College, will take over the reins from Mr. Batchelder for the coming year.

All general sessions and the exhibits are held in the Miami Beach Convention Center. More than 60 smaller discussion groups meet in various beach hotels.

This will be the 104th annual convention of the NEA held since 1857 when the Association was born in Philadelphia, Pa. It is the first return engagement to Miami Beach, since NEA met there in 1953.

Delegates from the Newton Teachers Association who are attending the Convention are: Miss Helen M. Ryan, 55 Wolcott road, Chestnut Hill; Miss Joan C. Keenan, 39 Trapelo street, Brighton; Mr. Richard J. Durkin, 59 Newell road, Auburndale; Mrs. Ella May Gay, 178 Oliver road, Waban; Mr. Harold H. Hawkes, 69 Common street, Braintree; Mr. Donald M. Mitchell, 435 Lexington street, Waltham; Mr. Richard M. Adams, 129 Mt. Vernon street, Boston; Dr. Charles E. Brown, 161 Highland avenue, Newtonville.

Dr. Brown is Superintendent of the Newton Public Schools; Miss Ryan, president of the Newton Teachers Association; Mr. Durkin, vice president; Mr. Mitchell, treasurer; Mr. Adams and Mr. Hawkes, former presidents; and Mrs. Gay and Miss Keenen are chairmen of NTA Committee.

BUY A SHARE IN YOUR FREEDOM TRAIL

Boston is where it all began . . . where a struggling colony struck down a tyrant king and staked out a trail of freedom which has become a symbol of the free world.

Here, Sam Adams plotted the patriot's trail of no return; the first bloodshed on the site of the Boston Massacre fanned the flames of revolt, and two lighted lanterns in the steeple of Old North Church triggered the Revolution destined to give this planet a new concept in government "of the people, by the people, for the people." Here, the American dream of equality for all men was born.

You can now share in this great tradition by joining the Freedom Trail Foundation, a joint public service project of the Advertising Club of Greater Boston and the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce.

The Freedom Trail, where history "comes alive," is an inspiration to our youth and a magnet drawing more than a half million visitors annually to our community from every corner of the globe.

House Breaks, Thefts, Are Investigated Here

Newton police this week were investigating a number of house breaks and thefts which have occurred in the city during the past several days.

The room of a lodger at St. Paul's Episcopal Church parish house, 56 Columbus st., Newton Highlands, was ransacked over the weekend. Rev. John M. Balcom, the rector told police there had been no forced entry. A wallet with $90, the property of the roomer, Bradford Pearson, was found to be missing.

According to police records, Louis J. Cooper, 36 Emmons st., West Newton, reported an attempt to enter his home by forcing a rear casement. While investigating this, police discovered another attempted break nearby at 30 Emmons st., where a similar rear casement was forced.

Carl E. Staab, 49 Morrill st., West Newton, told police that an attempt had been made to enter his home. Police found a screen in the porch door was forced and the window jimmied, but there had been no actual entrance. Once again, while checking out this attempted break, police found that the home of Walter B. Chase, 41 Morrill st., West Newton, had been entered. Police stated that entrance was gained by slipping the lock on a porch door and then by jimmying the living-room window. This entire house was ransacked, but no total loss has yet been estimated.

Another householder on Emmons street, Bernard Green, of 11 Emmons st., reported that his home had been entered in an unknown manner. Police said that there was no sign of forced entry, but that three bedrooms were ransacked.

Robert Cusolito, owner of Suburban Caterers, 329 Watertown st., Newton, told police the company's panel truck was broken into by forcing the rear door. Cigarettes and food totalling $100 in value were taken.

Donna Delehanty of Coolidge Dye House Inc., 1275 Washington st., Newtonville, reported that the store had been entered. The intruder had smashed a window and then removed a bar from the door. A total of $168 in cash was missing.

Kenneth Karger, 41 Dorset rd., Waban, told police that his home had been entered by climbing up a rear porch, cutting the screen and then jimmying the porch door.

Thomas Robinson, 31 Dwight st., Brookline, told Newton police that his car was entered and a television set taken.

Lawrence Bean, 259 Varick rd., Waban, reported the theft of two lawn chairs from his back yard. Also, Mrs. Rose Fredeman, 12 Seton Hill rd., Auburndale, reported two chaise lounges were taken from her yard.

Gail Kaufman, 7 Fredette rd., Newton, reported that while she was swimming at Crystal Lake, Newton Centre, her wallet was taken. She reported the loss of $72 in cash and some personal papers.

Newton Welcome Extends To Hub

A little friendly rivalry devoloped between Boston and Newton this week as a question was raised in the Boston City Council as to "how come" a "welcome to Newton" sign was plainly in evidence two miles inside the Brighton line on the westbound lane of the Massachusetts Turnpike.

Council President Frederick C. Langone called on the Turnpike Authority to remove the trespasser.

SERVICE CLUBS IN JOINT MEETING — Robert Tennant, president of the Newton Kiwanis, congratulates John J. McCarthy, Commissioner of Administration and Finance for Massachusetts, on his speech to all of Newtons service clubs recently at Valle's Steak House. Newton Kiwanis was host club at the tri-meeting attended by over 150 Kiwanians, Rotarians, and Lions. Public Opinion Hits Balance On Issue Of Newton Charter Change

Public opinion is divided at the present time on whether any changes should be made in the city charter, members of the Board of Aldermen were told Monday night.

That report was made by Alderman William M. Glovsky, chairman of the Aldermanic legislation committee.

By a 16-0 vote the Board of Aldermen adopted a report recommending that no changes in the charter be advocated at this time but that the matter be given further study.

"With certain exceptions there appears to be a real division of thought within the community as to whether any changes in the charter should be made," the report of the Glovsky committee stated.

Alderman Melvin J. Dangel opposed the committee report but left the Aldermanic chamber before it was acted upon, thus allowing a unanimous vote on the resolution which will be forwarded to the Legislature.

Pointing out that the philosophy of the Legislature, as reflected by the Home Rule Amendment, requires a community consensus as to any change in election procedures, the Glovsky committee reported that it had "found no such consensus on major changes.

One of the possible charter changes which has been discussed is that the term of the Mayor be changed from two to four years.

Alderman Dangel told his fellow Aldermanic Board members Monday night that he had filed a bill in the Legislature calling for a four-year term for Newton Mayors without being aware of the Home Rule Amendment.

Dangel based his objection to the report of the Aldermanic legislation committee on two recommendations it contained. These were:

"1—That any vacancy occurring in the office of mayor prior to the last portion of the regular term be filled by a special election, and that a vacancy occurring toward the end of the term not be filled except by the president of the board (and next by the vice-president), as provided in the present charter.

"2.—That vacancies on the Board of Aldermen and School Committee occurring in the last six months of a two-year term remain vacant until after the next election and then be filled, at the election of the board and or the School Committee (as the case may be) with the successful candidate subject possibly to meet the possibility of wholesale vacancies on the board or School Committee."

Included among the other finds by the committee headed by Alderman Glovsky were these statements:

"That there appears to be a real difference of opinion in the community as to whether the municipal election ballot is confusing, although the committee believes there is a significant degree of confusion.

"That there is at present a consensus in the community that the size of the School Committee should not be changed; that there is at present a consensus that the term of the Board of Aldermen and the School Committee should remain at two years.

"That while there is some support for reducing the size of the Board of Aldermen, the preponderant opinion appears to favor retaining the present use; that while there is considerable sentiment favoring a four-year term for the mayor, there is significant opposition to increasing the term of the office of the mayor."

A Half A Case Is Better Than None

It wasn't a particularly hot night last Saturday evening but one man apparently developed a thirst he was unable to control.

He walked nonchalantly into the Town Line Wine Shop, picked up a full case of beer and strolled out the door. Yerbie D. Lewis, on duty in the store at the time, gulped and took after the avid beer-lover.

In the ensuing altercation the thirsty soul lost about half the beer on the sidewalk but did manage to get the remainder into his car and took off for his Saturday night social.

Mayor Provides Official 'Ear' At City Hall For Youthful Citizens

Mayor Monte G. Basbas today announced a significant step in his drive to develop even greater recreational, social and educational resources to serve Newton teen-agers during their after-school leisure time.

"Newton is rightfully proud," said Mayor Basbas, "of its record of meeting the needs of youth; our school system, recreational facilities and youth programs, public and private, are among the finest in the country.

"On the other hand, we are also aware that many youth in Newton do not feel included among those served by the city, and their disaffection (and resentment(is reflected in part in the informal and formal juvenile courts, the small but increasing alcohol problems, and unnecessary vocational and academic failure."

The Mayor went on to say that despite the "remarkable efforts and co-operation" of private citizens, agencies and religious organizations with the city government and School Department, the City of Newton must turn its ear to the voice of the teen-agers themselves, for who better knows—if not solutions—the problems and confusing elements of growing up in mid-Twentieth Century America?

"To this end," he continued, "I am placing in my front office at City Hall a personal representative, whose major concern will be to listen personally to every teen-ager who has an idea, complaint or interest pertaining to city government as it affects his life, and to refer these ideas to myself and appropriate departments or commissions.

"I not only welcome, but also urge every teen-age citizen of Newton to accept his responsibility to himself and his city, and participate through my Representative for Youth in the planning and execution of dynamics of new programs for a dynamic generation.

"Youth may utilize this service of the Mayor's office without appointment, during the hours from 9 a.m. to 5:00 p,m., Monday through Friday," Mayor Basbas said.

Police Catch Local Youths In Gang Fight

Watertown police broke up a gang fight Monday night at the east junior high school playground, Watertown, that resulted in the arrest of 13 Newton youths, six of whom were juveniles. Police reported that most of those taking part were armed with lead pipes, knifes, razor and heavy chains.

The youthe were arraigned in Waltham District Court Tuesday, and were also charged with having an unregistered car containing liquor in their possession.

A contingent of Watertown police arrived in time to prevent serious injuries and to apprehend those involved. Police said that the bad feeling developed last week as an aftermath of a fight at the playground in which a Watertown boy had his nose injured. The Newton youths then returned to the Mt. Auburn St. Playground, it was alleged, to seek retaliation.

Accidents And Heart Attacks Keep Police And Hospital Busy

Four persons, two of them heart attack victims, were assisted to the hospital by police over last weekend.

Joseph Finn, 51, of 220 Greenwood St., Newton Centre, and Florence Toppan, 62, of 34 Fairway Dr., West Newton, were hospitalized with heart seizures. Police used oxygen on the way to the hospital.

Carlo Lombardo, 71, of 32 Freeman St., Auburndale, was taken to Newton-Wellesley Hospital by police. He was treated there for chest pains.

Mrs. Anna L. Caldwell, 56, of 8 Walnut Pk., Newton, coordinator of curriculum in the Newton schools, was injured Saturday afternoon in a fall in front of 305 Centre St., Newton. At Newton-Wellesley Hospital she was treated for an injured right shoulder and a lacerated right knee.

The area at Harvard St. and Newtonville Ave., scene of numerous accidents and a spot for which mothers are urging the installation of a traffic light, had one more mishap Friday afternoon, when John Guilford, 7, of 345 Newtonville Ave., was struck by a car. At Newton-Wellesley Hospital he was treated for head and arm injuries. According to police, the car's driver was Hector U. Gonzales, 18 Ashley St., Boston.

Four other accidents involving injuries were reported during Friday. Patrolman James D. Coletti of 66 Goddard St., Newton Highlands, and his 13-year-old daughter, Carol, were hurt in a two-car accident at Adams and Washington Sts., Newton. At the hospital the father was treated for a head and knee injury, and the daughter for a broken hand and head, back and eye injuries. Also injured was a dog in the car. It had to be treated by a vet. Police said the car that collided with the patrolman's was driven by Dominick E. Costa of Waltham.

In a three-car crash at Beacon St. and Hammond Pond Pkwy, Chestnut Hill, four were injured. The drivers, as listed by police, were Anthony Gildare of Brighton, Arthur D. Watson of Medford and Carol A. Cormier, 104 Adams Ave., West Newton. Treated at Newton-Wellesley Hospital were Gildare with a head injury, and Albert Fitzgibbons of Brookline, his passenger, with head and shoulder injuries. Alice Ahern of Belmont and Caroline Desmarais of Melrose, passengers in the Watson car, were also treated at the hospital.

Three were injured when a car police said was operated by Mrs. Dorothy H. Crosby, 353 Lowell Ave., Newtonville, was hit by an alleged hit-run driver at Pearl St., near Jewett St., Newton. Mrs. Crosby and her two passengers said they would be treated by a physician.

On Saturday morning, a car operated by Peter DeFelice, 53 Margaret Rd., Newton Highlands, hit a tree at 10 Francis St., Newton Centre. DeFelice claimed injuries.

There was another three-car crash Sunday night, when the car of a Wellesley man hit a tree on Fuller St., Waban.

Tax Receipts Come To City

A sales and meals tax funds distribution of $59,765.96 to the city of Newton has been announced by State Tax Commissioner Guy J. Rizzotto and State Treasurer Robert Q. Quinn.

This interim distribution, Commissioner Rizzotto stated, was in line with a previously announced intention to distribute such tax receipts on a monthly basis to improve the cash flow position of the Commonwealth's cities and towns.

John E. Pierce of 290-A Derby St., West Newton, achieved perfect attendance during two years of study at Wentworth Institute, Boston.
